TRUMAN CALLS AIDS TO DRAFT LABOR POLICIES

Considers Keeping WLB Setup

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14—President Truman, in a search for a labor policy, will confer this week with administration officials on measures to stem the flood of strikes that are retarding reconversion of industry from war to peace production.

Despite his dismissal last week of the ebullition of strikes as "not serious—just a blow-up after a letdown from war," Mr. Truman has decided that something effective must be done to check the impediments to the industrial revival upon which the country's immediate welfare depends.

WLB Summoned

Among the officials with whom he will confer are the members of the war labor board, which is in process of liquidation recently announced by the President. Board members have been summoned to a White House conference tomorrow. Mr. Truman's plan was to replace this body with machinery for the settlement of labor disputes evolved by the labor-management conference he has called to meet in Washington Nov. 5.

In the emergency created by strikes of half a million men in key industries, however, the President is considering temporary retention of the board to deal with the current strikes and with 500 more impending strikes, notices of which have been filed with the national labor relations board. If the board should be revitalized pending the action of the labor-management conference it would be called upon to work out a policy of wage and price stabilization in collaboration with other agencies.

Discuss Price Rises

Most of the current and impending strikes are for increases in pay. The unions are seeking to retain for 40 hours work a week the war time take-home pay, which with overtime was equivalent to pay for 52 hours work. Thus the increase they are demanding is 30 per cent. Employers generally have been willing to agree on increases of 10 to 15 per cent. Administration officials are discussing the feasibility of a policy permitting wage advances of 15 to 20 per cent with commensurate increase of prices, notwithstanding the inflation that would be entailed thereby.

So far, the only labor policy of the Truman administration is that contained in the President's executive order of Aug. 18 authorizing the war labor board to approve such wage increases "as may be necessary to correct maladjustment or inequities which would interfere with the effective transition to a peace time economy." The only rule adopted to carry out this order was that voluntary wage increases would be allowed if they did not require a compensatory increase of prices.

Confusion Reigns

Confusion in economic policies has reigned ever since V-J day. The OPA instituted a slow "decontrol" policy while the war production board abolished controls precipitately, particularly in building restrictions and construction material. With the WLB ordered to liquidate by Dec. 15 there was no peace time agency to handle wage disputes.

The failure of the administration to establish effective labor and price policy up to date has resulted in mounting sentiment in congress in favor of legislation to meet the crisis. Pending are bills to establish machinery to deal with strikes and to liberalize the Wagner labor relations act. Rep. Smith [D., Va.] is the leader of a movement to repeal the Smith-Connally act, which so far from discouraging strikes is merely requiring the government to foot the expense of strike votes.

Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], co-author of the act, today advocated repeal of a section under which the NLRB conducts strike votes.

Acts in Tieup After Wage Parley Fails

Boston, Mass., Oct. 15 [Monday] (AP)—The commonwealth of Massachusetts took over the operation and management of the strike-bound Eastern Massachusetts Street railway at 12:01 a. m. [Chicago time] today.

Gov. Maurice J. Tobin's executive order by which the state seized the lines was the first use of his special emergency powers given him at the outset of the war by the legislature.

Tobin said that altho the railway was now in the hands of the commonwealth, nothing will be done on the actual operation of the buses until the 10 striking locals vote this morning on whether they will return.

Conference Fails

Tobin's action came after several hours of futile effort to bring management and the AFL union together on disputed wage issues.

Prior to issuing the order to take over the company, which serves more than a million patrons in the eastern section of the state with buses and street cars, Tobin gave the opposing factions a half hour to settle their issues.

When 50 minutes had passed without a break in the deadlock, he sent the seizure order to Marblehead for the signature of Acting State Secretary Paul Howard.

Series of Parleys Held

A spokesman for the governor said the order meant that henceforth the railway and bus operators would be regarded as working for the commonwealth.

From before noon until late in the evening, Tobin, Chairman Charles H. Cole of the state board of conciliation and arbitration, and representatives of management and the Amalgamated Street, Electric, and Motor Coach Employes of America, held a series of conferences at the state house. The strike affects 1,800 union employes.

Cole went from one conference to the other repeatedly with proposals and counter-proposals but each side refused to budge.

Bonus Offer Rejected

The men walked out at 4 a. m. yesterday after demanding a pay raise to $1.25 an hour for drivers now getting 97 cents. Tobin's order, said the men, under state supervision, would receive current scales until arbitration had been completed and that any raises would be made retroactive to the time the state took over control.

The company had offered an immediate $100 bonus to the men, with another bonus of $25 before Christmas but they refused the offer.

The system serves many of the state's leading industrial cities, including Lawrence, Lowell, Fall River, Haverhill, and Taunton.

Thousands of churchgoers had to depend today on friendly motorists to drive them to services.

Reports Dock Strike End

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—John A. Burke, United States conciliation commissioner, said tonight that the 14 day old strike of 35,000 to 60,000 longshoremen in New York harbor was "definitely over." Burke made his statement following a tour of the New York waterfront, where shipping had been paralyzed since Oct. 1.

"More than 4,000 men were at work today," the statement said.

THE REAL SQUAWK AGAINST MacARTHUR

Scores of GIs Robbed; Sleep on Floor Here

Soldiers and sailors who, during the war, came to look upon Chicago as the nation's most hospitable city to service men, in many cases are finding their stay here en route home from separation centers anything but pleasant, a survey disclosed last night.

Hundreds nightly, unable to find rooms in jammed hotels, are sleeping on floors, in building lobbies, in railway stations, anywhere they can find a place to park.

Other scores are being robbed each night of their severance pay and personal valuables, including railway tickets, sometimes by chance tavern acquaintances, other times by women they meet on the street.

Centers Always Filled

The service men's centers at 176 W. Washington st., 430 S. Michigan av., and 50 E. 49th st., which have 1,356 beds for enlisted men, are filled every week-end. Men also sleep in the lounges.

Forty service men slept Saturday night on the basement floor of the Y. M. C. A. hotel at 826 S. Wabash av. "It has been this way every week-end for more than a year," said Kenneth James, assistant manager. "They just can't find a place to sleep."

A reporter Saturday night trailed groups of service men as they went from hotel to hotel in the loop and on the near north side, seeking a place to sleep. Everywhere the answer was the same: "Sorry, no rooms."

Drop Out by Dawn

By dawn the soldiers, sailors, and marines began dropping out of the race. They dropped, literally, in their tracks—in hallways on Wabash av., against fruit stores under the elevated on Van Buren st., against marble columns on La Salle st. They slept sitting with their knees drawn under their chins, and they slept sprawled on newspapers on concrete sidewalks.

Reports of service men being robbed by chance acquaintances are now a commonplace story to civilian employes at train terminals, Red Cross workers, and military policemen and shore patrolmen. A canvass of workers at the Travelers Aid offices in five large railway terminals revealed an average of five complaints nightly at each.

Robbed of $550, Ticket

A veteran guard at the Union station said he personally handled two complaints Saturday night. One involved a soldier who had spent three years in the Pacific. He was solicited by a woman on the street near the station and accompanied her to a flat where he had several drinks. Later he was robbed of $550 and his railway ticket.

Relatives, informed by railway employes, sent him money to return home.

The other complaint involved a soldier who wore three stars on his campaign ribbon. He had several glasses of beer in a tavern. When he came to, he said, his $150, including his severance pay, was gone.

Military authorities said service men at separation centers are given their severance pay in check form, and advised to mail the check home. The soldier receives a month's pay in cash, and allowance of 5 cents a mile to his destination.

WAC TAKES DARE, KISSES EISENHOWER ON HIS 55TH BIRTHDAY

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 14 (AP)—WAC Pvt. Betty Rising of Middletown, Conn., acting on a dare, gave Gen. Eisenhower a birthday kiss today before more than 20,000 GIs. The general laughed heartily as the brunette climbed into his box at a football game and planted a solid kiss.

In other ways, too, the game turned out to be a surprise party for the supreme commander on his 55th birthday. He was visibly moved when the spectators arose during the half and sang "Happy birthday, dear general." Later he climbed out in front of the stands to pose for hundreds of soldier camera fans, and even raced Gen. Patton across the gridiron. Patton received a big ovation from the stands.

The 508th parachute regiment's eleven won the game with a United States forces European theater team, 22 to 14. Frank Grigonis of Calumet City, Ill., former Detroit Lions back, paced the winners with a touchdown and a field goal.

Burglars Steal Revolver Used to Guard Home

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—Mrs. Catherine Heinle kept a loaded .32 caliber revolver in her home to use in case a burglar attempted to break in. Early today while she was away somebody entered the Heinle home and stole the revolver.

Cook Admits Striking 1st in Hotel Killing

Donald Jay Cook, 16, former Senn High school pupil, who killed his friend, Morton Stein, 16, in their room in the Stevens hotel May 11, admitted last night he struck first when the two quarreled over a division of the proceeds of several burglaries.

Donald Jay Cook

After his capture at Gretna, La., Cook asserted that Stein had attempted to slash him with a hunting knife. He was subjected to a lie detector test yesterday soon after Lt. Philip Breitzke of the police homicide bureau returned him to Chicago from New Orleans, La.

Admits Part in Burglaries

Cook, then 15, said he met Stein last April. Stein, he said, committed several burglaries in which he either acted as "lookout," or had "cased" [described the premises] the places looted.

"I thought Stein was insane and I was afraid of him," Cook related to Assistant State's Atty. Blair Varnes. "Finally, I told him I wanted to blow and that I wanted the rest of my money."

Cook estimated the loot totaled $300 or $400 and covered their expenses on an excursion to New York. Stein, former Von Steuben High school pupil who lived at 4932 N. Kedzie av., always handled their money, Cook said. Soon after their return to Chicago, Cook said he decided to break off his relations with Stein.

Hints Self-Defense

"We were lying together on the bed when Stein told me he wanted to go out on another burglary," Cook said. "I told him I wanted to clear out and asked him for my share of the money. Stein rolled over and reached for his blackjack and a knife lying on a table."

Cook said he got the blackjack first and struck Stein several times. The blackjack split. Then as they struggled, Cook said he grabbed the knife and stabbed Stein eight times.

Melville Cook, an uncle of the slayer, was uncertain whether he and the boy's mother, Mrs. Isabel Edwards, would retain an attorney to defend him against a probable murder charge.

FORMER VICHY PREMIER FACES FIRING SQUAD

Maquis Volunteer to Shoot Traitor

PARIS, Oct. 14 (AP)—Pierre Laval will be executed at 10 a. m. [4 a. m. Chicago time] tomorrow by a 12 man firing squad, an official spokesman said tonight.

Pierre Laval

All members of the court that tried and convicted Laval for intelligence with the enemy and acts against the security of France have been summoned to Fort Chatillon, where Frenchmen branded as traitors are shot.

Among those informed that an automobile would be waiting to take them to the fort, south of Paris, were Paul Mongibeaux, president of the court that heard the case; Andre Mornet, the prosecutor; Pierre Bouchardon, president of the commission of inquiry; Laval's attorneys, and the state's official physician.

Chained to Wall of Cell

Tonight Laval, dressed in the condemned man's sack cloth, was chained to a wall of his tiny cell in death row.

His wife heard the announcement broadcast by radio France tonight. She and other members of his family last saw him when he was taken from the palace of justice Tuesday after the court condemned him.

Because he was found by French justice to be a traitor the swarthy Laval will not be offered the last glass of rum and the last cigaret that most condemned men receive.

He probably will be buried in Thiais cemetery by the state, but his family later may move the casket to another plot.

Firing Squad Volunteers

Laval will be shot in front of a stone wall by 12 soldiers from the 150th infantry regiment—all maquis [underground resistance] men—who asked for the job. Eleven bullets will be fired, the 12th being a blank. Reporters and photographers will be barred from the fort as is usual during executions ordered by the French high court.

The ancient fort was the site last week of the execution of Joseph Darnand, Vichy gestapo leader, and Jean Paquis, the French "Lord Haw Haw." Laval has been locked in Chatillon's death row since his dramatic trial ended last Tuesday.

Mornet, as Laval's prosecutor, must be present when France claims the supreme penalty from the man her high court found guilty of collaboration with Germany.

Fight in Vain for New Trial

Since Laval's trial ended his attorneys have fought a bitter battle to get him back in the courtroom on the claim they had new evidence to prove he furnished intelligence to the allies thru the Swiss while he was head of the Vichy government. They also have maintained Laval was prepared at one time to turn over the government to Gen. De Gaulle.

Defense counsel yesterday had an audience with De Gaulle, but no official statements were issued. De Gaulle had announced Friday that a second trial would not be granted.

Calls It Historic Crime

PARIS, Oct. 14 [Reuters] — The official decision fixing the execution of Pierre Laval for tomorrow morning was conveyed to the former Vichy premier by his lawyers late this afternoon. They said Laval received the announcement "calmly and courageously" and talked about his wife and daughter.

His only comment on the execution was "this historic crime is being carried thru to the bitter end. I only hope history will reëstablish justice."

After completing farewell letters to his wife, his daughter, the Countess Rene de Chambrun, and his lawyers, Laval yesterday said to his warders: "Give me a loaded revolver. It would make things so much simpler."

Martial Law Declared for Java's Capital

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BATAVIA, Java, Oct. 15 [Monday]—Maj. Gen. D. C. Hawthorn, commander of allied land forces in Java, yesterday proclaimed martial law in Batavia, forbidding Indonesians, except the uniformed police, to carry arms, strike, set up road blocks or refuse to sell food to the Dutch, Eurasians or other non-Indonesians. Copies of the proclamation were posted over the city.

The order said offenders may be sentenced to death. Execution was also said to be possible for persons convicted of sabotage or looting.

According to the proclamation, military administration will be set up in other areas of the East Indies as they are occupied by allied forces. So far allied troops, British, Indian, and Dutch, are present only in the Batavia area, with the exception of a few officers scattered over the Indies to assist in the evacuation of war prisoners and internees.

The proclamation said all services now operated by the Japanese will continue in Japanese hands until taken over by the military administration.

Native followers of Dr. Sockarno have issued a call for a general work stoppage in the area of Batavia and for a Mohammedan "holy war" against the "Dutch infidels." The natives were instructed to see to it that all forms of traffic in Batavia, including trolleys, automobiles, taxis, and horse-drawn vehicles, were brought to a standstill.

Complete Occupation Needed

Two months after Jap capitulation, conditions of unrest in Java are going from bad to worse. Unless Indonesian leaders change their stand against compromise and the Dutch show signs of willingness to meet the Nationalists, it appears that complete allied occupation is the only way civil war can be averted in Java. It is quite possible the allies ordered the Dutch at a week-end meeting in Singapore to attempt a settlement with Indonesia.

Batavia was heavy with additional British troops last night following the proclamation of martial law, but increasing violence was reported inland. One unconfirmed report said Indonesians killed 12 Dutchmen and nine Dutch women in the village of Tjabatoe and were exhibiting their bodies in the public square.

Throw Bodies in River

At a village 12 miles north of Batavia, Indonesians took a number of Europeans and Eurasians from a train Friday and killed them, Aneta news agency said. A Eurasian eyewitness said the bodies of the victims, including a European girl, had been thrown in a river.

Twenty persons, including three Dutch and many Japanese, were killed in the last three days in the Java town of Garut. Aneta said Japanese troops from Bandoeng, 35 miles from Garut, restored order, arriving in time to save 60 Dutch from execution.

At Bandoeng, Indonesians asked aid from British officers to recover 12 bodies of men killed in a clash with Japanese at an ammunition shop outside the city. A British party investigating found, instead of 12, one Indonesian was killed and another injured when Nationalists attempted to take the building from the Japs. A Jap convoy moving along a road outside Ban-

ARMY TO PROBE STARVATION OF NAZIS IN FRANCE

CIVILIAN SUFFERING

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

FRANKFORT, Germany, Oct. 14—American officers have been sent to France to make a complete investigation of conditions in German prisoner of war camps there and report to allied headquarters.

Photographs taken at the camps by International Red Cross investigators show long rows of emaciated German prisoners. One allied officer compared them with pictures taken at Dachu, the most infamous of the German concentration camps.

Many officers feel that the army's honor has been sullied by the manner in which the French have treated their prisoners.

Will Accept 200,000

It is believed that the army is willing to accept custody of 200,000 Germans from the French, including all those suffering from malnutrition, exhaustion or disease, out of the total of more than 600,000 Germans turned over to the French. The number of those accepted may rise with the findings of the American investigation teams.

Those Germans who are able to travel will be transfered to American prison camps in the American zone of Germany while the others will be moved to American hospitals and rest camps in France. If the French agree to raise the caloric ration for the remaining prisoners the army is willing to provide medicinal needs, blankets, and other necessities.

A suggestion made in French newspapers that the prisoners were in poor physical shape when turned over to the French government is contrary to available information, which shows that the prisoners were well fed and healthy when they started for France.

Government Will Lose

Last winter French newspapers frequently criticized the United States army for providing its prisoners with more and better food than the French civilian population was getting.

The army realizes that a return of prisoners will upset a plan whereby the French government would profit by $3,400,000 per day by employment of German prisoners. The French expected to have 1,700,000 German prisoners at work on rehabilitation and reconstruction by next July.

French private employers would pay 150 francs [$3] a day per prisoner to the government. Out of this the prisoner would be allowed 10 francs [20c] per day, depending on production and conduct, with 140 francs going to the French government.

80 Cents a Day for Food

The French estimated it would cost 40 francs a day [80 cents] to feed and house German prisoners, leaving it a net profit of 100 francs per prisoner per day or a total net profit of 170,000,000 francs per day. The total income would be credited by the French government to Germany as reparations.

Another problem facing the United States army is the precarious physical condition of German civilians in the United States zone. This has reëmphasized the importance of deciding immediately whether food is to be imported into the zone this winter.

Medical officers who are alarmed by a gradual undermining of German health are calling for importation of wheat and a raising of the daily ration to 2,000 calories per day. It is estimated that it would be necessary to import 1,250,000 tons of wheat to do this.

A survey published in the weekly military government field report shows that the weight of German adult civilians has dropped from 3.2 to 14.9 per cent under normal.

The report discloses that many

German children are suffering from nutritional deficiencies and loss of weight. The survey reports:

"In general caloric intakes remain inadequate. Protein is often relatively if not absolutely inadequate. The effects of these deficiencies are cumulative and often not at once apparent."

Won't Sell Produce

Military government reports stress serious conditions arising from reluctance of producers to sell their produce for paper money with which they are unable to purchase necessities.

"This reluctance is reflected in holding back on deliveries and in lower production due to lack of incentive," the report says.

The military government is making it possible for food supplies to move freely between surplus and deficit areas. As an example the office of the military government for Bavaria was instructed to have the Bavarian food office release to the food office for Baden-Wurttemberg 1,800 tons of bread grains for the period of Sept. 29 to Oct. 5, and 12,400 tons of bread grains for the period of Oct. 10 to Nov. 7. Despite these measures the food intake continues below normal.

Children Below Normal

Figures for caloric consumption in the zone range from 1,480 to 1,800 calories per day for a normal consumer [minimum health requirement 2,000] and from 1,900 to 2,300 for moderate and heavy workers [minimum requirement 2,700 and 3,200]. Many pregnant and nursing women still receive only about 1,800 calories [minimum requirement 2,700]. Children below 10 have caloric intakes of around 1,500 to 1,600 calories [minimum requirement 1,500 to 2,000] while for those over 10 the figure is 1,700 to 2,000 compared with a minimum need of 2,700.

Physical examinations of 10,000 Germans during the period continue to show loss of weight at a period when the people should be building up reserve strength for the winter.

From 12 to 19 per cent of the children up to three years of age were found to be more than 10 per cent under normal standards, while the percentage is increased to 36 per cent of children three to nine years old and 40 per cent of children aged 10 to 20.

END STRIKE; VET SENIORITY ISSUE LEFT TO COURT

East Alton, Ill., Oct. 14 (AP)—Settlement of a three week old strike which has kept 5,000 employes idle at the Western Cartridge company plant was announced today by the company and the AFL union plant committee.

The question of seniority rights of returning veterans—principal issue in the strike called Sept. 24 by the International Association of Machinists—will be submitted to the Springfield district of the United States District court for a declaratory judgment, the announcement said.

W. C. Hambleton, business representative for IAM, said such a judgment would determine specifically the rights of nonveterans to continue to hold jobs in the plant. Pending the court ruling, the company said that all nonveterans as well as returning veterans will be retained in their present jobs. The company's position on the issue was that, under provisions of the selective service act, returning veterans should displace nonveterans regardless of seniority.

BRITISH RETURN 2 LEND LEASE FRIGATES TO U. S.

New York, Oct. 14 [Special]—British colors were lowered from the masts of two small warships at the navy yard in Brooklyn today as the United States formally assumed control of the vessels, first of a number of American lend-lease ships to be returned here by their British crews. The speedy 300 foot frigates built in this country were used mainly for protecting frate and troop convoys against submarines. Seventy-eight in all had been turned over to the British navy, 20 of which were either sunk or damaged.

ESCAPED LITHS TELL OF RUSSIAN PRISON HORRORS

Thousands of Baltic Peoples Enslaved

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 14—Stories of Russian deportations and enslavement of recently Russified nations leak from refugees here, notwithstanding the Swedish order against Baltic "political propaganda."

From Lithuanians, who are petitioning Washington to free their little country from Russia, came a story today of two of their nationals who were induced to leave Sweden supposedly for their homeland, only to find themselves in Russian concentration camps with thousands of other Baltic people—Estonians and Latvians—as well as Lithuanians. Some Poles, Czechs, and Bessarabians also were in the camp.

Their names are deleted from this account for two reasons: there is fear of punishment for relatives remaining across the Baltic sea; and second, the informants are impressed by a circular from the Swedish "Commission for Foreigners," saying that the king objects to any one attempting to dissuade refugees from returning home, and that political propaganda is forbidden.

Given Spending Money

Regardless of that, however, the two Lithuanians, after escape from the Russian forced labor camp, told their stories here.

Russian agents in Stockholm told them last fall they would be given the opportunity to return to their former homes and former jobs. They were given clothes, provisions, and even spending money, and embarked with a party of others for Abo, Finland. Thence they went by train to Viborg, Finnish port acquired by Russia as World War II. reparations.

The party from Sweden was met at the railroad station by armed Russian guards and marched to a barbed wire inclosure outside the city. Their heads were clipped and they were assigned bare board benches for beds. Their baggage was stolen. The food was bad and skimpy. This was the treatment accorded about 2,000 men in the camp, according to the pair who later escaped.

Transferred to Camp

After two weeks in Viborg, doing various labor jobs, always under guard, the two Lithuanians were transferred to Kalinin, a concentration camp 78 miles northwest of Moscow. There were 1,500 in the camp. Some were liberated Russians, prisoners of war, later freed. Poles were transferred to camps in Poland. Many Latvians were assigned to prison trains en route to Siberia and the Caucasus, while others were dispatched to Moscow to dig latrines.

New arrivals replaced those who left. Last March a train arrived after a 12 day trip from Kalvariji with 60 Lithuanian women. They had been locked in the car for the entire trip, receiving four slices of bread with water daily as their only rations, according to the informants.

The women told fellow prisoners they did not know why they were deported. Police notified them at their homes they should report at police headquarters, and that they would be gone only a couple of hours.

Live on Cabbage

At the station, they said, they were locked in basement cells, and could not get out until they were loaded into the train. The new arrivals said terror and horror reigned in Lithuania. Many were in hiding, and many had been shot.

They said the Moscow plan calls for deportation to Russia of 700,000 Lithuanians of the 3 million who resided in their homeland at the outbreak of this war. Approximately a million Lithuanians and former Lithuanians live in America. About 500 are refugees in Sweden.

At the Kalinin camp, according to the former inmates, many became insane, and some attempted suicide. The daily diet consisted of cabbage soup in the morning, and cabbage and porridge in the evening. Sanitation was primitive, and there was no hygiene or nursing for many who were sick. Those physically able worked in fabric factories 10 hours a day. Those too weak worked in camp.

Escape from Tug Boat

The two Lithuanians were transferred after six months in Kalinin to a forced labor camp near Tallinn, where the inmates were mostly Estonians.

The pair were dressed in Russian army uniforms, and assigned to jobs on tug boats. Ten days later a tug crossed the Gulf of Finland to Helsinki for a tow. The Lithuanians jumped ship and started the long journey to return to Sweden.

The men, hiding from the Russian and Finnish communist police, walked approximately 300 miles north from Helsinki to Lahti and thence to Kokkola. At Kokkola they found a boat and rowed for 25 hours to Umnea, Sweden.

BRITAIN TO DOUBLE NUMBER OF TROOPS UNLOADING SHIPS

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The government today assigned additional troops to unload vital foodstuffs as 1,000 Middlesboro workers voted to return to their jobs, the first indication of a break in Great Britain's three week old wildcat dock strike involving 50,000 stevedores.

All but 16 striking clerks of the port of London authority also indicated a willingness to return. The British Press association reported other workers at Tilbury and at two large docks in the London city area were likely to end their walkout tomorrow.

No immediate end to the strike was in sight, however, as strikers in Clydesside [Glasgow], Merseyside [Liverpool], Leith, Hull, and Grimsby decided to remain idle.

REDS TRAPPED IN BERLIN BLACK MARKET GO FREE

BERLIN, Oct. 14 (AP)—British troops, led by tanks, charged into the Tiergarten, heart of Berlin's black market, Saturday afternoon and rounded up 2,000 persons, including a number of Russians identified officially as "senior officers."

British military police said today that the Russians were among those questioned and later released. Their names were taken and turned over to Russian military police, but not made public.

The bulk of those snared were German civilians, but some British troops were also taken into custody. A number of American soldiers were in the Tiergarten at the time of the raid, but they were quicker of eye and fleeter of foot than the others and not a single one was caught.

Major General Questioned

A British officer who could not be quoted by name said a major general was among the Russians questioned. The officer said the Russian explained he was merely driving thru the Tiergarten at the time of the raid.

Lt. Col. T. C. Irvine, deputy provost marshal of British troops in Berlin, declined to confirm or deny that any Red army generals were rounded up, saying only that some "senior officers" were questioned.

The British said that 25 civilians, described as the Tiergarten's biggest operators, were being held and would be tried. All the others were released after giving their names.

British military police engineered the raid with German civilian police participating.

Headed by four tanks and a fleet of armored cars, the raiders charged into the closely packed crowds in what was the most ambitious effort to date to break up the illicit dealings.

Today the Tiergarten was virtually deserted, but business was picking up considerably in the Alexanderplatz in the Russian zone, which up to now had been a subsidiary of the Tiergarten.

Islands of fighting broke out all over the Tiergarten when the raiders descended. Many of those hauled away had cracked heads.

Nab Biggest Operators

Civilian "creepers"—Americans would call them "plants"—filtered into the crowd before the main body of raiders charged into the Tnergarten and collared many of the biggest operators.

The British said these included a Chinese identified as the chieftain of the silk stocking racketeers, and a gypsy woman who headed a "jewelry trust."

One amply proportioned German girl who had American cigarettes stuffed in her bosom and elsewhere upon her person indignantly demanded her release, saying she had a date with an American soldier.

She is one of the 25 being held in jail.

Swiss to End Rationing of Textiles, Coffee, Tea

BERN, Switzerland, Oct. 14 (AP)—Rationing of textiles, coffee, tea, cocoa, and millet products will end in Switzerland tomorrow. Meatless days were abolished in households, but will be retained three days a week in restaurants.

WAR CRIME BODY DELAYS INITIAL SESSION 3 DAYS

Reds Hit Snag in Translation

BERLIN, Oct. 15 [Monday]—(AP)—At the request of Russia the international war crimes tribunal postponed for three days its first formal session which was to have been held today to receive indictments against top German war criminals.

The Russian chief prosecutor, R. A. Rudenko, notified the court that unexpected difficulties in translating the lengthy document caused the request.

The 24 nazi defendants are charged collectively and individually with a multitude of crimes which cost millions of lives—crimes listed one by one in the 35,000 word document.

Will Adjourn to Nuernberg

After filing of the indictment in Berlin, the tribunal is expected to adjourn to Nuernberg for the opening of the trials, the date for which will be set later. The defendants have 30 days in which to prepare their case. It is anticipated that the hearings will begin within the next 35 days.

While those Germans who have been indicted as war criminals are being tried at Nuernberg, representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Russia, and France will carry on deliberations in Berlin on the next important question before the allies in their determination to end German war making.

These deliberations, already underway, concern disposition of Germans not classed as war criminals but who are considered a menace to the future peace of the world.

Officers and Scientists

First among these are German officers of high rank—members of the general staff corps, including officers of equivalent position in the navy and air force, and officers who have demonstrated that they possess capabilities potentially dangerous.

They are all referred to as the "elite group."

In another group are all persons of dangerous skilled capacities, such as the scientists who produced the V weapons and others who have received their doctorate in the fields of chemistry and research.

Still a third group embraces individuals considered more than nominal Nazis. They round out the coterie which could prove dangerous politically, militarily and scientifically in the rebuilding of a strong Germany.

U. S. Opposes Exiling

In the initial high level discussions, it was reported, Great Britain, Russia and France favored an exile of the St. Helena type for German military leaders while the United States dissented.

The United States view was understood to have been based on two main grounds: That exile of the leaders would make them martyrs and that it would bring an immediate clamor by pressure groups for withdrawal of allied occupation troops.

Regardless of what is done with Germany's top military clique, American commanders feel, it will be necessary to occupy Germany for years.

HEAR HUNGARY'S HORTHY WON'T BE TRIED BY ALLIES

Report Russians Fear Magyar Unrest

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 12 [Delayed]—Adm. Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary since the Hapsburgs were ousted after World War I., will not be tried as a war criminal, it was learned today. He will be permitted to live quietly in some neutral country.

Adm. Nicholas Horthy

Horthy is under arrest at Nuernberg, but neither the British nor the Americans can decide with what crime to charge him. Recently the Russians withdrew a demand that Horthy stand trial because they feared it would foment unrest here and interfere with the Hungarian political situation.

Obtain Confessions

Political police obtained a confession from Laszlo de Bardossy, former premier, that he incited the Hungarian parliament into declaring war on Russia by announcing that the Red army bombed Vassa, which was not true.

Former Finance Minister Louis Remenyi-Schneller confessed that under the regime of Premier Nicholas Kallay he shipped 250 pounds of gold bullion owned by Horthy to a Swiss bank where it is now deposited.

Hold 500 War Criminals

The Hungarian government will demand that Switzerland return the metal.

Five hundred Hungarian war criminals are now in prison in Budapest awaiting trial, but their cases cannot come up until after the Nuernberg trials, as many of them will be witnesses against various big time war culprits.

BY HENRY WALES

Authorities believe Count Salm's former wife, Millicent Rogers, is the person meant. The daughter of H. H. Rogers, an heir to a part of the Standard Oil millions, married the Hungarian nearly 20 years ago but later was divorced from him, winning the custody their son, Peter.

WARNS U.S. MUST GET TOUGH TO WIN JUST PEACE

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 14 [Special]—Either the United States will get tough with Soviet Russia and insist on a just peace or the American people will refuse to support the nation's membership in the new world security organization, Bernard J. Adamkiewicz, Milwaukee lawyer, said in a speech this afternoon at a program in Pulaski hall, 3900 East Pulaski av., Cudahy. The program was a memorial to Gen. Casimir Pulaski, Polish hero of the American revolutionary war.

"Already there are signs of a backward swing of the pendulum," said Adamkiewicz. "Up to now there has been much American sentiment in favor of world coöperation. Many soldiers returning home are as disillusioned as our Secretary of State Byrnes seems to be. A great deal now depends upon Byrnes. Either he will profit by his London experience [the London council of foreign ministers has been called a failure] and get tough with Russia, or we will consign the Atlantic charter, Yalta, San Francisco, and Potsdam, to the ash can."

Regarded as Interlopers

Adamkiewicz said that natives of other lands, including our allies, now regard our soldiers as interlopers.

"Our allies insinuate that we still owe them billions of dollars," he said, "implying that they did so much more than we in winning the war. Their attitude is creating a sentiment in this country not only against long years of occupation on the part of our troops abroad, but even against armed service adequate to hold up our end as a great power—a dangerous situation."

Adamkiewicz asked his Polish-American audience the question: "Will we be a party to a peace in the world that will spell nothing but servitude, political dependence, subjection, slavery, for all European and Asiatic nations?"

Bring Peace, Happiness

"The mighty principles of freedom and democracy, which inspired the revolutionary movements of the 18th century, and for which Pulaski fought and laid down his life, found their permanent home in this country where they brought lasting happiness, peace, and prosperity.

"In the minds of Americans today there lurks the fear that the wisdom and greatness of American democracy is no longer as strong and sound as it was at the outbreak of World War II."

Milwaukee Poles also held a meeting at Federation Hall, 2325 S. 13th st. Before the meeting, members of the Pulaski council of Milwaukee, a federation of 76 Polish groups, sponsoring the observance, placed a wreath at the foot of the Pulaski monument in Pulaski park, S. 16th st. and W. Windlake av. Adamkiewicz also spoke at this meeting. Frank Gregorski, a lawyer, was chairman.

BRITISH DEFEAT NATIVES TO HOLD SAIGON AIRPORT

Push Annamese 2 Miles from Field

SAIGON, Indo China, Oct. 14 (AP)—British forces beat off an Annamese threat to capture the Saigon airport, Saigon's only link with the outside world, as fighting continued today between rebellious Indo Chinese and British and French reoccupation troops.

R. A. F. units, aided by 100 Japanese soldiers, staged a pre-dawn attack on the natives, who had assembled within 300 yards of the control tower at the airport. After a three hour clash, the Annamese were pushed two miles from the airstrip.

Gurkhas of the British Indian army repulsed an Annamese attempt to cross the Saigon river, after an attack on docks there, a bulletin said.

Battle in Saigon

Mortar and machine gun fire was exchanged in Saigon itself this morning. French officials said this was touched off by an attempt by the Annamese to infiltrate into the market place area, with probable Japanese collaboration. The natives used grenades, but only one French soldier was wounded.

Several large fires were started by the action. The Annamese have threatened to burn down all of Saigon. Fires raged yesterday in Cholon, a Chinese settlement adjoining Saigon.

The French reported a stalemate in northwest Saigon, where six of their soldiers were killed yesterday. No additional reports were received of fighting west of the city, where the French have killed 100 Annamese and two Japanese officers.

Japs Aiding Natives

In other sectors, British ran into ambushes and exchanged shots with the natives. Two Annamese were killed in an attack on the Hyderabad unit post, and others were dispersed by mortar fire. Sniping continued at the Saigon power house.

The British are attempting to open a line of communication outside of Saigon, so that they can disarm 70,000 to 80,000 Japanese. These troops, who armed and trained Annamese during the war, now are openly aiding the natives in their uprising.

Under the British policy, which recognizes the pre-war status of the French here, captured Annamese will be turned over to the French as civil insurgents, but captured Japanese who have aided the natives will be held as enemies continuing resistance.

"Sold Out by Vichy"

The Annamese have appealed to the allies on grounds that they were sold out by the Vichy administration before the outbreak of the war with Japan. They asserted that Vichy signed an economic agreement with the Japanese, aimed at "undermining the national front and repressing liberation."

When the allies landed in Normandy, the Japanese ceased to trust French colonial rule and disarmed and arrested French forces in Indo-China almost without opposition, the Annamese maintain. The Viet Minh party took the position that this act ended 80 years of French rule, as far as the Annamese were concerned.

Guerrilla War Likely

Nationalist newspapers in the last few days have talked of violence. One pamphlet said, "If you feel like cutting throats, cut them." It added that prosecution would be so slow as to be totally ineffective.

Any organized armed fight by Indonesians would undoubtedly be short lived, but guerrilla warfare could be conducted for years. And from the temper of the people that appears likely if the Dutch attempt, with allied permission, to restore their rule.

Civil war would be nothing new to Indonesia, contrary to the world's belief that this land of the sarong has been a paradise of peace. Since the days of the first Dutch traders, the Indonesians have been ruled by arms. And the Indonesians, pictured in travelogs as lovers of feasts and dances, objected.

Will Not Compromise

In 1926 there was a revolution about which the outside world knew little but in which the nationalists now say 10,000 Indonesians were killed and 60,000 were jailed. In 1940 official Dutch reports showed 1,800 Indonesians were being held in one New Guinea prison, where they had been sent for political activities. Thousands were exiled elsewhere, including both Dr. Soekarno and Hatta, the president and vice president of the self-proclaimed "republic."

The nationalist leaders say they would under no circumstances make a compromise in their demands for complete independence, but would coöperate with British troops should they be sent here.

Set Up Road Blocks

Contrary to the claims of Soekarno and other nationalist leaders the Indonesians have not disarmed the Jap troops here. The Japs, on foot, in trucks, and in tanks, patrol the streets. For a few days the Indonesians, armed with guns and spears, did control the airport but when, Jap troops reappeared at the airport under orders of the allies, the Indonesians evacuated without a fight.

The Indonesians have set up many road blocks along the highway from Batavia. Our car, flying the American flag, was stopped about 20 times, mostly in sharp curves where the road crosses a 6,000 foot high pass. At sight of the American colors, the Indonesians cleared away logs, benches, fences, ropes, and other impediments they employed to halt all traffic.

What would have happened to us had we been Dutch can only be guessed, for no Dutch are traveling the highways now.

Living in luxury in public buildings, Indonesian leaders said today that while they would not protest the arrival of British troops here, allied soldiers are not needed. They admitted the present troubled situation is bad, but said they could disarm the Japs themselves, restore order, and run the city democratically.

Ardi Winanzoen, the Indonesian who was regent for west Java under the Dutch before the war and under the Japs during the war, said the nationalists might not be able to disarm the Japs by force, but added, "We have other ways." Pressed for an explanation, he said the nationalists could use strikes and refuse to sell food to the Japs.

Dutch Troops on Way

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Oct. 14 (AP)—Dutch troops awaiting shipment to the East Indies were ordered tonight to report at once to their barracks as the government speeded its redeployment program in the face of the Indonesian national army's declaration of war.

One battalion left today for England and another for Indonesia, and a third, scheduled to embark Tuesday for England, was ordered to leave Monday instead.

Prof. J. H. A. Logeman, minister of overseas territories, said it was as yet impossible to estimate the scope of the colonial conflict. He added, however, that the government was convinced the war declaration would lead to immediate counter-measures by allied occupation forces in Java.

There will be no official government statement on the crisis until Premier Schermerhorn appears before parliament Tuesday.

CHICAGOAN SAYS HE ALMOST GOT A JAP ADMIRAL

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14 (AP)—Two days after Japan agreed to surrender, a Japanese admiral in command of forces in Amoy offered to capitulate to an American lieutenant commander, but due to an official mixup it wasn't until Sept. 30 that the Chinese city actually was occupied. During that time sizeable forces of the Japanese garrison put to sea to escape internment in China and presumably headed for their homeland.

Such was the story told today by Lt. Comdr. Robert Halperin of Chicago, a former Brooklyn professional football star. Halperin trained and led 3,500 Chinese guerrillas along the southern China coast.

Upon receiving word of the armistice, Halperin went to Amoy to meet the Japanese admiral, who had agreed to surrender to Halperin's forces. But Halperin said he got a stop order from headquarters pending arrival of a high ranking Chinese general who was supposed to accept the surrender. The Chinese, however, were unable to make final arrangements and it wasn't until Sept. 30 that Halperin took over.

LONDON'S STARS AND STRIPES PUT OUT LAST TIME

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The London edition of the Stars and Stripes went to press for the last time today with salutes from President Truman, Gen. Eisenhower, Prime Minister Attlee, and the Times of London.

The Times, in whose building the sprightly United States army newspaper has been published for three years, declared the GI newspaper "was more than an example of reverse lend-lease. Thruout its career it has been a striking example of Anglo-American coöperation."

President Truman congratulated the staff on "upholding a fine tradition and rendering a service to your comrades and our nation." Gen. Eisenhower said the London Stars and Stripes, first of more than 40 army editions published in the European, African, and Pacific war theaters, "pioneered a soldier free press which has grown in stature to command the respect as well as the interest of Americans and their allies." Attlee said he was glad to tell Stars and Stripes readers "how much we in Britain have enjoyed our contacts with them while they have been here."

SOONG CONFERS AT SHANGHAI ON ALIEN BUSINESS

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 14 (AP)—Premier Soong conferred today with representatives of foreign business interests, presumably on the many problems raised in this international port of the abolition of extraterritorial rights.

Soong also conferred with Chinese officials on the disposition of seized Japanese property and asked for a report on the number of collaborators rounded up in the Shanghai area.

Soong came here from Chungking with Finance Minister O. K. Kui to deal with such problems as the reopening of idle factories, the restoration of shipping, the revival of the textile industry and the reduction of unemployment.

JAPS DISSOLVE GENERAL STAFF HEADQUARTERS

Army Organization Disbands Today

TOKYO, Oct. 14 (AP)—Japan's general staff headquarters, nerve center of Nipponese aggression for more than half a century, was formally dissolved today as a prelude to the abolition of the general staff tomorrow.

Japanese officers and officials attended the ceremony. After they had solemnly bowed toward the emperor's palace, Hirohito's rescript on the dissolution was read aloud.

Participants in the ritual of renunciation included Gen. Yoshijiro Umezu, chief of the general staff, who signed the surrender aboard the battleship Missouri on behalf of the armed forces of Japan, and Lt. Gen. Takashiro Kawabe, who went to Manila prior to the surrender to receive Gen. MacArthur's instructions.

Will Broadcast Today

The deadline for complete demobilization of Japan's armed forces has been set for tomorrow. The day after, Gen. MacArthur will broadcast to the United States on military phases of the occupation [6 p. m. tonight, Chicago time].

[W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system will carry Gen MacArthur's broadcast.]

Gen. MacArthur has made only a few broadcasts during the past three and one half years, including one to the United States when his forces landed in the Philippines a year ago and later his historic broadcast from the battleship Missouri during the surrender ceremonies in Tokyo bay.

In line with his task of beating Japanese swords into plowshares, MacArthur today ordered all Japanese stocks of petroleum products—including waste oils—to be made available immediately to essential civilian industries and consumers.

Combine to Dissolve

In addition to these reserves large Japanese petroleum stocks held by allied occupation forces and not being utilized will be released for distribution thru the home ministry. The Japanese will be required to report monthly disposition of these according to consumer categories, such as fishing boats, household fuels, and the like.

The financial newspaper Nippon Sangyo Keizai reported that the first of the zaibatsu [big family industrial-financial combines] to dissolve will be the Yasuda concern. The paper said Hajime Yasuda, chief of the combine which controls 20 corporations and is financially interested in 24 others of all types, will make formal announcement of the dissolution tomorrow.

Emperor Hirohito is greatly concerned over the food problem, Agriculture Minister Kenzo Matsumura said today after reporting to the throne. Matsumura discussed means of obtaining lumber for building dwellings for air raid sufferers, and the problems of maintaining the forestry industry and reviving silk manufacturing.

Hirohito also requested information on the recent storms which the home ministry said had killed 184 persons.

Knows of Abdication Report

Hirohito is fully aware of reports that he contemplates abdication, but he has made no comment, a source close to the throne said today.

The belief of those closest to the emperor is that when Hirohito accepted the Potsdam declaration he obligated himself to carry on at obligated himself to carry on at least until its provisions were fulfilled, the source added. Until then he won't abdicate, the informant said.

The question of what Hirohito and MacArthur discussed at their recent secret meeting at the American embassy is more a question of what MacArthur talked about, the Japanese source said.

"I understand that MacArthur made a 15 minute speech to his majesty," said this source. "What his majesty had wished to say was expressed by MacArthur."

One of Japan's foremost authorities on the constitution said today Emperor Hirohito doesn't believe he is descended from the sun goddess, and the constitution doesn't surround him with such divinity.

"He's Very Democratic"

Tatsuhichi Minobe, former professor of the Tokyo Imperial university, whose interpretations of the constitution angered the militarists and forced his resignation, said the emperor was "a very democratic person."

"There is no scientific basis for the statement that Hirohito is a descendant from heaven," Minobe said. "But in the past we were not allowed to deny or discuss the emperor's origin if it conflicted with militarist teachings."

Minobe, who has been in virtual hiding and whose son was imprisoned 18 months, contended that the Japanese constitution is similar to England's and "can be democratic if properly handled or interpreted. There is no serious obstruction to democracy under the present wording of the constitution."

"Really a Myth"

"The constitution also can be interpreted as giving the emperor the same status as the king of England," he contended, adding that the wording "the emperor is sacred and inviolable doesn't mean he is divine."

"The emperor was made godlike and divine by the militarists for their own reasons," he continued. "But we know that it's really a myth and not a responsibility of the constitution."

A B-29 Super Fortress wing of about 180 planes will be stationed in Japan permanently, Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles, newly named commander of the U. S. strategic air forces, said today. Giles, who succeeded Gen. Spaatz, said, "we are looking for good locations for permanent bases."

Asked how long the force would stay in Japan, he replied, "I hope we will be here a hundred years."

Giles said it also was planned to retain B-29 bases in the Philippines, the Marianas, and on Okinawa.

Niagara Falls Hotel Burns

[Associated Press Wirephoto]

Firemen fighting blaze yesterday in famous 120 year old Cataract House at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

$700,000 Damage

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP)—Fire caused an estimated damage of $700,000 to the 120 year old Cataract House, host to Presidents and European royalty, here today. About 150 guests fled the building shortly after 10 a. m. Most of them lost their personal belongings. Five firemen narrowly escaped when the ballroom ceiling fell.

A member of the Eagles Tavern Hotel corporation, which acquired ownership of the hotel July 16, estimated the damage, not including individual losses of the guests. Cause of the fire was unknown.

SEE MacARTHUR RESIGNING TOKYO POST BY JAN. 1

BY DONALD STARR
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Oct. 14—Belief is growing among Americans here that Gen. MacArthur will be compelled to turn his job over to a successor more amenable to the state department by Jan. 1.

Differences of opinion between the far eastern experts who are propounding policies in Washington, D. C., and general headquarters in Tokyo indicate that sooner or later MacArthur will be requested to pursue a course of action obnoxious to him. Then he will resign.

While state department sniping at the general began almost as soon as the occupation troops landed, it has become more apparent with the passing of weeks. Typical of statements which reveal a lack of knowledge on the part of Washington officials was that made by John Carter Vincent, state department's director of the office for far eastern affairs, who was quoted in an army newspaper to the effect that there is "better than an even chance that the Japanese people will rid themselves of the institution of the emperor."

Premier Anti-Imperialistic

The Japanese say such action will not be taken in the near future. Gen. MacArthur has said he will not interfere with the pastoral leadership of the emperor.

New Deal newspapers at home have ridiculed the anti-imperialism of Premier Shidehara. Conceding that Shidehara is related by marriage to the powerful Iwasaki financial clan, his record proves him the most anti-imperialistic of available candidates for the office.

"China Hands" in Control

If the anti-MacArthur chorus, who often find themselves in tune with Moscow, want to see MacArthur out of Japan they could not accomplish their aim quicker than to encourage Washington to adopt the soviet proposal that an allied control commission be installed as boss.

"China hands," a designation for American diplomatic representatives who have served most of their careers in China, dominate state department officials dealing with the Japanese problem. The question immediately arises as to the whereabouts of those who served in Japan and can be depended upon to know this country.

Japs Look to MacArthur

While militaristic Japan laid down its arms at the command of their emperor, these people now are looking hopefully to MacArthur for orders which they obey as willingly as those of Hirohito. The common people express fear of the day when the occupation troops go home. They welcome orders from general headquarters, no matter how harsh.

No one who has followed MacArthur can conceive of him passively accepting a reprimand such as President Truman delivered to Gen. Eisenhower in a letter dated Aug. 31. The letter inclosed a copy of Earl G. Harrison's report on treatment of displaced persons in liberated areas of western Europe. Mr. Truman wrote that "as matters now stand we appear to treating the Jews as the Nazis treated them, except that we do not exterminate them."

Charges have been made that MacArthur has similarly been too lenient with the Japanese, that he has allowed the old political crowd to remain in power, that he has not instituted reform quickly enough.

JAP POPULATION ESTIMATED TO TOTAL 77,997,042

TOKYO, Oct. 14 (AP)—The newspaper Mainichi said the population of Japan was estimated by the home ministry today at 77,997,042. The ministry based its figure on last year's census which was undisclosed because it was "a military secret."

Tokyo, which once approached 8,000,000, now has a population of 3,276,547; Osaka, once the second largest city, has 3,092,498, and Yokohama, 2,652,988.

Kobe moved above Osaka and Tokyo with an estimated population of 3,334,244 while Nagoya, capital of Aichi prefecture, had an estimated 3,287,045.

36 SHIPS SUNK OR DAMAGED IN GALE IDENTIFIED

3 Go Down, 30 Grounded, 3 Damaged

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14 (AP)—The navy tonight identified three vessels sunk, 30 aground and three others damaged in the Okinawa typhoon Monday and Tuesday. The information was received from headquarters of Adm. Nimitz. The announcement did not state whether it was a complete list. Earlier a navy report said 130 naval craft were beached or damaged.

The navy at Pearl Harbor said yesterday that 28 navy men were killed, 70 missing and 423 injured.

Ships sunk were the Southern Seas [not otherwise identified], LSM [landing ship medium] 15 and YMS [motor minesweeper] 383.

Six Had No Losses

The announcement did not indicate the number of casualties suffered by the various ships. Of those aground, however, six had no losses to personnel.

Ships aground:

Dorsey DMS 1, Southward DMS 10, Weehawken CM 12, Industry AMC 862, Mahogany DM 23, Snowbell AN 52, Sanandaga AOG 40, Nestor ARB 6, Mona Island ARG 9, PGM 5, PGM 27, PC 1238, PC 1239, PC 590, LST 568, LSM 361, YMS 90, YMS 151, YMS 176, YMS 193, YMS 275, YMS 296, YMS 384, YMS 424, YMS 442, YMS 454, YP 289, APC 103, APL 14, Ocelot [IX 101].

The following grounded ships report no casualties:

Snowbell AN 52, Nestor ARB 6, APC 103, LSM 361, PC 1239, APL 14, and PC 590.

This does not imply that there were casualties aboard all other vessels in the announcement, the navy cautioned.

Next of kin of dead and missing have been notified in most instances, and others are being informed, it was stated.

Explosion Kills Six

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Oct. 14 (AP)—Six enlisted men were killed and 23 injured in an unexplained explosion at a navy receiving station on Okinawa Friday, fleet headquarters reported today. A court of inquiry is investigating. There were no details.

The casualties were in addition to 521 suffered by navy personnel in a typhoon which struck Okinawa earlier in the week.

1,250 Moved to Manila

MANILA, Oct. 15 [Monday]—(AP)—Three ships and 10 planes carrying 1,250 army patients evacuated from Okinawa are due in Manila tomorrow. The patients are evacuees from hospitals damaged by last week's typhoon.

Elaborating on earlier reports, headquarters said one-third of its heavy canvas on Okinawa was damaged but that many tents easily were repaired. The army still is awaiting reports from northern Okinawa and Ie Island, both of which are out of communication.

ADMIRAL GOES OUT OF BOUNDS TO SEE A WALL

BY JOSEPH HEARST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SHANHAIKWAN, Chinese Communist Army Hdq., Hopei Province, China, Oct. 14—The marine major was worried about coming into this city, but the admiral was determined to see the Great Wall of China, which explains why the citizens of this Chinese communist stronghold were surprised to see two jeeps roll thru their narrow streets today and a three star admiral step out.

The major is Don P. Wyckoff, Detroit, Mich., operations officer at marine headquarters in Chinwangtao. The admiral is Daniel E. Barbey, commander of the 7th amphibious force.

He Drives Up Road

Wyckoff was parked on what is called a road in this area about five miles north of Chinwangtao, explaining to a couple of correspondents why he couldn't take them to Shanhaikwan to see the Great Wall, when Barbey, accompanied by Lt. George Monahan of Newark, N. J., pulled up. He gave the admiral the same reasons, namely that the city was held by Communists and the presence of marines there would connote recognition of them, that we might not be well received, and that any way Americans weren't supposed to go there sightseeing.

Barbey said he understood and would drive up the road a mile or so. Wyckoff followed but Barbey didn't stop after a mile or so. Instead, he kept on until he reached the great walls enclosing Shanhaikwan, where he stepped from his jeep and gave a friendly wave to a rifle carrying Chinese 50 feet above him atop the wall.

The first gate in the Great Wall Barbey reached was locked and Chinese soldiers from the top of the battlement waved him down the road. At the next gate two men in civilian dress armed with rifles barred the entrance. But at the third gate the party drove thru a great gateway into an alley-like street where pigs and dogs disputed the right of way.

Barbey located an English speaking Chinese who escorted him to the top of the wall but it turned out the party was atop a big wall that encloses the city in a square, joining the Great Wall in another section. So the Chinese guide took Barbey across the city to another gate where finally they came out atop the Great Wall where it joins the city's walls.

Russians 60 Miles Away

To the west, where the wall comes down from the mountains into the plains, it looked like a narrow ribbon. To the east it could be seen running out to the Yellow sea. Barbey looked out over Manchuria to the north and learned Russian soldiers were stationed about 60 miles away and that they frequently come into Shanhaikwan. Finally he seemed satisfied with his visit and the party returned to Chinwangtao.

At Chinwangtao is where Lt. Clare Mann, 1836 Nagle av., Chicago, 24, who has been running a railroad only a few days, learned when to use his best equipment. He brought out the one coach with windows in it when he learned Maj. Gen. Kellar E. Rockey and Vice Adm. Barbey were going to be the passengers. "The Communists have shot the glass out of all the other coaches," said Mann.

Rockey, commanding all United States forces in northern China, and Barbey, made an inspection of this area earlier today, including a trip to Peitaiho, a beautiful resort city where the Japs have built a 1,500 bed tuberculosis hospital. Peitaiho is reached by a 14 mile train trip, at about five miles an hour, and a 10 mile highway jaunt.

9 Year Old Interpreter

So the admiral, general, and their party rode in more or less comfort on hard, wooden seats, inspected the marine company at Peitaiho Junction, which is commanded by Capt. Edward Fitzthomas, Pontiac, Mich., visited the Jap hospital, where 1,000 patients were attended by 500 armed corpsmen, and drove on to the little town of Peitaiho Beach, where beautiful summer homes and landscaped lawns dot the hillsides rolling back from the sandy beach. They found 30 marines billeted in one of the houses, sent there to prevent looting.

They also learned that Fitzthomas is getting help from a 9 year old Russian boy who is acting as his interpreter.

"The kid must be a genius," Fitzthomas said. "Besides English and Russian, he speaks Japanese, Chinese, French, German, and Italian. He's been a big help to me."

WORLD RECORD JAP SUBMARINE PACKS 3 PLANES

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

TOKYO, Oct. 14—The navy threw open to inspection by a group of American and British correspondents the world's largest submarine which the Japanese completed last February and which we did not know they were operating until it surrendered off Tokyo August 28 with its crew.

The submarine is of 5,700 tons against an average tonnage of American combat submarines of 1,500 and the 3,800 ton, ill fated French Surcouf—formerly the largest in the world. It carried three planes which were stored in a forward hangar and hydraulically catapalted off the forward deck. The sub has a range estimated at a maximum of 50,000 miles and carried a crew of 200 men.

BRITON PLEADS LITTLE NATIONS BE GIVEN VOICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 14—Warning that the allied world only narrowly missed going over the edge of a great abyss on which it stood, and that the "ground beneath our feet is still liable to crumble," British Home Secretary Chuter Ede today said it would be a great mistake to exclude the little nations from having their say in the shaping of the world.

HECKLERS ROUT SOLDIER BRIDES IN LONDON PARK

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—A group of British brides demanding transportation to join their American soldier husbands in the United States aired their views for an hour and a half in Hyde Park today until uniformed and civilian hecklers drowned them out.

Only 20 of the hundreds of brides who paraded thru Piccadilly last Wednesday took part in today's demonstration. The crowd which had gathered around the brides roared with laughter when one heckler shouted: "Are you sure you're going to find him when you get out there?"

Members of the group in Hyde Park decided to meet daily in front of the embassy in the hope of speeding action. They claim to represent 24,000 wives, all but 4,000 of whom have babies.

CANADA'S UPPER CLASSES FOSTER MRA MOVEMENT

U. S. Groups Embrace Reborn Buchmanism

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 14—Another of the many groups dedicated to remaking the world is gaining strength in upper crust British society in Canada, it was learned today. It travels under the initials "MRA" meaning "Moral Re-Armament" billed in its literature as "every man's fight for a new world."

It also boasts words of support from a galaxy of prominent United States figures—President Truman, Gen. John J. Pershing, Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd, Sen. Brewster [R., Me.], Rep. Wadsworth [R., N. Y.], William Green of the AFL, Philip Murray of the CIO, and Adm. Leahy—among others. The late President Roosevelt sent a message to one MRA gathering, read by Mr. Truman.

It is a rejuvenation of the Oxford group, founded in 1921 at Christ Church college, Oxford, England, by Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, American clergyman who holds a divinity degree from Muhlenberg college [Lutheran], Allentown, Pa. It claims a brotherhood of "ordinary men," but it also concentrates upon the wealthy, the powerful, and the influential everywhere for adherents.

Seek Happier World

Its scoffers here call it the "Salvation Army of the upper clawses." Its members—sincere influential men—say that its first precept is that "you've got to let the Lord run your life," and that it aims only at "remaking human nature," individually and collectively, so that all men may live in a better, happier world.

The believers claim support for the movement from the principal capitalistic nations of the world, more than 60 in all, and set for themselves and eventually for all humanity "the highest moral standards—absolute honesty, absolute purity, absolute unselfishness, and absolute love."

Moral Re-Armament has been attempting to quell labor strife thru conferences betwen labor and management principals, each of whom has thru Divine Guidance, rid himself fo selfishness and jealousies. It claims—and doubtless has—some successes.

Its stated principles are as old as the Christian gospel. Its doctrine takes on an aura of mysticism when MRA men speak of "the idea" which is not exactly an inspiration, but becomes "a force." However, thru its concentration on economic and social "leaders," it has its high social side too.

Communal Society

MRA uses Island House, at Mackinac Island, Mich., as its "Moral Re-Armament World Center." A "world" training school is operated there. Novitiates do their own work there in a communal society. MRA apparently has and needs no treasury, wealthy workers drawing no salaries and defraying their own and other expenses. It sells booklets thru two North American offices in Washington, D. C., and Toronto, Ont.

MRA's adherents say that it has no membership lists, but meets in small neighborhood and community groups, where serious moral discussion and frequently open confession of moral wrongs helps to purge the conscience and "set thinking straight."

"We give parties," one man said, —"not cocktail parties."

It claims to be completely nondenominational, its supporters asserting that "MRA helps you to become a better member of any church."

A high Anglican church official here, who would not be quoted, said when asked whether any of his clergy belonged to MRA: "Oh, dear, I hope not."

Strong Showing in United States

MRA also has impressive strength in the United States, where mass meetings have been held in Madison Square Garden in New York City, Hollywood Bowl in California, and Philadelphia, Pa., the latter receiving a "message" from the late President Roosevelt.

One of MRA's labor-management pamphlets bears a foreword signed by 20 American and Canadian labor editors, among them W. H. Bryant, Labor Herald, Richmond, Va.; Oliver E. Carruth, International Labor News Service, Washington, D. C.; Paul M. Coss, Los Angeles citizen; Frank L. Hopkins, Labor Beacon, Michigan City, Ind., and Gerald L. Pickle, organized labor, San Francisco.

It has an industrial "drama" or stage play which toured the United States and Canada. The premiere was held in Washington, May 14, 1944, under imposing auspices.

Chairmen were President Truman, then Democratic senator from Missouri, and Rep. Wadsworth. On the committee were Sen. and Mrs. Brewster, Adm. and Mrs. Byrd, Mr. and Mrs. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Murray, Gen. Pershing and Adm. Leahy.

Foreword by Pershing

Gen. Pershing wrote a foreword for an MRA handbook. President [then senator] Truman subscribed to the statement: "Moral Re-Armament is making an essential contribution to America's war effort and to the spirit of the country. . . . They are a trained force intelligently and successfully fighting the battle for industrial coöperation and national unity."

MRA's literature also tells of indorsement from such international figures as Prime Minister Curtin of Australia, Deputy Prime Minister Walter Nash of New Zealand, and C. J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament and the league of nations assembly. It claims that its leaders in occupied countries during the war were bitterly persecuted, one of them being killed by the Nazis.

MRA is sharply conscious of criticism directed toward it, claiming "some of it comes from Communists and the rest from reactionaries."

"Opposition to MRA," a booklet entitled March of an Idea says, "has been centered on the one hand in reactionary elements in management and the press, and on the other hand in elements who pose as labor's friends and appear to fight for the rights of workers, while all the time working to divide, weaken, and undermine labor to get control for themselves. . . .

Charge Facts Suppressed

"In attacking MRA, publications that advocate class struggle carefully suppress the facts of support given to MRA . . ."

Another page tells how, as war approached in Europe MRA was trying to "remake men and nations."

"It was no longer one man [Dr. Buchman] working alone, but 100 working together, then thousands, and in the United States, Britain, and across the world in over 60 countries, men and women were fighting for the highest moral standards—absolute honesty, absolute purity, absolute unselfishness, and absolute love—in personal and national life, answering the breakdown in human affairs.

"Financially they were poor, but in courage, vision, and determination they were rich. By personal sacrifice, pooling their resources, sometimes selling their belongings, they have carried on, backed by the sacrifices of other ordinary folk like them. Then as now, they worked without salary, keeping expenses down to a minimum."

Dr. Buchman's Precepts

In the booklet are two precepts of Dr. Buchman:

"Until we change thoroly and drastically on a national scale, nations must still follow their historic road to violence and destruction. There's enough in the world for every one's need, but not enough for every one's greed. Suppose everybody cared enough, and everybody shared enough, wouldn't everybody have enough?"

And:

"Everybody wants to see the other fellow change. But everybody's waiting for the other fellow to begin. If you want an answer for the world today, the best place to start is with yourself."

BARBARA HUTTON

Barbara Hutton, heiress to the Woolworth fortune, arrived in Chicago yesterday from Los Angeles en route to New York City for a six week visit.

Wearing a mink coat and nylon stockings, the blond, thrice married heiress, who was granted a divorce from Movie Actor Cary Grant in August, said she will visit in the east for six weeks.

Miss Hutton's son, Lance Reventlow, now 9, is attending school on the west coast, she said. Her previous marriages were to Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow of Denmark, whom she divorced in 1941, and Prince Alexis Mdivani of Georgia, divorced in 1935.

WEEDING OUT GIVES 80-PLUS VETS PRIORITY

PARIS, Oct. 14 (AP)—Doughboys with fewer than 80 points were being weeded out at assembly camps today in order to give 80 plus men priority in a redeployment schedule which is lagging because of the shipping shortage.

Before withdrawal of the big liners Queen Elizabeth and Aquitania as well as a number of smaller ships from the redeployment service the army had planned to get 80 pointers en route home by Oct. 31 and 70 pointers by Nov. 30. Despite the screening process United States army headquarters said it was doubtful if all the 80 pointers would be out prior to "the first 10 days of November."

"With the present uncertainty about shipping, no estimates can be made whether all 70 point men will be out of the European theater by Nov. 30, or whether all 60 point men will leave by Dec. 31," headquarters added. Previously many of the 70 and 80 pointers were getting off at the same time.

MANN HOPES TO RETURN SOME DAY TO EUROPE

LONDON, Oct. 14 [Reuters]—Thomas Mann, leading German author now in the United States, said in a letter read over Munich radio tonight that he hopes to return to Europe when transport conditions and the authorities permit.

"I feel that once I am there the estrangement which is only the result of the last twelve years will be overcome by the attractions of the culture of a thousand years," Mann wrote, adding it was "his dream to feel once more the soil of the old continent beneath my feet."

Australia to Resettle 104,000 Wewak Natives

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 14 [Reuters]—The Australian New Guinea administrative unit has prepared resettlement plans for 104,000 natives in the Wewak area of New Guinea, it was announced here today. As a result of the war, tribes have been broken up and the traditional communal life has been dislocated. Now the natives are to be encouraged to revive old arts, crafts, and customs.

2 V-2 ROCKETS PATCHED UP AND FIRED BY BRITISH

Call North Sea Tests Complete Success

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—British engineers and artillery experts have assembled from old parts two nazi "V-2" rockets which they fired at a target 150 miles away, the ministry of information revealed today.

Disclosure that experiments have been under way to test German statements of efficiency of their vaunted "secret" weapon was made in an announcement that firing of a reconstructed missile will be demonstrated to military observers and press correspondents in the British zone in Germany tomorrow.

Fired into North Sea

The two reconstructed V-2s were fired into the North sea during the first week of October. One fell within three miles of the target point. The ministry of information called the experiment a "complete success."

Preparations for the experimental firings of the weapons which the Nazis showered on London and Antwerp during the war required five months.

After a test was decided upon last May, royal engineers had to build their own launching site and assembly factory because no completed ones were available.

Started by SHAEF

The experiments were started under the direction of supreme headquarters of the allied expeditionary force. When SHAEF was dissolved the British ministry of supply appointed Alwyn Crow to supervise work by British engineers and artillery experts.

American observers watched the actual firing by German technicians.

The first projectile failed to rise and the German technician who climbed into the combustion chamber to see what was wrong became "drunk" on alcoholic fuel flames and "was unable to complete his task," the ministry of information said. It was shot off successfully later.

In using the weapons the Germans discovered it was necessary to fire them within a few days after they were tested, or the percentage of failures reached as high as 40 per cent, the ministry declared.

COURT JUSTIFIES NAZI BUTCHERY, MOSCOW CHARGE

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Moscow radio said tonight that in the war criminal trials of Josef Kramer and 44 guards at Lueneburg both the court and the defense in the British conducted hearings had attempted to justify the butchery practiced by the defendants at the Belsen and Oswiecim concentration camps.

The commentator, S. Victorov, asserted that "Fascists everywhere have been encouraged by the trials."

"Both the court and the defense have not merely made an attempt to find some extenuating circumstances but to justify the butchery by referring to some sort of Fascist 'laws'," he added.

Theft of Six Automobiles Confessed by Two Boys

Edward Person, 14, of 676 E. 38th pl., and Surgeon Norman, 15, of 3223 South Park way, both Negroes, admitted the theft of six automobiles in the Hyde Park district yesterday. They were arrested in front of 5414 Lake Park av. All the cars were recovered. Both are held on open charges.

Seized as Robbers

Arrested 20 minutes after they robbed a couple in a parked car yesterday with a German army submachine gun, Edwin Mikrut, 19, of 1629 S. Kedvale av.; Joseph Hercog, 21, of 2651 W. 24th pl., and John Falat, 21, of 2618 Luther st., admitted the robbery after they were identified by the victims.

Lloyd Luhring, 32, of Frankfort, Will county, was robbed of $18, and Miss Rita Knoebel, 24, of 2604 W. 21st st., of $7, in Luhring's car in front of Miss Knoebel's home. The robbers drove off in Luhring's automobile and were caught at Pershing rd. and Kedzie av. after a 60 mile an hour chase by Policemen Albert Leddin and Joseph Meyer.

Mikrut was holding the submachine gun, which he said he had bought from a friend in Los Angeles, Cal. Mikrut said he served two years in the navy, and Hercog served in the coast guard and in the army. Luhring served more than two years in the army in New Guinea.

REPORT TENSION GROWS BETWEEN POLES, CZECHS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 15 [Monday]—Warning that the Polish government is creating a new danger spot in Europe, a Daily Telegraph correspondent today reported growing tension between Czechs and Poles over the position of the Moravian minority in areas seized by the Poles. Writing from Moravskaostrava, Llewellyn Chanter said an independent power must mediate between Warsaw and Prague before the peace conference, if conflict is to be prevented.

Twenty thousand persons who emigrated from Poland to Czechoslovakia before the Polish annexation of part of Moravia, after having resisted Germanization during the war, are now undergoing forcible Polonization, he charged. Critics among the Moravian minority were sent by the Poles to concentration camps, of which six are operating in three districts, including the Nazis' notorious Oswiecim [Auschwitz] camp, he said.

A prebiscite on the issue of annexation of territory to Poland was carried out by terroristic methods, and those who voted "no" were driven from their homes, Chanter declared. He said the property of hundreds of Poles who emigated has been confiscated by Polish officials and the former owners enslaved.

FRENCH WOMEN ORGANIZE FOR POLITICAL ROLE

BY ANNE BRUYERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Oct. 14—The women of France are busy organizing assemblies, congresses, and conferences to discuss the formation of the 13th national constitution since 1789. For the first time in history feminists, some of whom are city councilors, examining magistrates, or mayors, will help to build the framework of the country's new government. France's colonies also will take part.

Among the ardent constitutionalists is the Duchess de la Rochefoucauld, president of the National Union of Women, one of the most powerful women's organizations in Europe. She played a leading role in obtaining universal suffrage for France, for which she campaigned more than 25 years.

Favors Strong Government.

"All of Europe as well as the colonies expect us to form a strong, stable government," she asserted. "We must take no chances of a recurrence of the periodic political uproars common to the Third Republic that had such disastrous effects on our economy as well as on our international relations.

"French women may be idealists but they are also shrewd, practical, and level headed. Whether they are leftists, radical Socialists, or conservatives they aim to make the Fourth Republic truly democratic, serving not only the nation and the colonies, but also the individual family."

Colonies Loom Large

The question of the colonial governments is occupying legal minds here. During its period of isolation France realized how much she was dependent on her colonies for food and raw materials, lack of which paralyzed her foremost industries, weaving, refining, canning, and ceramics. It is the opinion of French political observers that the assembly drafting the new constitution should incorporate therein articles pertaining to the administrative, legislative, and judicial functions of the empire in the interest of unity and stability.

Reorganization of the colonial policy is being undertaken with a view to converting native raw materials into finished products on the spot in order to facilitate exports, improving inland transportation, and modernizing social institutions, especially schools and hospitals.

Universal suffrage already has been accorded to North African and other colonies.

Sharing of A-Bomb Secret to Be Discussed at Forum

"Shall America, Britain, and Canada Divulge the Secrets of the Atomic Bomb to Their War Allies?" will be the question before the Lake Shore Speakers' forum, at 808 Lake Shore dr., at 8 p. m. Wednesday. The discussion will be led by William L. Howard, regional counsel for the Little Business Men's League of America. William Castleman, president of the league, will be moderator.

PORTUGAL WILL REPEL ENEMIES, SAYS MINISTER

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 14 (AP)—Col. Botelho Moniz, Portuguese minister of interior, said today he was prepared to use force to keep the government from falling into the hands of enemies.

He did not identify the enemies, but he denied recent reports that the military garrison at Oporto had been arrested and said, "Indeed the military garrisons in North Portugal are strongly together in military maneuvers to improve their fighting capacity and to watch the maneuvers of our enemies."

At masses today, priests said, "We trust you will vote for the party which supports the government that stood for the rights of our church." The Archbishop of Braga, who holds the title of "primate of all Spains," expressed trust in the regime of Premier Salazar.

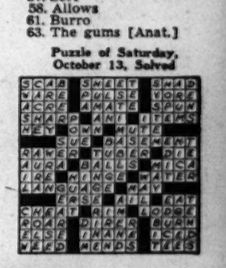
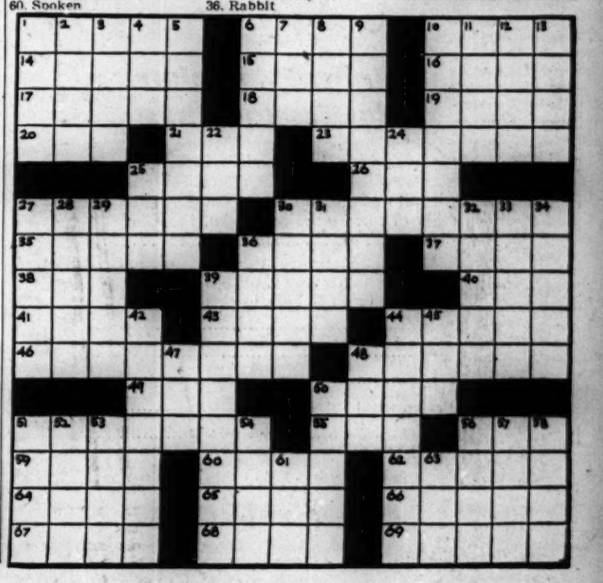
Puzzle of Saturday, October 13, Solved





WEST OF RIVER SUPER-HIGHWAY FAVORED BY CITY

Route Is Declared Best for Most Traffic

V. E. Gunlock, commissioner of subways and super-highways, said yesterday that engineering studies by his office favored the location of the proposed northwest super-highway on the west side of the north branch of the Chicago river. Much of the route would abut the embankment of the Wisconsin division tracks of the Chicago & North Western railway.

That route across a populous section of the city has been approved by the city council. It would serve Douglas airport traffic as well as automobiles from a suburban area expected to have a big post-war growth.

An alternative route, which would be east of the river below Barry av., was recommended five years ago by the Cook county highway department. Since city, county, and state funds are expected to be used in construction of the super-highway, engineers from the three agencies would have to agree on its final location.

City Routing Plan

Gunlock described the city routing as follows: Starting at Congress st., north along Union av., to near Lake st., northwesterly to near Ogden and Milwaukee avs.; north on the east side of Elston av. to near Bloomingdale av.; diagonally across the North Western tracks and along their southwest side to Monticello av.; across the right of way and along its northeast side to near Foster and Central avs.; west along the south side of Foster av., to Higgins av.; and northwesterly along Higgins av. to the city limits.

The route suggested by the county would follow Union av. to Lake st., and then would cross the north branch and proceed north on the west side of Sedgwick st. past Division st.; along the northeast side of Clybourn av. to Barry av.; along the north side of Barry av. past Elston av.; west of Elston av. to the vicinity of Bryn Mawr av. and west to Higgins av.

North Branch Proposed

Both routes would provide for a branch west of Cicero av. to the proposed Edens expressway north of the city. Both would connect with the downtown business district.

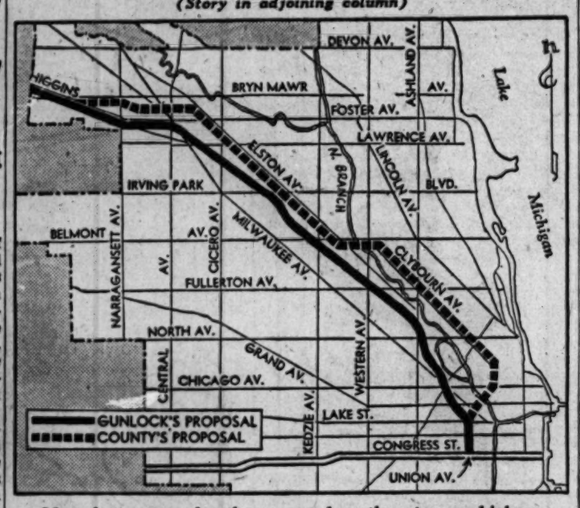
Residential and business property would be condemned across the city to provide for parallel expressways on which automobiles could travel safely and without interference from stop signs or cross traffic. Most of the routes would be depressed at cross streets.

Gunlock said the west of the river location would be shorter.

"The route lies midway between the north route [Lake Shore dr.] and the west route, thus bisecting the area that it is to serve," he said. "Most of the area is west of the river, thus it is better served by the highway west of the river. Most of the traffic using this highway will originate west of the river."

Two Routes for Super-Highway

(Story in adjoining column)



Map shows route for the proposed northwest super-highway on west side of the river, suggested by city commissioner of subways and super-highways, and another route east of the river, proposed by the county highway department.

CHICAGOANS' USE OF MILWAUKEE AIRPORT GROWS

Air lines officials said yesterday that an increasing number of north shore residents are booking their flights into and out of the Milwaukee county airport because from some suburbs it can be reached by automobile more easily and quickly than the comparatively congested Chicago airport.

Two air lines, Pennsylvania Central and Northwest, now are making flights eastward from Milwaukee in competition to service from Chicago. The Milwaukee county airport is about seven miles south of Milwaukee, Wis., and a mile and a half east of U. S. route 41. In comparatively open country, it can be reached with virtually no traffic delays by motorists from northern Cook county.

Cite Douglas to Keep Trade

Milwaukee competition would be increased, civic leaders said, if Chicago officials select the Clearing site for development as the city's main aviation terminal. The Douglas airport near Park Ridge, which has been recommended by many experts, would be ideally located to keep the north shore trade from going to Milwaukee, it was said.

For a Clearing airport, north siders would be forced to drive on such streets as Cicero and Harlem avs. to a terminal in the vicinity of 83d st. This would take considerably longer than the driving time to the present field at 63d st. and Cicero av.

Provide Service East and West

Pennsylvania Central for several years has had service from Milwaukee across Lake Michigan to Muskegon, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Flint, and Detroit, Mich., and thence to Washington, D. C., and other eastern cities. Northwest Airlines in July extended its service from the west coast thru Milwaukee to Detroit and New York City.

Natural gas tanks and other obstructions on the south side are among objections raised to the Clearing site.

Parcels for overseas shipment must not be more than five pounds in weight. The main postoffice and the downtown annex will be open for overseas packages until midnight tonight and district and suburban postoffices will accept parcels until 6 p. m.

JAPAN'S DEFEAT TERMED PROOF OF NAVAL NEEDS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14 (AP)—The fall of Japan without an invasion by a land army was cited today by the house naval committee as a major argument for retention of a powerful American fleet.

What happened to Japan, the committee said in a report favoring a post-war navy of 1,082 fighting ships, is "most impressive proof of the vulnerability of a nation that does not control its surrounding waters."

Ocean areas over which the committee said the United States must retain and keep "undisputed control" are the western part of the North Atlantic and South Atlantic and the entire Pacific.

The estimated anual maintenance and operating cost of $3,325,000,000 for the projected post-war navy "is substantial," the committee commented, "but when judged in terms of the price of victory . . . it is cheap insurance of national security."

HUTCHINS URGES FORMATION NOW OF WORLD STATE

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago, yesterday urged the United States to reveal the secret of the atomic bomb and act immediately for the framing and adoption of the constitution of a world state. He made his plea in a sermon in Rockefeller Memorial chapel on the university campus.

"Civil war may come within the world state if it is organized before there is a world community to support it," he said, "but such a war cannot be worse than the international war we shall have if we do not organize a world state and the United States will suffer no more in one than in the other."

Far from being able to survive alone, he said, the United States has the most to lose from atomic bombs which will be exploded in the next war.

CHURCH GIVES 150 HEIFERS TO POLISH PEOPLE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14 [Special]—The united nations relief and rehabilitation administration announced today that it is sending to Poland 150 Holstein heifers, a gift from the Church of the Brethren, to augment the inadequate milk supply available there.

In expressing the gratitude of UNRRA to M. H. Zigler of Elgin, Ill., executive secretary of the Brethren service committee, Herbert H. Lehman, UNRRA director-general, said:

"The gift animals are a direct extension of help from farm people here to the people of Europe. It is the kind of help they need and want most—help to help themselves."

UNRRA has sent or procured 14,900 head of livestock for the devastated countries receiving its aid, Lehman reported.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

FOUNDED JUNE 10, 1847

10 ★★ MONDAY, OCT. 15, 1945

ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER MAY 14, 1903, AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHICAGO, ILL., UNDER ACT OF MARCH 3, 1879.

All unsolicited articles, manuscripts, letters, and pictures sent to The Tribune are sent at the owner's risk, and The Tribune company expressly repudiates any liability or responsibility for their safe custody or return.

WE'RE PARTIES TO THE CRIME

Gen. Eisenhower has stopped the transfer of German prisoners of war, captured by the American army, to French slave labor battalions. The International Red Cross charged that the French are starving the prisoners. David Darrah of THE TRIBUNE verified the charges in a visit to one of the prison camps near Paris. He found 1,100 of the 1,500 prisoners there too ill to work because of malnutrition and disease.

Gen. de Gaulle admits the abuse of the prisoners, but asserts that many of them were in poor condition when turned over by American authorities. His statement is unlikely to find belief in this country. It is only a few weeks since the French were complaining that Americans treated the prisoners too well. The general's position is contradictory. He asserts that France lacks facilities either to feed the prisoners or repatriate them. Nevertheless, he asked for them, and he now reiterates his demand that prisoner labor be used to reconstruct France.

The treatment of these prisoners is a crime. It is the same crime which so aroused the public of the United States when American prisoners of war were abused and starved by their German and Japanese captors. It is the same crime for which we are going to try German and Japanese jailers and, it is to be hoped, hang them.

We are parties to the Geneva convention governing the treatment of prisoners of war. So are the French. The treatment they have accorded the Germans in their hands violates that convention. By turning the prisoners over to the French, we have made ourselves a party to the crime for which we hope to hang Germans and Japs.

This is part of the new policy to which America has subscribed for the first time in our history. As we have said, it is an old policy in Russia to exterminate opponents by starvation and murder. It was Hitler's policy. It was the policy of other European nations, particularly in their colonial administrations, but it never has been the policy of the United States until now.

The members of the administration in Washington who committed us to it are just as much war criminals as the people they are seeking to prosecute. Their action lies heavy on the conscience of all the American people.

THE REAL SECRETS OF PEARL HARBOR

Congressman Dewey Short said the other day that he thought that sooner or later congress would get to the bottom of the Pearl Harbor mystery, but he didn't seem too hopeful of immediate results. It is a month, now, since the committee was created under the chairmanship of Sen. Barkley, and nothing has been accomplished beyond the appointment of a chief investigator. In a few months more the committee must report.

The line of inquiry that ought to be followed is plain enough. There is little need to look further into the events of Dec. 7. They are well known. Our fleet went to the bottom and we suffered 3,000 casualties. What isn't known is why the commanding officers at Pearl Harbor were not kept fully informed of events in Washington. Even when, several hours before the Japs struck, there was certainty in military circles in Washington that the blow would fall at Pearl Harbor, the warning was not sent. Why?

And back of that, why was the battle fleet stationed at Pearl Harbor where it clearly was more vulnerable than if it had been held on the west coast? For lack of the auxiliary ships which were assigned to Atlantic convoys, the fleet in the Pacific could not take the offensive.

Why were the ships held in harbor when they might have found safety by disappearing into the blue? Our Asiatic fleet didn't stay in Manila harbor to become a target for the first Japanese air raid. Why was a different strategy followed at Pearl Harbor?

It is to questions such as these that the committee ought to be seeking the answers. It is difficult to imagine a good reason for the delay in getting started.

MORE THAN THE SENATOR COULD STOMACH

Sen. Morse of Oregon, who says himself that he has frequently been accused of being pro-British, told the senate that he can't stomach the pending proposals for disposal of America's surplus merchant ships, which would in effect give subsidies to the British merchant marine and handicap our own. The senator's supposed pro-British attitude may well stop where the interest of the shipping companies of his own state begin, but in this instance at least those interests are identical with the interests of all the American people.

The government has 17 billion dollars' worth of war built shipping to be sold. A bill passed by the house gives American shipping companies certain advantages over foreign purchasers in the acquisition of these ships. That is only proper, but amendments have been proposed in the senate to deprive American shippers of these justifiable advantages.

Two other amendments have been offered, both of which would penalize American shippers and shipping companies for the benefit of the British and other maritime nations. One would allow foreign purchasers, in buying our modern ships, to trade in obsolete vessels for them. That is nonsensical. The government is trying to get rid of ships, not acquire them. If the British and other maritime nations want to get rid of their worn out vessels, let them scrap them, as we would have to do if we took them in trade.

Another amendment proposed in the senate would repeal the requirement of the 1934 act that products bought for export from this country with American loans must be carried in American bottoms. That is a legitimate subsidy to the American shipping industry, because it is one subsidy that doesn't cost the taxpayers of this country anything. If there is any increased cost of frate because of higher wages paid on American ships, the foreign purchasers pay it. If they don't want American goods on those terms, they have only to refuse the favor of American loans.

The whole purpose behind these amendments is, of course, the mendicant purpose of Great Britain. The British try to tell us that we must strengthen them because in so doing we strengthen ourselves. We gain nothing if we weaken ourselves to strengthen them. We actually stand to lose, because the transfusion of cash and commercial privilege which they are asking will largely be dried up in their obsolete industrial system, their financial system based on monopoly, cartels, and gouging of customers, and the inefficiency of the socialist burocracy that the Labor party seems bent on fastening on the British people.

TAX REDUCTION

The house of representatives on Thursday, by a vote of 343 to 10, passed a bill which would cut everybody's taxes by at least 10 per cent and relieve 12 million taxpayers from paying any taxes at all. It would also reduce the excess profits tax on corporations. Other provisions would freeze the social security tax at 1 per cent for another year. Effective next July 1, excises on liquor, furs, luggage, and some other luxuries would be out and the federal auto use tax elliminated.

The ways and means committee is to be congratulated for the direction in which it is moving, the speed with which it has acted, and the approval of its action by the house. The senate committee, under the leadership of Sen. George, has been considering tax reform for some time, and will no doubt act promptly. It is widely believed that the senate will eliminate the excess profits tax entirely. This tax, running up to 95 per cent, bears heavily on all successful businesses, and penalizes especially those which had not grown to great size or had no record of large profits before the war.

It is significant that the house action was brought to a head by the appearance of Secretary of the Treasury Vinson before the ways and means committee. The secretary proposed the elimination of the excess profits taxes in toto. He advocated the freezing of social security taxes. He also proposed the cutting of the rates on individuals.

A new administration is in power. If Mr. Roosevelt were still in office and Mr. Morgenthau the head of the treasury, the house might have acted, but it would have been without encouragement from the executive or his financial chief. The former secretary of the treasury said when he was in Chicago last year that he could see little likelihood of any major revision in taxes in the early post-war years. He spoke vaguely on a number of occasions about some minor modification to encourage capital investment, but declined to be specific.

Supported by President Roosevelt, Mr. Morgenthau blocked action on the report Bernard Baruch and John Hancock prepared for Mr. Byrnes, who was then war mobilizer and sometimes called Assistant President. They proposed the enactment of a post-war tax bill before the war was over, so that business men could make their plans for reconversion immediately. Mr. Morgenthau, with the support of Mr. Roosevelt, repeatedly opposed the action by which congress prevented the social security tax from being increased. Last December, when congress extended the 1 per cent rate another year, Mr. Roosevelt signed the bill, altho he severely criticized it. This time the same action was proposed by the administration.

The initial cut in taxes voted by the house was so moderate that it was opposed only by the CIO and some of its stooges in congress. The goal which should be striven for is a 50 per cent cut in all income tax rates, and so high an authority as Sen. George has said that this can be attained within five years. For that, however, it will be necessary to cut expenditures to the bone. Last May THE TRIBUNE argued that a budget for peace need not exceed 15 billions, but that it would require great determination and high skill in both the executive and legislative branches of government to bring that about. At a dinner at the Chicago club on Thursday evening, Dr. Harley Lutz, professor of public finance at Princeton university, placed the necessary post-war budget also at 15 billion dollars, but said that 18 billions is more likely. Even this figure is far below anything that will be realized unless those interested in bringing about economy make themselves heard in Washington.

The cut in taxes is a real step in the direction of bringing about full employment. Lower taxes on corporations mean the launching of new businesses and greater expansion of old concerns. Lower taxes on individuals in the upper brackets mean more funds for risk capital. But cutting government income without cutting outgo sufficiently means inflation. The elimination of useless expenditures is thus the first step toward better times.

PAY FOR CHANGING CLOTHES

[Pittsburgh Post-Gazette]

In ordering two Pittsburgh companies to give their bakers 15 minutes' pay a day to compensate for time spent in changing to and from work clothes, the 3d regional war labor board was no doubt following the precedent set by the portal-to-portal grant to miners.

What we are now trying to figure out is how much a fellow ought to get for shaving.

LITTLE STRANGER

A rival to the atomic bomb as a possible destroyer of cities at one fell swoop is floating around in the sky, unseen, unadvertised, and unknown except to astronomers. We refer to the dwarf planet Hermes, discovered on Oct. 28, 1937, by Reinmuth of Heidelberg university. It was named after him, "Object Reinmuth," until the world's star-gazers put their heads together, and decided that the faint streak on Reinmuth's photographic plate deserved a name out of the planetary catalog.

• • •

Hermes is a wee thing to the astronomical mind. Its diameter is estimated at three-quarters of a mile. Over 1,500 dwarf planets are known to be on the loose, and Hermes seems to be the runt of the litter. The largest, Ceres, is 460 miles in diameter, and most of the others range from 50 to 10 miles from pole to pole. In the lordly court of the sun they are merely a pinch of star-dust.

• • •

Hermes, however, has annoying possibilities for the inhabitants of Earth. It approaches our planet closely enough to hint at a violation of the traffic rules. The distance between us and this pygmy outrunner is almost half a million miles, or twice the distance to the moon. We have the moon under complete control, but Hermes is a problem child. If it should skid into our lane——?

• • •

Full collision, the astronomers say, would change Hermes into vapor and make a dent in the earth considerably larger than the mile-wide meteor crater in Arizona. A grazing impact would break Hermes into two parts, one of which would escape and go buzzing around in space like a stunned bluebottle fly. In either case, the region of the direct hit would suffer extensive devastation of scenery, architecture, and inhabitants.

• • •

The possibility of such a catastrophe is remote. But if you worry easily, Hermes should take your mind off the atomic bomb.

UNIVERSAL NEWS

Has the paper come? Open the door and look;
Nothing; darkness flows in like a brook.
Be certain! Look there and there,
News sheets blown by on the murky air!
Caught in the branches or drifting past,
What is the news that passes so fast?
Does the morning star make front page news?
Will the winds hold parley and headlines use?
Hung in the ash tree, what is the word?
Is it the secret of migrating bird?
Or where the hazel brush hides its hoard?
Brown satin shells by sharp teeth scored?
Where do hard maples their pigment find?
Tell us, O, sheets blown by on the wind.
News from the universe here is unfurled,
News that may heal a jaded world.

NATURE SPIRIT

I would be one with restless meteors
That rip the midnight with their fiery blades,
Or a will o' the wisp among the sycamores,
Given to strange, nocturnal escapades.
I would be one with winds for aeons held
In some black cave, rehearsing odysseys,
Now mailed and shod with lightning, thunder-bellied,
Bringing the cypresses to knotted knees.
I would be one with flame and lava sighed
From depths of some volcano's tortured breast,
Or noon-day sun that glowers, cyclops-eyed,
Or fire that hurdles up a wooded crest.
How can I sit here, meek and Christian-named,
And let my mind be savage and untamed?

The Old, Familiar Places

For the nostalgia department, let it be told that a good friend and I were pondering on a place for dinner. Tears welled in our eyes as we dreamed of Kunz-Remmler's, Vogelsang's, Rector's, the Hofbräu, Edelweiss and Union, Schimpferman's, Henry Kau's, old Schlogl's, Quincy No. 9, the Tip-Top, North American, the States. By then we were drooling. So we had our choice of a one-armed lunchroom or some hotel dining room. Ah, wilderness!

R. J. writes: "Who will receive the amount due a soldier who was killed in action if his widow died before settlement could be made?"

If the soldier's estate was less than $500 and no legal representative of the estate makes demand for payment the children of the soldier would receive amounts due him in equal proportion. If there are no children the money goes to the parents in equal parts if the father is supporting his family, otherwise to the mother alone, and if there are no parents, to the brothers and sisters and children of deceased brothers and sisters. Where the amount due the soldier's estate is $1,000 or more and no payment demand is made by a legal representative, $1,000 of the amount due may be paid to the widow or legal heirs in the order of precedence above.

R. A. writes: "My husband received the Purple Heart overseas. Before he had an opportunity to mail it home it was stolen. Can he get another Purple Heart?"

Whenever a decoration or medal is lost, destroyed, or becomes unfit for use without fault or neglect on the part of the person to whom it was awarded it shall be replaced without charge. Regulations covering decorations are contained in AR 600-45.

A. V. S. asks: "Can a person receive more than one medal or decoration for the same act of heroism or achievement?"

Not more than one decoration authorized by federal law would be awarded for a single act of heroism or achievement.

WHAT DOES MILK OFFER?

HERE in America, milk is classified as one of our best foods. Its use extends from the cradle to the grave. All of us consumed untold gallons in infancy and childhood; adults enjoy it as a beverage, and its merits in illness are well known.

Cow's milk contains almost the same ingredients as the human variety, with the exception of less sugar and more protein. Some call it "nature's food." Altho this may be questioned there is little doubt that it yields a first class protein, digestible fat, a readily assimilated carbohydrate, calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin D. These elements are necessary for growth and development; and survival for long periods of time on the liquid alone is possible. Other edibles may furnish more grams of this or that but in general they are lopsided, and, therefore, must be combined with other dishes.

Dairies supply several types in order to combat criticism as to its palatability and the effect on the gastrointestinal tract. Since milk is capable of absorbing various odors, proper handling is essential. Bacteria and oxidizing processes can also affect the taste. The animals' feed must be watched carefully and should certain plants, such as the wild onion, be eaten, an objectionable tang may be present.

For those who cannot tolerate the firm curds, soft curd milk is available. It is produced naturally in a few selected cows and can be manufactured by filtering the fluid thru zeolites. This method reduces the calcium and phosphorous content slightly. Homogenized milk is a soft curd form. The fat globules are broken up and do not rise to the top in a cream layer. This process is utilized also in making evaporated milk and ice cream. Besides changing the curd and distributing the fat evenly, it has a tendency to impart a richer flavor.

Acidophilus milk results from the addition of a special culture of Lactobacillus acidophilus. This organism is found normally in the intestine, but an increased quantity sometimes facilitates digestion. The product has been found helpful in treating simple, chronic constipation. Canned, dried, and powdered brands have practically the same components as whole milk, and their chief advantage lies in the convenience of storage and transportation.

The employment of milk by victims of peptic ulcer is routine. Should gain in weight be desired this substance, fortified by cream, is frequently useful. It cannot be considered fattening in ordinary quantities. In fact, it is often incorporated in reducing diets as a substitute for high calorie articles.

The value of buttermilk and skim milk for human consumption has never been fully appreciated. It is actually a by-product of the industry in making cream, cheese, butter, etc. In so doing, most of the fat has been removed but the protein and minerals remain. In the feudal days, royalty drank the cream and threw the remainder to the serfs. As a result, the rich became fatter and the poor enjoyed a tasty and nutritious beverage.

PROBABLY NOT

W. A. writes: I have a sore place in my chest and cough a lot. I had an X-ray and sputum test and the doctor said I had pus cells. Could this be tuberculosis?

REPLY

You have had the benefit of some of our best methods of ruling out tuberculosis. If this type of infection were present, your doctor would certainly tell you. By the expression "pus cells" he probably meant that you were suffering from a cold or bronchitis.

SENSITIVE

Mrs. V. writes: I am allergic to the coughs and sneezes of those about me. Some people just will not cover the mouth at these times. How can I overcome my discomfort?

REPLY

Until good hygiene and consideration for others become popular you'll have to take the same chances that we all do.

JITTERY REFLEXES

G. H. J. writes: Does an exaggerated knee reflex mean anything special?

REPLY

Many normal individuals exhibit unduly lively reflexes. The condition is not considered significant unless associated with other neurological findings. A difference in the two sides is significant.

PSYCHIC BASIS

A. R. writes: What could cause extreme tiredness, headache, and nausea after each menstrual period?

REPLY

This is an unusual combination of symptoms and may be on an emotional basis.

Notice of Repossession

The about-to-be-displaced person who has been causing all the disorder in this rectangle of verse and worse for the last few weeks now yields to the forces of civilization.

He grabs his hat, his coat, and his cigarets—plus three fancy ones he found in the top drawer where the rejection slips used to be—and hurries across the street for such solace and refreshment as prudence may suggest and opportunity afford.

Notice of repossession having been duly served by the permanent proprietor of these premises, and docilely accepted, the business of reconversion will begin tomorrow, Tuesday, Oct. 16, if ships, trains, taxicabs, the solar system, and Miss Winn are on time.

Confidential to Miss Winn

A. Between your Greek dictionary and the Vincent Starrett book which describes the celebrated Mencken Bathtub Hoax you will find [unless somebody stole and used them] a bundle of obsolete invitations to cocktail parties given in honor of celebrities who hoped you would put their names in the paper and thus make them super-celebrities.

B. In the composing room, in its usual place, a galley containing about half as much type as it takes to make a Front Views and Profiles column has been scrupulously preserved by your Mr. Blackburn and can be used in a pinch, altho its timeliness grows more and more questionable with each passing day. You will probably reject it at once, and rightly, on the ground that if it were much good it would no longer be there. You may also find a poem or two dealing with birds, flowers, love-in-the-spring, and whether Mr. Winston Churchill will win the election. The ones about birds, flowers, and love may be kept for next May or June if you think best. But those dealing with Mr. Churchill are not likely to be useful—unless you save them for the next war.

C. There is a man named Jinks. [At least there is supposed to be.] You may find him something of a problem. Communications purporting to be from his pen have been received at irregular intervals, and some of them have been printed. But—man or spook—there is mystery about him. At least twice he has announced his own death and made the announcement plausible by following it up with messages from "The Elysian Fields," "The Pearly Gates," and "The Night's Plutonian Shore." [He changed that last one to Plutonium Shore to muscle in on the atom bomb publicity.] Your subtenant never has seen Jinks in the flesh, but has heard from witnesses who claim to have seen him. The most credible—or perhaps the phrase should be most nearly credible—of these are a man in Wisconsin who signs C. R. C. and a more worldly person in La Salle st., "Flaneur," who writes mostly about food.

D. You may notice that H. H. H. has on several occasions occupied what might be called the penthouse of your column. And you will find a few new names in your guest book. One of these is a tearful person called "Elaine of Evanston," who is always loving but never loved. She was rather roughly brushed off by "Lancelot of Lake Forest." Perhaps you would prefer not to know such people, and if so you will know what to do about them. Another you may choose to exile is "Cyanide Sally," who hates almost everybody. And there is Cora Wallace, who sent in the improbable story about her pistol packin' grandmother.

Postscript

Your carpet has been swept; your desk has been tidied up more or less so that it looks almost as neat as Claudia Cassidy's; the obsolete leaves of your calendar have been removed; there is a fresh ribbon in your typewriter; the least interesting of your mail has been stacked up three feet high to await your perusal or refusal; and your air cooling machine is now operating at peak efficiency, just in time for winter.

Merry Christmas, Miss Winn, if I don't see you sooner.

A WHOLE ISLAND MISPLACED

ADAK, Aleutian Islands, Oct. 7—There are several thousand troops here and over a thousand civilian employes. About a thousand of the civilians are being retained here against their will as their contracts have long past expired. Some are being shifted by air and boat from one island to another, yet kept on the pay roll and doing practically nothing. All want to go home, but are told that boats are not available, yet the administration is advertising ships for sale.

There are hundreds of soldiers here who should have been home long ago according to their points, yet here they remain. The command here makes a feeble effort by taking a few of them over to Alaska by plane and dumping them into a camp there, to lie around for God knows how long.

We lost a lot of our troops in Russia after the last war and finally got them home in 1921. We lost a convoy of ships in a Russian port for six months during this war. Now we here are wondering if our bungling government hasn't lost an island loaded with humans.

LEO C. VANCUREN

BUT THEY WANT IT ALL FREE

Chicago, Oct. 7—Herewith a modest proposal. If adopted, it will prove the sincerity of our allies in our joint fight for freedom, and give us a substantial return in human values for the expenditures we have made in the past and are being asked to make in the future.

Why not apply our lend-lease credit balance of 42 billion dollars, and the 12 billion we are being asked to lend Britain and Russia, to the purchase of European colonies in the orient and to the securing of quit-claims from Russia against her dubious title to oil properties in the near east and elsewhere. Surely, this vast sum is greater than the dollar value of these lands.

Then, with title vested solely in us, we can prepare the peoples of these lands for independence, and grant it to them, just as we have the Philippines. Is it too much to ask that our allies let us foot the bill for carrying the four freedoms to all humanity?

TED LEITZELL

DESTROYING FOOD WHILE OTHERS STARVE

Chicago, Oct. 12—I note in today's TRIBUNE that we all have to give up more meat to feed Europeans. I also noted in the Canadian Social Crediter for Sept. 27, 1945, that in both Canada and England they are destroying herring because the fishermen caught so much the price will be lowered. Now why shouldn't that surplus herring be sent to the starving people of Europe?

And why can't UNRRA buy Denmark's surplus meat? There is something rotten somewhere. No one wants anybody to starve, but why ask the United States to feed the world alone when other countries are destroying surpluses?

LAURA LINDE

THE SCARCITY BOYS

South Beloit, Ill., Sept. 29—Wonder if the agencies which recommend the scrapping of 100 billion dollars worth of surpluses will soon demand that if we have an extra garment we burn or destroy it and go without till the farmer raises the cotton or wool, the spinner makes the thread, the weaver makes the cloth, the tailor, seamstress, or knitter makes the garment?

E. L. L.

WAR FUND RESERVES

Chicago, Oct. 12—This is in reply to the query signed "Straight" of Zion, Ill., which was concerned with certain items which were budgeted in the Community and War Fund campaign of 1944.

The sums appropriated for campaign and administration expense in 1944 were expended in that year for which they were budgeted.

The contingent fund and post-war reserve, totaling $876,000, were expended as follows:

Maintenance of veterans' information center, serving returned veterans of all of metropolitan Chicago	$ 85,000
Allocation to the national war fund and other agencies	515,000
Total	$600,000

This leaves a balance of $276,000, against which was charged a total of $205,000 in uncollected pledges to the 1944 campaign, resulting largely from deaths of contributors, removals from the city, and induction of contributors into the armed services. A cash balance of $71,000 remains in the contingent fund and post-war reserve to meet unforeseen demands. Our board of directors does not believe in building a large reserve.

The Community and War Fund is proud of the fact that it leads all other metropolitan centers in the United States in low operating cost and in percentage of collections.

ROBERT E. COBURN

ON GIVING THINGS AWAY

Chicago, Oct. 9—Riding to Waukegan the other day I had the pleasure of sharing a seat with one of our boys just released from the India-Burma front.

One of his buddies, he said, had been court martialed for giving away 20 gallons of army gas and given 40 years imprisonment.

Who has the right to give away government property? One employe can give away a $385,000 airplane and still be classed as honest. Another gives away a mere pittance to possibly some needy soul, and he gets 40 years.

CURIOUS

LINDBERGH'S SERVICES

Elkhart, Ind., Oct. 3—Buy your paper every day even tho I live 100 miles away and am glad to read such grand tributes to our war leaders, especially to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who gave our late President so much information and received so little thanks. It looks as if you are the only one who has the guts to tell how badly Col. Lindbergh has been treated in this war. From appearances one would class it as another Billy Mitchell incident.

FINE FOR CONCEALING WILL

Chicago, Oct. 9—1. Is it true that there is a monthly fine applicable to a person who wilfully conceals the fact that a deceased person left a last will and testament? 2. If so, how long would the fine operate?

V. K.

1. Correct. The fine is $20 per month. See Ill. R. S. Chap. 3, Sec. 212.
2. It could accumulate indefinitely, subject to the statute of limitations.

PALESTINE JEWS WON'T PAY FINE, RADIO ASSERTS

Underground Station in Defi to Britain

JERUSALEM, Oct. 14 (AP)—The underground Jewish radio station announced today that two Jewish settlements would not pay fines the Palestine government has said it would levy against them unless they supply names of persons responsible for freeing illegal Jewish immigrants.

The broadcast by the station, which says it is the voice of a Jewish resistance movement, came as British military headquarters reported no new disturbances in Palestine for the last 48 hours.

The government had said earlier that residents of the Yagur and Bet Oren settlements near Haifa would be fined collectively unless they disclose names of persons who forced release of nine illegal Jewish immigrants from the police Oct. 10.

Escapees Still at Large

Thus far the names have not been revealed and the escapees were reported still at large.

Meanwhile a Damascus dispatch said Syria and Lebanon had decided to act jointly with other Arab states to combat "Zionist infiltration." The dispatch said the announcement was contained in a bulletin issued by the presidents, prime ministers, and foreign ministers of the two countries.

[In Cairo, Emil Bey el Kori, secretary of the Arab party in Palestine, said Jewish immigration into Palestine would be opposed "when the time comes," but he indicated there would be no action prior to the Arab league meeting in Cairo on Oct. 29. He told a massmeeting of the Moslem Brothers association that British policy was responsible "for the disaster which faces Arabs in Palestine and Moslems in the world." He added that "you don't have to worry about your brothers in Palestine because you hear that the Jews are well armed. The Arabs don't lack arms, either."]

Urges Arabs, Jews Unite

GOLCAR, YORKSHIRE, England, Oct. 14 [Reuters]—An "alliance" between the Arab league and the Jewish agency for Palestine to secure industrial and agricultural development of the whole middle east was advocated here today by Fenner Brockway, political secretary of Britain's left wing Independent Labor party.

Brockway added that under his plan the Jews would join the Arabs in demanding immediate independence for Palestine, accepting the basis of a bi-national Palestinian state. In their turn the Arabs would withdraw opposition to Jewish immigration, welcoming the Jews as "co-builders of the near east federation."

JEWS TO VOICE OPPOSITION TO PALESTINE BAN

Chicago's Jewish community yesterday went to synagogs to pray for the homeless Jews in Europe, many of whom are still in concentration camps, that they may be admitted to Palestine. At Chicago Stadium tonight, a huge protest demonstration against England's refusal to permit entry of these Jews to Palestine will be held. Among the headline speakers will be Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.], Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] Mayor Kelly, Lt. Gov. Cross, Rep. Resa [D., Ill.] and Rabbi Solomon Goldman. Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Superior court will preside. One of the colorful moments will be the procession of Orthodox rabbis who will enter the stadium in a body. Doors of the Stadium will be open at 6:30 p. m.

★The GARDEN★

WHEN 10 wild Canada geese dropped down on one of the Fox River farm fields last week, farm residents were reminded that it soon will be time for their annual series of debates with hunters. Each fall, farmers within a 100 mile radius of Chicago find scores of city hunters at their doors, asking permission to shoot rabbits, pheasants, quail, ducks, geese, and other game. Each farmer has to decide whether to permit hunting, allow a limited number of hunters on his property, or ban all hunters.

The hunting season for waterfowl, including ducks and geese, opened last Saturday in Illinois, so the immediate problem before the Fox River farmers is how to protect the visiting honkers. The men themselves would not shoot the birds, therefore they will not permit others to hunt the geese on their land. Similarly, they have a good population of pheasants and at least three sizable coveys of Bob White quail.

Game Birds Aid Farmer

The aesthetic and economic value of these wild birds is so great, from the farmers' standpoint, that they wouldn't think of killing the game. When they work in the fields or drive down the farm roads, they enjoy seeing a covey of quail flush from a fencerow or a gaudy cock pheasant whir over a cornfield. Secondly, a heavy population of game in farm fields represents profits on the farm ledger because the birds are valuable for their consumption of destructive insects and weed seeds.

The hunter's major point in debating farmers on the hunting problem is that the game belongs to the public, not to the landowner. Furthermore, the hunter buys a state hunting license, hence it is his money which supports the game hatcheries which restock farm fields.

The farmer's retaliation is that there would be no game except for his maintenance of vegetative cover for the birds. Furthermore, the farmer's right of controling the use of his land is guaranteed by trespass laws.

Land for Public Hunting

The final point stressed by farmers is that indiscriminate permission to hunt, especially on lands near a metropolitan center, results in overcrowding and endangers the lives of hunters and live stock. Last week a farm boy in Kendall county was injured when a rifle bullet fired by a squirrel hunter entered his knee.

One way of solving the problem of finding hunting places for city hunters is that of providing state owned land for public hunting. The Illinois department of conservation now owns three sites in the Illinois river valley where sportsmen may hunt ducks without charge, and a public pheasant hunting preserve will be opened near Fox Lake, in Lake county, Nov. 11, opening date of the upland game season.

EXPECT VINSON TO URGE HIS TAX PLAN ON SENATE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14 (AP)—Treasury Secretary Vinson is reported to be determined to advocate before the senate finance committee tomorrow the same tax reduction program he presented to the house ways and means group.

He estimated his program would lift 5 billion dollars of the burden off individual income tax payers, corporations, and consumers of specially taxed goods.

The house, however, adopted only half of Vinson's program and passed a bill estimated to ease the tax load by $5,350,000,000. Vinson recommended repealing, on Jan. 1, 1946, the 3 per cent normal tax on individual incomes. This would have the effect of dropping 12 million taxpayers from the rolls. The house voted to retain the 3 per cent levy but to apply surtax exemptions [$500 apiece for the taxpayer and his dependents] instead of taxing all net income above $500.

Two Plants Close Today So Workers Can Hunt

Coldwater, Mich., Oct. 14 [Special]—Pheasant hunting season will open tomorrow and no less than 500 employes of the Homer Furnace and Midwest Foundry plants will lay aside their tools to go hunting. Saturday officials of both concerns posted bulletin board notices to the effect that the plants would suspend operations Monday so that all, including the white collar staffs, may take the day off to hunt. Everyone will receive full pay for the day.

CHURCHILL SUFFERING SORE THROAT; WON'T BE LEADER IN DEBATE

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill is confined to his home with a sore throat and will be unable to attend this week's sessions of parliament, it was announced today. Churchill, who will be 71 years old next month, had two attacks of pneumonia while he was Britain's war time prime minister. He recently returned from his second vacation of the year in the south of France and Italy.

His illness was expected to produce some modification of the plans of the Conservative party, which he leads, to question Prime Minister Attlee's Labor government on the issues of housing and the continuance of war time controls in Britain for the next five years. The Conservatives favor limiting war time controls to two years.

Before Churchill's illness was announced, the heavily outnumbered Conservatives had sent out an urgent call for party lawmakers to support the party's first on-the-record challenge of the Labor government in commons.

BLAME FASCISTS AS SABOTEURS HIT VITAL SPOTS

Munitions Blown Up in a Wave of Attacks

BY P. E. BRIQUET
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

MILAN, Italy, Oct. 14—Sabotage in Italy has taken a serious turn. Recent manifestations, aimed at vital points, betray a carefully prepared plan. Most of the incidents are ascribed unanimously to fascist origin.

Three attacks have been made on a Genoa powder magazine in the last six weeks. More than 100 died in the resultant explosion in one raid and five died in another.

Robberies have been carried out by bandits who obviously were Fascists. The barracks in Bergamo were attacked twice last August. Here and there in southern Italy Fascists were arrested for creating a fascist organization.

Track Down Leaders

Italian police have been tracking some of the leaders in the Como region during the past few days. This was to be expected as the main body of Fascists fled to this area with Mussolini last April, intending to maintain resistance in the Como Valtellina region, tho they failed because of the duce's capture and execution.

The Fascists are trying to make an impression on the public mind by such incidents as the attacks on the Genoa powder plant, or robbery of big sums of money. Yet such efforts are not numerous, betraying that the fascist forces are weak.

One of the worst of recent outrages was the attempt to burn the rebuilt Piacenza bridge, but in this case Po river boatmen who were dissatisfied with their low pay were to blame. The bridge is a vital link between upper and lower Italy and shortens by 12 hours the Milan-Rome trip.

Popular Anger Aroused

The fascist sabotage organization is notoriously unable to effect any considerable damage anywhere in endangering the economic structure of the state. Sabotage is not the best propaganda, often arousing popular anger.

Weakness of the fascist elements is further shown by the fact that before the end of the "social republic," the neo-fascist radio announced creation of fascist werewolves and broadcast frantic propaganda, but so far there has been no effect.

The great majority of the Italian people are unwilling to follow in such adventures. They want reconstruction and peace, and work. So the Fascists' sabotage is only a gesture aimed at reminding the people they are still there and able to do something. Until now it has been a poor show, despite great efforts.

Harmful Factors

Fascist prospects are expected to be bettered in two cases:

1. If a punitive peace is imposed on Italy, she will feel she has not been treated as a democratic country in good faith.

Another factor will be if Italy is abandoned to be the prey of her neighbors, especially the Slavs, and her colonies given as a bonus to satisfy such "imperialistic policy" as allegedly displayed by the soviets in regard to Italy at the recent London conference.

This week the Italian press took exception to any diminution of Italian sovereignty, and emphatically rejected British Foreign Minister Bevin's "guarantee" of Italy's democratic regime, when this alone would give other powers the right to intervene in the country's internal affairs.

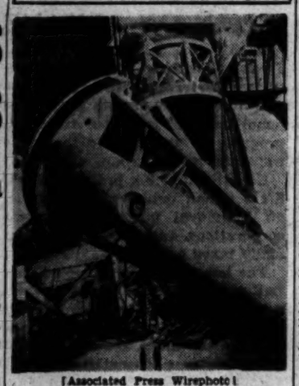
2. Economic difficulties continue to heap up, threatening unemployment on a large scale. If the allies do not manage to provide raw material for Italian industry, famine and no heat in the coming winter will certainly discredit the Parri government, as they have already discredited the Communists.

Critical Comment

Fra Diavolo, Milan's leading satirical weekly, is bitterly critical: "Those who claim to be masters of public affairs tell me I must buy only with a food card, but they forget that the July macaroni ration was distributed only in October, the September oil ration is to appear the coming November, the word 'sugar' has been canceled in the Italian vocabulary, butter is distributed in the same doses as penicillin, and popular restaurants have become branches of nazi extermination camps.

"Either the ministers have the power to requisition everything that is so plentiful on the black market, or they had better find other jobs for themselves."

Giant Telescope



[Associated Press Wirephoto]

Men standing beneath it provide comparison of the size of the mount and mechanical apparatus for the 200 inch Mount Palomar telescope near Pasadena, Cal.

Pasadena, Cal., Oct. 14 (AP)—Coincident with resumption of work on the 200 inch telescope on Palomar mountain, plans for joint control of observatories on Palomar and Mount Wilson were announced today by the Carnegie Institution of Washington and the California Institute of Technology.

Topping southern California peaks less than 100 miles apart, the two observatories might partially duplicate each other's work if there were no unified administration. Mount Wilson has facilities for ranging 500,000 light years into space. Palomar mountain, when its observatory is complete, may be able to see as far as a billion light years.

Mechanical parts of the Palomar telescope—now 90 per cent complete—are undergoing tests. A 20 ton disk of concrete, conforming with the shape and weight of the 200 inch mirror now being ground at California Tech, recently was installed in the base of the telescope to balance the 500 ton precision instrument in operation.

Heading the joint administration will be Dr. Ira S. Bowen, professor of physics at California Tech.

STATE BUSINESS LEADERS DRAFT U. S. TAX PLAN

Huge slashes in wasteful government spending must be made if even the lowest possible future peace time taxes are to be bearable, James F. Stiles Jr., chairman of the federal taxation committee of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday as he prepared to depart for Washington, D. C., to present a new tax program to congress.

James F. Stiles Jr.

The program, adopted by the Illinois chamber and approved by 26 other state chambers of commerce, calls for an immediate five point program of tax reduction below that provided by the "quickie" bill passed by the house last week, and a 20 point long range program.

Stiles, who is vice president and treasurer of Abbott Laboratories, will appear before the house ways and means committee and the senate finance committee with E. M. Elkin of Pittsburgh, Pa., general tax attorney for the Westinghouse Electric corporation and chairman of the federal taxation committee of the National Association of State Chambers of Commerce.

SOCIALISTS AND REDS DEMAND VOTE IN ITALY

ROME, Oct. 14 (AP)—Thousands of Communists and Socialists held mass meetings thruout Italy today demanding that general elections be held at an early date.

A crowd estimated at 20,000, carrying red banners, packed the historic ruins of the great amphitheater in Rome in a joint demonstration. In Berlin, a huge mass meeting was addressed by Pietro Nenni, vice premier and secretary of the Socialist party, and by Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti, who served as vice premier in the Bonomi government.

The meetings appeared designed more as a leftist show of strength than for any actual effect they might have in bringing about early elections. Communist and Socialist leaders who are members of the government are aware that elections this year are unlikely.

2 'STRONG MEN' RULE ARGENTINA; SHAKE UP ARMY

Censorship Lifted as New Regime Takes Over

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 14 (AP)—Gen. Eduardo Avalos and Vice Adm. Vernengo Lima, firmly in control of the government and the nation's armed forces, moved swiftly today to bring order out of Argentina's political chaos.

The two new "strong men" who last night took over six of the most important of Argentina's 11 cabinet posts gave an immediate demonstration of their control over the military establishment by ordering a drastic shake-up in the army high command.

At the same time, it was reported authoritatively that Avalos had asked all 14 provincial interventors to submit their resignations at once. These posts, which carry the authority of governor, were all filled by Vice President Juan Peron when he was in power.

Take Over Six Ministries

Avalos, who already was minister of war, last night took over the ministries of finance and interior. Vernengo Lima is head of the navy ministry, the foreign office and the ministry of justice and education.

Seeking to resolve the crisis, which two days ago resulted in serious street fighting, the two ministers worked thru Sunday with President Edelmiro Farrell, whose resignation they are holding for use "at any moment." The president was approving all steps taken by his two "aides."

Bolstering the feeling of growing confidence that they might succeed in restoring order were their lifting of censorship, the resignation from the army of Peron and three of his close associates, the absence of clashes between police and civilians during the past 24 hours and an order by the president directing that police stationed in the central district of the capital be returned to other parts of the city.

New General Named

The shift in the military high command included the appointments of Gen. Francisco Saenz to fill the post formerly held by Avalos as commander of the 2d army division in charge of Campo de Mayo, the nation's chief military garrison and a big factor in Argentine politics; Gen. Santos Rossi to command the 1st army division, stationed in Buenos Aires, and Gen. Ernesto Florit as director of the military college.

A high military source said Generals Alberto Guglielmone and Alfredo Escobar had been confined to their quarters at the 1st infantry division headquarters in Buenos Aires. Gen. Orlando Peluffo, former foreign minister, also was confined there.

The three generals were leaders of a group which has been insisting that the president resign and turn the government over to the supreme court until the elections scheduled for April 7, 1946.

Peron at Naval Base

La Nacion said Peron had been removed from the gunboat where he had been under arrest and transferred to the naval base on Martin Garcia Island in the River Plata.

Juan Fentanes, who was named yesterday as acting secretary of labor and social welfare—a post formerly held by Peron, broadcast a speech over the government radio reversing many of the previous policies of that office.

Fentanes declared that the state should not "foster hatreds nor passions nor assume the workers' prerogative of drafting demands on employers."

The government also lifted the suspension of the national universities of La Plata, Buenos Aires, and Litoral, which were closed earlier this month. Reinstated at the same time were all professors dismissed after they signed a declaration in late August saying they would not conduct classes until constitutional normalcy was restored to the country.

U. S. Must Keep Powerful Air Force, Doolittle Says

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 14 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Doolittle was tendered a "welcome home" party tonight as he arrived in Detroit to be the city's guest for a day. Urging the United States to keep a powerful air force, he told a press conference, "Don't forget the atomic bomb could not have accomplished what it did if we had not already acquired mastery of the air."

Oct. 15—Graf Zeppelin Arrives

COMMERCIAL flights across the oceans soon will be commonplace, but it was a notable event on Oct. 15, 1928, when the Graf Zeppelin arrived in the United States from Germany on the pioneer round trip commercial flight across the Atlantic.

On its first westward voyage the huge airship carried 20 passengers, each of whom paid a fare of $3,000. Dr. Hugo Eckener, designer of the ship, commanded the crew of 40. The trip to the United States consumed 111 hours and 38 minutes, over a course estimated at 6,300 miles.

Dr. Eckener and some of his associates were entertained at the White House on Oct. 19, and two days later were honored guests in Chicago.

During its nine years of active service, the Graf Zeppelin made 578 flights, carried 17,591 passengers, and 245,524 pounds of mail and frate, and flew more than a million miles. It crossed the Atlantic ocean 139 times on trips to both North and South America.

The Graf Zeppelin made a flight around the world in 1929, traveling 21,700 miles in an elapsed time of 20 days and 4 hours.

Regular commercial air service across the North Atlantic was started in 1936 with the airship Hindenburg, which had accomodations for 50 passengers. On May 6, 1937, while landing at Lakehurst, N. J., the hydrogen filled Hindenburg caught fire and was destroyed, with a loss of 36 lives.

MARTIN SEEKS PROMPT ACTION ON 2-TERM LIMIT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14 (AP)—House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts today requested prompt action on legislation for a constitutional amendment to limit Presidents to two four-year terms.

He made public a letter to Chairman Sumners [D., Tex.] of the house judiciary committee seeking an early hearing on the bill which Martin introduced last January.

"It has heretofore been stymied because of a belief it obstructed the ambitions of some one individual," Martin wrote. "That is not the case now. It does not at this time materially affect the political fortunes of any individual, and it would appear that now is the time to submit the question to the American people."

TWO CONFESS MURDER OF VET IN LOVERS' LANE

Seized on Highway After Holdup Stabbing

St. Joseph, Mich., Oct. 14 [Special]—Sheriff Erwin Kubath of Berrien county said today that two Negroes seized while changing a tire this morning on U. S. Highway 12 near Benton Harbor have confessed the lovers' lane slaying n Racine early yesterday of Corp. Charles De Lucca, 22.

They are Clarence Bernette, 26, and Chester Wright, 24. A third Negro, Hanson Scott, Jr., seized with them, is being held as an accessory in the slaying, the sheriff said.

Stabbed During Struggle

De Lucca, a guard at the army disciplinary barracks in Milwaukee, was fatally stabbed when he jumped from his automobile to struggle with two Negroes who attempted to rob him and a girl companion, Charlotte Nelson, 21, of Racine, at 2 a. m. in Racine's South Shore park.

Sheriff Kubath said Bernette and Wright have admitted the attack on De Lucca. Bernette came to one side of the car with a knife and Wright came to the other side with a gun, they told the sheriff.

Wright ordered De Lucca and Miss Nelson to get out. De Lucca, a veteran of two years service in the European theater, came out with fists flying, and in the melee Bernette stabbed him several times.

Bernette and Wright said that Scott drove them to the park and waited while they attempted the holdup. When the soldier collapsed, Scott drove them away, they said.

Murder Warrants Issued

They made a brief stop at a Racine rooming house where all had been living, and left about 3 a. m. to drive to Michigan. All are former residents of Muskegon.

Murder warrants for Bernette and Wright and a murder accessory warrant for Scott had been issued yesterday by Racine authorities. Berrien county deputies took them into custody when a routine check on the license number of their car disclosed that it was the car in which the three Negroes had fled Racine the previous night.

Kubath said the three have agreed to waive extradition, and will be turned over to Wisconsin authorities.

CITIES FIND DDT CURBS DISEASE, INSECT PESTS

Cities thruout the country are making widespread use of DDT for community control of disease and insects, the American Municipal association said yesterday in Chicago. Some cities have reported excellent results.

Not a single new case of infantile paralysis has been reported in a Boston, Mass., neighborhood which was hand sprayed with DDT after an outbreak of the disease. Airplane and hand sprays have been used in polio epidemics in Miami and Dade county, Fla., and health officials in Richmond, Va., are experimenting with the insecticide to control Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Cleveland, O., is using DDT in city dumps; 10,000 business establishments are being sprayed with it in Atlanta, Ga.; it is being brushed on the walls of the municipal hospital in Hartford, Conn., and in Los Angeles, Cal., it is being used instead of soap and water to clean the jail walls.

FEEDER CATTLE EXHIBIT OPENS AT STOCK YARDS

The two day Chicago feeder cattle show, the city's first exhibition devoted exclusively to feeder cattle in carload lots, will open in the union stockyards today. Most of the cattle are from the Wyoming, Montana, and Nebraska range country and are scheduled to be fattened in cornbelt feed lots to put them in prime condition for slaughter. All will be sold at auction tomorrow.

Entries are 95 carloads of Hereford cattle, 20 of Shorthorns, and 15 of Aberdeen-Angus. Judges are Ferd F. Smith, Maquoketa, Ia.; J. Brown Hitt, New Berlin, Ill., and Homer Graber, Mineral Point, Wis.

Feeder cattle previously have been shown at the Chicago market fat stock show.

PAINTER SEIZED ON RAPE CHARGE OF SECRETARY

Doc Walter, 39, Negro, 5329 Michigan av., a painter and decorator, was arrested in his home yesterday on the complaint of a University of Chicago secretary that he raped her in her apartment on E. 54th pl. The victim, a widow and mother of a 5 year old daughter, said Walter did some decorating for her last spring and left his business card with her. She said he entered her apartment Saturday night by posing as a Western Union messenger, then threatened her with a knife.

BUTTER OUTPUT RISES; END OF RATIONING NEAR

Butter production combined with supplies released by the army will be sufficient to make possible the end of butter rationing by November, Owen M. Richards, manager of the American Dairy association, which has headquarters in Chicago, said yesterday.

The first carloads of the 80 million pounds of butter recently released by the army for civilian use will reach the market in a few days, he said. Richards said butter makers expect to produce an additional 80 million pounds this month, and the yearly trend of butter production is upward.

"The butter outlook is getting better every day, and soon there will be enough for every need," he said. "We are reaching that happy day when once again the American public can have butter—not excuses—in the home and in restaurants."

Pepper reported talks were under way on a Turkish request for large scale financial backing from the United States.

PLANES WOULD HAVE DEFEATED JAPS—SEVERSKY

TOKYO, Oct. 14 (AP)—A land invasion of Japan would have been a grave error because air power could have handled the job, Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky, plane expert and author, said today.

"I don't think our leaders would carry their loyalty to the old doctrines of warfare to that end with heavy loss of life when it was clear a strategic air force could have done the job," he declared.

When reminded that the war department had confirmed that plans for the landings were in hand when Japan surrendered, De Seversky said, "Then that was a case of strategic astigmatism." He said Japan was a nation of natural pillboxes and if it had not been for air power the fight on the surface might have taken many hundreds of years. De Seversky is here to view bombing results for the war department.

Working Wings —to him!

THERE are many reasons for the farmer's keen interest in flying. For one thing, he has a landing field right behind the barn. But, more importantly, a plane to him is a useful farming tool. With it he can inspect crops, livestock, fences . . . get machine repairs in an emergency, fast . . . spot forest fires . . . control insects . . . check on soil erosion . . . hop to town. No flight of fancy this, farmers have actually been doing these things.

It may come as a surprise that this Colossus, the American Farmer, is the liveliest civilian-aviation prospect in sight. But consider:

Item: Last August a group of farmer-owned planes, most of them piloted by their owners, flew to the first "Flying Farmer" Day held by Oklahoma A & M. Item: New survey shows that 60% of personal planes sold immediately after the war will go to residents of rural areas. Item: Check-up in Kansas reveals that 455 out of 10,000 farm families intend to buy a plane, as against only 196 out of 10,000 city families.

Farmers' interest in aviation proves one thing: They're a progressive element in the national picture, open to new ideas, eager to put them to work—live prospects for all like-minded advertisers.

The farmer's very progressiveness is the main reason for his interest in Country Gentleman. In every issue he finds more information—more detailed, more authoritatively treated—than in any other farm magazine. It's no wonder the American Farmer gives first place to Country Gentleman; its spirit matches his own. And wins for it a preference and loyalty unmatched among other magazines.

What business can ignore the farmer's strength?

BOARD TO STUDY STRIFE AMONG AFL AFFILIATES

Steps to Penalize Film Strikers Held Possible

BY GEORGE HARTMANN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 14—The executive board of the American Federation of Labor will open its fall meeting here tomorrow. Most of the members are here except President William Green, who is expected tomorrow.

During its meeting, which takes the place of a convention of the AFL this year [the convention was called off because of federal travel restrictions] an important matter to be discussed is the jurisdictional dispute among a number of AFL affiliates and the AFL International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes which has caused a strike at Hollywood movie studios.

AFL leaders here attribute the violence in Hollywood to a desire of the strikers to force the AFL board to take action to settle the dispute. Four film studios in Hollywood have been picketed by strikers in a dispute between the painters' union and the IATSE over bargaining rights for studio set decorators. The painters' union won a labor board election last week. The strike started March 12.

Board's Position Peculiar

Because the board does not possess the constitutional power to oust an affiliated organization [this can only be done by the convention] the board's position is a peculiar one. During convention years it could recommend suspension of the IATSE's charter, and action could be taken then by the convention.

President Green tried to settle the dispute several weeks ago in Washington, D. C., but failed.

Some AFL board members now hold that regardless of constitutional provisions, the board will find a way to penalize the IATSE for refusing to turn over workers of other crafts to the AFL unions to which they belong.

The board also is expected to draft a policy for industrial peace, which will be submitted by the AFL committee which will take part in the labor-management conference called by President Truman for Nov. 5.

Coöperative Action Urged

"The present unrest and disturbances which are delaying the reconversion program are troubling AFL leaders no less than the leaders of government," said a council member. "We believe a way can be found for the orderly settlement of disputes in peace time if the proper spirit of coöperation is developed between labor and management and if effective machinery is set up by the government."

Another AFL leader said that altho the AFL would attend the conference, "it will not be a party to any more controls over labor, such as there were during the war."

The council also is expected to discuss the question of wage rates as compared with prices and with the shorter work week since the war ended. Whether it will make wage demands similar to the 30 per cent increase asked by CIO unions could not be learned.

The failure of Great Britain to permit increased immigration of Jews into Palestine is expected to be considered by the council. The AFL has favored establishment of Palestine as a Jewish national homeland.

Struck Studio Shifts Work

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 14 (AP)—Anticipating another day of mass picketing and a production stalemate, Warner Brothers' studio today ordered 40 girls of a dance chorus to report to the Twentieth Century-Fox studio tomorrow morning.

The girls are being directed by Leroy Prinz for scenes in a movie based on the life of Songwriter Cole Porter. The Fox lot has not been picketed. The transfer of the chorus was a new tactic in the attempt of Warners to operate in the face of the strike. Prinz was hit over the head with a bottle in last week's disorders.

There was no strike activity today as the studios normally are inoperative on Sundays. Warners, Columbia, Technicolor, RKO-Pathe, and Universal all have been mass-picketed and Strike Leader Herbert Sorrell indicated the flip of a coin might decide what studios would be visited tomorrow.

"Not much chance of the teachers going on strike, is there Miss Blake?"

A VANDERBILT'S BUDAPEST HOME STANDS INTACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 12 [Delayed]—The stately Szechenyi mansion, which the Vanderbilt millions renovated and modernized before World War I. when Gladys, daughter of Cornelius Vanderbilt, married Count Laszlo Szechenyi, scion of one of the oldest Magyar families, stands intact in fashionable Andrassy blvd.

German staff officers occupied the dwelling in the last stages of the war, erecting a barbed wire stockade, and they enjoyed the hot water in the Vanderbilt-installed black onyx bathtubs when the city was under siege.

Andrassy blvd. boasts the world's oldest subway, a two mile electric line, opened in 1889, but it never grew longer and remains a shuttle service, single dinky cars going from the center of Pest to the park and zoo. The statue of Gen. Harry Hill Bandholtz, who represented the Hoover relief commission in Hungary after World War I., battered by shells during the bombardment, has been repaired and placed on its pedestal in Liberty sq., opposite the American legation. The Nazis never bothered the statue.

Normal Child Craves Love and Approval

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"My mother loved me, in her way, I guess," said a woman, "but she never was articulate about it, nor do I ever remember her putting her arms around me or giving me a hug.

"She was good to me and often went without herself that I might have things, so that was her way of expressing affection, I have always tried to think. Nevertheless, I would have adored it if mother had praised me now and again and kissed me at odd times, instead of only when I left or returned from a visit to my cousin's home which was 90 miles away.

"I remember when Aunt Mary visited us when I was about 12, and I overheard her say to mother, 'Betty is a sweet child and she will be a very pretty woman. You must be proud of her standing in school. She's young to be entering high school in the fall.' I cherished those words for years, and they helped me over many hard spots."

Every child should feel that, in his or her mother's eyes at least, he or she is the nicest and best child.

Of course we all feel that the unself-conscious child is the happiest and gives the most joy to others, but at the same time we needn't withhold all visible signs of affection and approbation to gain our ends. Lack of one or both of these things may well give a child a sense of inferiority.

It hurts no one, large or small, to know that some one who is dear to him, loves him and approves of him. With children this can be felt if they have loving and approving parents, and if the parents' feelings shine thru the mist of everyday routine.

But with older children, girls and boys who are nearly young women and men, something more definite often is needed.

They often feel qualms about their looks, their physique, their manners. It gives them faith in themselves to feel secure in home love, approval, and interest.

"How do I look tonight, daddy?" often is a young girl's wistful longing for a reassurance of her father's love and faith in her that gives her the poise and courage she needs to carry her to the dance and the world outside of home.

Thru the Looking Glass

Every now and then it's impossible to give the hair its regular shampoo. A head cold, lack of time for a visit to the beauty shop, or an unexpected engagement interferes and still the tresses need some kind of cleaning. That's the time to fall back on a dry shampoo to polish and freshen the hair and make it presentable until it can be washed.

One efficient and convenient preparation is a delicately scented white powder that comes complete with a terry cloth mitt for application. Whenever the hair needs a quick cleanup sprinkle a bit of the powder on the mitt and then draw it over each strand until the head has been covered. Using a perfectly clean hair brush, brush the tresses until every trace of the powder has disappeared. The whole process should take about 10 minutes.

The result is a shining head of hair, free from dust and excess oil, and minus the disagreeable, stale odor which soiled hair takes on. Comb the locks into place—the dry shampoo doesn't disturb waves or curls, and you're all set to step out, assured that the hair looks nice.

If you have an allergy to orris root you needn't hesitate to use the powder preparation, since it is entirely free of the substance.

The dry shampoo is a boon also to hospital patients or invalids who cannot have the hair shampooed with soap and water. One of the discomforts of being confined to bed is having to endure sticky, soiled hair, but that can be eliminated by a treatment with the dry shampoo. With the tresses clean and sweet smelling, the patient will feel and look much better.

Babies' Needs in Three Urgent Cases Are Told

[Sally Joy Brown department activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

South side readers may be able to supply the needs of young Mrs. R., whose case has been reported by a social worker. She is the mother of three children, a little girl 4 years old, another 2, and a prematurely born baby boy about one month old, who has now gained enough weight to meet hospital specifications for release. Her husband is not in the home, and an agency has found it expedient to arrange for the placement of the second child for the time being. A baby buggy is urgently requested to assure the newcomer of an opportunity for regular periodic health and development checkups at the welfare station. Warm clothing of all kinds is needed, especially a snowsuit, size 7, for his 4 year old sister.

Another south side worker referred deserted Mrs. M. to our department for assistance in obtaining a baby bed for a 10 month old baby boy. The child has outgrown the cramped space of his basinette and has been sharing his mother's bed. He had several bad falls when he rolled over onto the floor in his sleep, and the mother is eager to obtain a larger crib for him as soon as possible.

The plight of Mrs. D., a near north side mother, has been brought to our attention by an agency worker, who is eager to help her obtain necessities for her expected baby and her three small children: Girls 3 years old and prematurely born year old twins, who are underdeveloped. Because of an injury which her husband received on his job, for which he is receiving no compensation, the family has had to accept relief, and it therefore is unable to provide a crib, size 2-4, two high chairs, buntings for the twins, a snowsuit for a girl, 3, infant's clothing and woman's apparel, size 16-18.

A Tidy Person Often Is Tops in Efficiency

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Maybe there's nothing to the aphorism: "Tell me how tidy are your bureau and clothes drawers and I'll tell you what you are!" because a lot of beauties just might go down to ignominy on the test. Yet, there is a certain personal efficiency that may be deduced from scenes of neatness in the home.

And, say what you will, efficiency and good management cannot be ruled out of the lives of those in search of or in need of sustained attractiveness. The careless one comes a cropper at the moment she least expects or welcomes it, and a crimp is put in her charm pronto.

There's no time like the present to begin correcting habits that are no credit to girl or woman. How about your desk drawer, Miss Business Girl? Maybe you're not paid for keeping those drawers tidy, but if tidy they are the chances of your meeting employer favor in one form or another might just hinge on it. Not that your employer would be snooping, but you'd be always ready to produce the required paper, note, address, or even your lipstick in a hurry when asked. Efficiency, that's it! Odds and ends cluttering a drawer create a certain disorder of person.

The same physchology applies to home drawers and closet space. Clutter them and you're never the girl who can be ready in a hurry and be ready with confidence. You can't find that nonrun stocking mate, nor the other glove, so you use a makeshift. Orderly bureau drawers invite and get nice sachet scents, mended slip straps, clean reserve gloves, and hosiery.

Be a crank about your dressing table and bathroom tidiness. It's horrible to see dirty washrags squeezed into a ball; lipstick and rouge stains on jars and bottles, sights that get up a man's dander. And after all, he is the one you aim to please, isn't he?

Capt. Dorothy Gerhard, Army Nurse, to Wed Maj. Hagerty

BY JUDITH CASS

WINNETKANS who met Maj. Edward D. Hagerty of the army medical corps when he was here last week for a brief visit in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. E. Ashley Gerhard will be interested to hear that he and the Gerhards' daughter, Capt. Dorothy E. Gerhard of the army nurse corps, will be married in the near future. Today's announcement culminates a war time romance, as Capt. Gerhard and her fiancé served with the same medical unit in Africa and the European theater of war.

Capt. Gerhard, whose father is rector of Christ church, Winnetka, left Saturday to return to Halloran General hospital in New York, where she has been under treatment for malaria contracted in Africa. A veteran of three years of service with seven campaign stars on her overseas ribbons, she expects to be discharged soon. Her younger sister, Patricia, who is on this season's debut list, is following in her footsteps and training as a cadet nurse in St. Luke's hospital school of nursing.

Capt. Gerhard attended North Shore Country Day school and Bryn Mawr college, and her fiancé was graduated from the University of New Hampshire and the medical school of McGill university. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Hagerty of Nashua, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. McCain of New York, formerly of Chicago, announce the engagement of their daughter, Grace Dodge, to Capt. Lawrence R. Durrell of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Durrell of Scarborough-on-Hudson, N. Y. Miss McCain, granddaughter of the late Judge and Mrs. William S. McCain of Little Rock, Ark., attended the Girls Latin school, was graduated from Chapin school, and now is a senior at Vassar college. She made her debut at the Junior assembly in 1943 and is a member of the New York Junior league. Capt. Durrell attended Hill school and Williams college. He served with the Flying Tigers for 15 months in India and China, and was shot down twice and wounded.

Travelers Aid Notes

The Woman's board of the Travelers Aid society will entertain at tea next Monday in the Knickerbocker hotel for Mrs. Muriel C. Henry of New York, who is to be the new extension secretary of the Chicago society, and the 700 volunteer Travelers Aid workers. Mrs. William Friedeman, president of the board, was a member of the organization's first volunteer class in the spring of 1941. Pouring tea will be other first volunteers, including Mrs. Paul Holinger, Mrs. Nell Fowler, Mrs. Samuel Futronsky, and Mrs. Flora Adler, in addition to Mrs. H. S. Russell, chairman of the volunteer advisory committee.

As the society needs still more volunteers to carry on its increasing work in connection with dislocated families of service men, the board will welcome back several young workers who have been away from the city. These include Mrs. L. Gifford Gardner, who is expected back from Grosse Ile, Mich., now that Lt. Gardner has been released from the navy; Mrs. Charles F. Cutter, whose husband also is out of the navy, and Mrs. F. Osborne Elliott, who is returning to Chicago Nov. 15. Lt. Comdr. Elliott is in the Pacific, but expects his release this winter. Here on a short visit is another early volunteer, Mrs. Hamilton Herman, the former Martha Schueler, with her husband and baby daughter. They live in California.

Wedding News

From Lancaster, Pa., comes the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Earl McKinley Wood of the marriage there Oct. 9 of their daughter, Shirley-Ann, to Lt. John Eric Axel Schroeder of the naval reserve. The wedding took place in the rectory of St. Mary's church and was followed by a reception in the Lancaster Country club. The bride attended Connecticut College for Women and is a member of the Lancaster Junior league. Lt. Schroeder, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. S. Schroeder of Chicago, studied at the University of Chicago. He has returned from 16 months of submarine duty in the Pacific. They are at home in San Francisco, Cal.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Observations

A study of women in the United States during the war has been undertaken in the graduate school of Bryn Mawr college, Advertising & Selling relates.

According to the report, the war increased the opportunities for women in clerical, sales, and professional work, and in many instances, in occupations formerly largely dominated by men—such as bank tellers, insurance agents, shoe clerks, etc. In banking, for instance, the number of women employes more than doubled until it comprised about one-half of all workers.

Increases came in manufacturing industries but the most spectacular was in transportation equipment which employed fewer than 2,000 women in 1939, and by '43 had risen to 504,300.

Based on the incomplete study, after-the-war predictions are tentative. However, the Bryn Mawr researchers seem to believe that women will continue to be employed in aircraft [tho in smaller number], in the automobile industry [in larger numbers than before the war], in transportation as ticket sellers, and in light jobs; also that there will be an increase in the nursing profession and in social work, but a continued decline in teaching . . . that there will be "the greatest number of double-pay envelope families in United States history."

Time Saver

And now I have plenty of time—
Time to go to a fitting—
Time to have a shampoo
To read and pick up my knitting.

And now you have plenty of time—
For dentists and barbers and shaving—
For business appointments and such—
It really has proved quite a saving!

And now we can say to our friends
"O come . . . come, don't let it defeat you—
The swift, eager tempo of love" . . .
[I wish I were running to meet you!]

Occasionally when something difficult does come up, it is quickly and pleasantly put to right thru our "Gripe Box" tacked to our dressing room wall, in which we drop surprisingly infrequent notes to each other. These "gripes" never go unheeded, with nary a curdled temper on either side.

Our motto, printed over the "Gripe Box" is: "If you live only for yourself, you'll wind up living by yourself." ETHEL HOLZ

DIAMOND LIL

Top Honors Go to Jean Carney in Hunter Trials

BY ELEANOR PAGE

That fine Indian Summer weather which was confidently expected over the week-end came a cropper somewhere along the airways Saturday night, and instead of a mild, hazy day, an exceptionally brisk one, with rain laden clouds scudding across the skies, greeted the hardy souls who gathered yesterday to watch the first Longmeadow Hunter trials since the war began. The event was held at the Longmeadow stables west of Winnetka, over an attractive jumping course laid out along the bottom of a gentle valley.

The spectators had a fine view of the jumpers from the crest of a hill looking west, but they also received the full strength of the wind, and while a few of the hunt officials and participants were wearing the traditional "pink" coats, everybody present had one touch of pink in common—his nose. The only rain that fell, however, poured down during the luncheon break in the program, forcing back into their cars or to other shelter such groups as the Ernest S. Ballards, the Hill Blacketts, the Stewart Boals, and Col. and Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence, who hospitably were dispensing the cup that cheers to their friends among the half frozen riders and onlookers.

The only casualty of the afternoon was Miss Priscilla Blackett, who was thrown when her horse refused a jump, but she was not injured.

Top honors of the day went to Miss Jean Carney, the William Roy Carneys' subdebutante daughter and a new member of the Longmeadow Hounds, who captured a blue and a red ribbon in the lightweight hunter classes, as well as the coveted Longmeadow Championship cup, which originally was donated by Col. Lawrence and Denison B. Hull, in 1939, when they were joint masters of the Longmeadow Hounds.

Members of the Wayne-Du Page Hunt, competing in the hunt teams competition, presented a neat appearance in their trim black coat with yellow lapels outlined in red, but a Longmeadow team, composed of Randall E. Poindexter, joint master of Longmeadow with Mr. Ballard; Mrs. Carl E. Miller and Robert Breen, was awarded first prize.

Riding for Wayne-Du Page were Mr. and Mrs. Corwith Hamill and McClure Kelley. The famed "Longmeadow grays" also took part in this event, with Col. Lawrence up on his 20 year old Dublin, which formerly belonged to the late Noble B. Judah; and Mrs. Charles F. Harding III., and Frederick J. Price mounted on matching gray hunters.

Mrs. Leonard Smith Jr.'s stadium boots; Miss Evelyn Allen's mink coat and Mrs. George Merck's automobile robe were envied by all as the warmest appearing accessories present.

Miss Evelyn Gardner was busy introducing her fiance, Ensign Warren Carstensen, to her friends, and telling their well wishers that they are to be married Oct. 27. Being welcomed on all sides were the Burdett Masts, back from California on a visit; Mrs. Frank F. Fowle Jr., who has returned from Washington, D. C. with her three little girls; and William C. L. Barker, who is back in civilian clothes after serving with the Royal Canadian navy, and his wife, the former Priscilla Curtis.

The Talcott Griswolds, the S. Austin Popes, the Chauncey Blairs, the junior Rush Butlers, whose daughter Judy was among the young horsewomen; the Stephen Y. Hords and Mrs. Frederick L. Spencer and their daughters, Brent Hord and "Gigi" Spencer; the senior and junior Ross J. Beattys; Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kovas, the Donald Easters, the Stuart Templetons, the Taber DeForests, and Miss Jane Zimmerman were other spectators.

Filmy Lingerie of Filmland Is Breath Taking!

BY REA SEEGER

Howard Greer, the Lochinvar designer out of the west, has sent his swishiest, most glamorous hostess gowns and negligees to town, to captivate susceptible shoppers. This superlative collection features only one-of-a-kind creations, and they are breath taking! You just have to see them to swoon over the materials. One is a seductive combination of rare and precious cafe au lait colored lace combined with copper colored bands of chiffon. Others are of slinky figure revealing crepe in chalk white or banana shade, suavely draped and fitted in long silhouette and with long sleeves.

And siren are his hostess pajamas, too. One creation has a harem cut skirt of crimson velvet, topped with a black taffeta jacket, the jacket with huge dots of gold metallic. Around the neckline is a casually tied scarf of almond green to match the turned back peplum in front of the jacket. Another coal black crepe lounging outfit is really a full divided skirt, and there's a decorative creation of lounging pajamas made out of cocoa colored fabrics. The velvet trousers have a GI look because they are puffed around the ankles. The jacket is of cocoa colored fine crepe swinging with a couple dozen gold tassels and bands of gold braid.

These you MUST see: The filmy beauty of point de esprit in wicked black, made over a black satin slip; the full bell sleeves and the wide full skirt of dotted net appliqued with jade green flowers and leaves and with a wide sash belt of vermilion crepe around the narrow waistline. The most dramatic original is a fabulously beautiful house coat of real French changeable taffeta in palest green white. The softly blurred design is one of green foliage, typically pompadour patterned taffeta. The skirt is extremely wide and full around the floor, smooth and revealing around the hips and waist. Velvet cuffs and a cavalier collar provide the deep contrast.

Met. Announces "Lohengrin" Opening, "Butterfly" Revival; More Piebald Shakespeare

THE Metropolitan Opera has chosen "Lohengrin" to open its 62d New York season Monday night, Nov. 26. Possibly because to its Wagnerian regulars, Helen Traubel, Kerstin Thorborg, Herbert Janssen, and Norman Cordon, it has added the Swedish heroic tenor, Torsten Ralf, and the distinguished conductor of Glyndebourne and other fame, Fritz Busch, who also will conduct "Tristan and Isolde."

Most significant of the revivals scheduled for the 18 week season is Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," which opera companies dropped like a hot cake after Pearl Harbor, altho during the fiercest of the conflict a Chinese soprano sang Cio-Cio-San for our front line troops fighting the Japanese. Altogether, it looks like a boom Puccini season at the Met, with the golden jubilee of "La Boheme," plus revivals of "Il Tabarro" and "Tosca." Wagner's "Tannhäuser" will have its centennial, and there also will be revivals of Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet," Verdi's "A Masked Ball" [for Bjoerling], Donizetti's "Don Pasquale," and possibly Verdi's "Otello" and Strauss' "Salomé."

If he arrives in time, the young Italian, Antonio Votto, will join the list of conductors, which also holds Bruno Walter, George Szell, Paul Breisach, Pietro Cimara, Emil Cooper, Wilfred Pelletier, Karl Riedel, and Cesare Sodero. Mr. Walter's operas include Beethoven's "Fidelio" and Mozart's "The Magic Flute," and Mr. Szell's Wagner lists "Parsifal" and "Die Meistersinger."

In addition to Jussi Bjoerling, the famed Swedish tenor who shares the highest musical decoration of his country with Mr. Ralf, the Met regains another singer, Arthur Kent, a young baritone who has been in the army. New on the list are Pierette Alarie, Canadian soprano, Thomas Hayward, Kansas City tenor, and Robert Merrill, Brooklyn baritone, all audition winners; Joel Berglund, Swedish baritone formerly with the Chicago Opera; Dorothy Kirsten, soprano first heard here as Grace Moore's protegée, and Ezekiel Wellington, bass. Edward Caton is the new ballet master, and Marina Svetlova returns as première danseuse.

Notes

The ultimate in theatrical miscegenation is contemplated by Harry Wagstaff Gribble, director of "Anna Lucasta." Mr. Gribble figures the "Romeo and Juliet" feud never has been presented with real conviction and he proposes to fix things up. In his production the Romeo Montagues will stay Italian, à la Shakespeare, but the Juliet Capulets will be a Moorish clan. That rosy glow in the east is Margaret Webster blushing at what she started. . . . Yesterday afternoon Orchestra hall was filled with invited solicitors for the Community and War Fund drive, who were being given the second and "highbrow" entertainment of three [the others involved Danny Kaye and Jimmy Durante] contrived for their benefit, a brief concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the direction of Désiré Defauw. I dropped in for Sibelius' "The Swan of Tuonela" and found it the orchestra's best performance of the season to date, focused on the languor of the drowsy English horn. Mayor Kelly wasn't there, tho. He had a cold. . . . Recurrent but not choice is the idea of organizing a Chicago Drama Critics Circle to award prizes to shows and actors. I still think that considering the age and condition of most of New York's prize shows by the time they reach Chicago, our best bet is to give them a bottle of tarnish remover so they can shine up their plaques.

Jewish Fund Hikes Palestine Building Budget to $250,000

The Jewish National Fund of Chicago adopted a budget of $250,000 for building up Palestine at its annual conference last night in the Congress hotel. The figure compares with $200,000 last year. Dr. Bernard Shulman was reëlected president, and Dr. Solomon Rivlin was reelected director of the fund. Dr. James G. Heller of Cincinnati, chairman of the United Palestine Appeal, told of a recent two months' visit to Palestine and the progress being made there.

POND DRAGGED

"We went to the neighbors on either side," Newcomb said. "No one was home in the Galt house. Pliny said the housekeeper always went away Saturday night and didn't get back till Monday morning. He said Huntley Price generally got himself invited out over the week-end. Anyway, we made a racket and roused nobody. Then we went home and called Lt. French and the sheriff and got them on to it. We called all the people she knew, and nobody knew where she was."

For a moment Newcomb's cast-iron composure cracked a bit.

"Your housemaid said you and Harrison had gone away in the car early this morning and told her you wouldn't be back to dinner. So then, I was positive you'd taken Erica with you. I felt a little better about her . . . for a time . . . till you came back. Now I don't know what . . ."

The telephone rang. Harrison switched it to the library. It was Lt. French. He had sent a couple of troopers until he could get a free moment to look into it himself.

Now, he wanted to know what they had done so far, so the police would not duplicate their efforts. Mr. Izenga put Newcomb on the wire.

Mr. Izenga watched the muscles in Toby Newcomb's jaw as he talked. No matter what else could be said about the man, one thing was certain. He loved Erica with a fierce devotion that made Mr. Izenga less able to hate him.

Suddenly Toby shouted, "No, No. It can't be that way. No. All right. Go ahead. Yes, I looked . . . as much as I could. Yes. I will. All right."

He dropped the telephone and shut his eyes. Then you could see him pull himself together in a mighty rallying of strength. Mr. Izenga thought of Huntley telling how he loved Erica . . . and Westerly. And Westerly had come first. Again Mr. Izenga wondered if Huntley were the ideal mate for Erica.

Newcomb said, huskily, "French is going out to Westerely. There's only one place they haven't looked there." He paused. "They're taking . . . grappling hooks."

"No," Mr. Izenga whispered.

"I'm going out there," Newcomb stood up. "Do you want to come?" It was equivalent to peace terms.

Mr. Izenga was beginning to have great trouble in keeping up his dislike of this brusque stranger.

"Yes."

It was chummy in Erica's maroon coupe in the rain. Chummy with the memories of the good times each man had had in it, with Erica.

"Of course you called the Dukes?" Mr. Izenga asked.

Newcomb said, "O my yes. A swell set of relatives she's got."

"And Ridge Dawson?"

"He was on his way to dinner with some people. He said he was sure she'd turn up. He hung up while I was still talking."

They parked in the drive near Westerly's handsome entrance. There were troop cars everywhere and civilian cars. The grounds were full of people. Troopers were busy back at the five acre pond. Mr. Izenga fought down a nauseous faintness as he watched Newcomb cross the wet grass in long strides toward Lt. French.

Mr. Izenga wondered, for the first time, why Newcomb had had to telephone the police. Wasn't he being guarded? Why did he not simply tell his guard? Or was he supposed not to know he was being tailed?

Newcomb might have the endurance to watch the troopers dragging that pond, but Mr. Izenga knew that he did not. He wandered away, avoiding the would-be gossipers and sympathizers, alike. He went thru the hedge into the Galt grounds, seeking solitude.

It was a gloomy place, even on a bright day. There were many pines and drooping hemlocks mixed with the maples and beeches in the grounds. Mrs. Galt was one of those people who consider trees sacred.

Mr. Izenga wandered miserably around the very old frame house with its crazy turrets and bay windows and cut off corners. It had been one of the first houses built in the district, when electricity was just a wild idea. Later, the house had been wired. The glass covered meter near the back porch seemed an anachronism.

Mr. Izenga stopped to listen to the distant hum of horrid activity. His eyes, which had been fixed on the meter, blinked. The sight in the right eye was extraordinarily keen. He went closer. Yes, that silvery disc with the marked edge was moving round and round.

Could that be the electric refrigerator? He went all around the house. The shades were down in most of the rooms, upstairs and down.

Nowhere could he see a faint line of gold that would indicate a light was burning. Yet somewhere in the depths of that huge, silent old house, electricity was being used, and Mr. Izenga had to know why.

He almost ran thru the thick shrubbery separating the two estates. As he came out on the grounds of Westerly, he trotted toward the pond then stood still. He saw French, busy with his troopers and Newcomb, grimly vigilant.

He would like to tell French if he could be sure this hunch would amount to anything

In Newcomb he discerned a fellow feeling against legal quibbling. If he could get him aside, without French's attention he was sure he could count on coöperation.

It wasn't easy. The lieutenant was diabolically aware of everything that went on. Several times Mr. Izenga saw French watching him with speculation.

But presently French was called over to the pond's edge by the men in the boat. Mr. Izenga slipped close to Toby Newcomb and whispered.

"Follow me . . . after a few moments . . . to the Galt place, next door. Rear of the house."

Mr. Izenga had to wait much longer than he wanted, for Newcomb to turn up. Then Newcomb came barging thru the underbrush with a lot of noise. He wasn't familiar with the paths. He looked around for quite a while before he saw Mr. Izenga huddled under the back door hood.

"Couldn't get away any sooner," he whispered. "Had a hard time shaking off those troopers. Suspicious guys. What's up?" He didn't seem impressed with Mr. Izenga's probable news.

Mr. Izenga went out in the rain, pointed to the meter and explained his theory. Newcomb gazed at it a long time. Then he made a circuit of the house and came back. Of course it was possible that the refrigerator was open or out of order and wouldn't shut off.

"But." Mr. Izenga added, "it makes me very unhappy not to be sure."

"I know how you feel. Of course, we could call the police and ask them to break in, but they're funny sometimes. They might think we hadn't enough evidence to risk taking such action. It's serious, you know. Breaking and entering."

Mr. Izenga said, "If you can get anything open . . . in any way . . . I will fix it with Imogene Galt. One of my oldest friends. I am not going to sleep tonight unless I have been thru this house."

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠65 ♥A72 ♦J54 ♣KQ1063

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. Partner has shown a good hand and you are willing to go to game, but you are not quite sure whether the hand belongs in hearts or no trump. This bid will afford partner the option to go to game in hearts if he happens to have a five card suit, or to proceed with the no trump if he feels that that is the best chance. Your three heart bid is not a denial of strength. On the contrary, if your hand had been indifferent you would have responded with two hearts in the first place instead of taking the trouble to show the clubs.

Q. 2—Partner opens with one diamond and you hold:

♠J764 ♥A7 ♦Q765 ♣742

What is your response?

A.—Two diamonds. This is the best way to describe your hand and avoid complications. A one over one response in spades would be poor tactics, because there is no point in bidding a nonbiddable suit when you have a bid available that adequately describes your hand. If partner has a good hand and a four card spade suit he is at liberty to show it over your two diamond response.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠9865 ♥7 ♦AQ642 ♣953

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	3 spades	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. It is true that you have already shown your full strength, but the fact remains that your hand is much more adapted to play at spades than at no trump and you must therefore guide your partner back into the right department. A four spade bid at this point should not be construed as showing any additional values.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠9863 ♥Q7 ♦AK72 ♣QJ7

The bidding has proceeded as in problem 3.

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. In this case your hand is very well suited to play at no trump since you have supporting cards in all the side suits. You should defer to partner's judgment even the you hold four trumps. In fact there is some doubt as to whether you should have supported spades on the second round or gone on to three no trump yourself.

Q. 5—Partner opens with one spade and you hold:

♠A104 ♥Q642 ♦AK3 ♣KJ4

What is your response?

A.—Three no trump. Approach bids with hands of this type are more apt to be confusing than helpful. There is a bid especially designed to show an evenly balanced hand with three and one-half to four honor tricks. That bid is three no trump which just fits this hand. Partner will know at once the combined honor strength of the hand and if he fails to bid again a slam will not be missed. This is by no means a shut-out bid. It denotes a hand that is one trick stronger than the normal two no trump response.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠Q65 ♥A1063 ♦KJ954 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. With a single club you desire if possible to steer the contract out of no trump. You have the choice of bidding three spades or showing your own four card major. It is possible that partner has four hearts in which case that will be the best contract. If you bid three spades you will not be able to find out. Whereas if you bid three hearts and partner has a five card spade suit he has the opportunity to rebid it and offer you a choice of contracts.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠A1063 ♥Q63 ♦KJ954 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. Here again you have a choice, if partner has a five card heart suit that is surely where you wish to play the hand. The objection to bidding three spades is that partner even if he has a five card heart suit will have no reasonable chance to rebid it and if he rebids three no trump you will be in a quandary as to whether to pass or bid four hearts, which later action would be somewhat aggressive in view of your values.

Q. 8—Partner opens with one spade and you hold:

♠1032 ♥K3 ♦A1075 ♣J942

What is your response?

A.—Two spades. This is an in-between hand. It has a little too much merit for the negative one no trump response and the best way to get "off the spot" is to make a single raise on slightly less than normal trump support.

Meat is more plentiful and we now have more red points with which to buy it, but many of us learned new tricks with fish when meat was hardest to get, and the fish dinner at least once a week isn't going by the board.

The quickest, easiest, least smelly way to prepare fish is by the "flash" cooking method. It is true that proteins toughen when subjected to high heat, but in this case the fish is exposed to the heat for such a brief period that there's no time for drying or toughening of the fish protein. Eight to 10 minutes at 550 degrees will cook a thick fillet to perfection with no odor in the kitchen.

Hot Oven Method of Baking Fish

Cook any of the common fresh or frozen fillets [cod, haddock, flounder, whiting, mackerel, etc.] in this manner. Allow three servings to the pound. Dip fillets into milk seasoned with salt, then into fine crumbs, and lay on greased baking sheet. Brush over with melted butter or bacon drippings. Or dredge with seasoned flour, place on the greased sheet, and brush with oil or butter. Have oven preheated to 550 degrees and place baking sheet in oven. Fillets will be done in 8 to 10 minutes. Serve at once with a previously prepared sauce, or with a wedge of lemon and a sprinkling of parsley to each serving.

Or the fillets may be popped under the hot broiler and broiled without turning for what may be an even shorter cooking period. Thin fillets will broil in about five minutes. The fillets should not be turned in either the oven or broiler.

Cucumber sauce is wonderful with fish fillets. There are several ways to make such a sauce. One is to add grated cucumber with lemon juice, salt, and pepper to thick sour cream.

A good tartar sauce always is acceptable with fish. Usually tartar sauce is made on a mayonnaise base, but boiled salad dressing will do, if it's a creamy kind.

Tartar Sauce

1 cup mayonnaise or cooked dressing
¼ cup finely chopped pickles
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 tablespoon capers [optional]
1 tablespoon finely chopped ripe olives
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 hard cooked egg, chopped fine
1 tablespoon green pepper, chopped fine

Blend ingredients and add lemon juice to thin slightly and point up the flavor.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 14—Can't you just see Akim Tamiroff as the bull fighting coach for Esther Williams in "Fiesta"? In that also will be Ricardo Montalban, Mexican star. You'll get three bull fights in technicolor, all to be done in Mexico City. I'll never forget the first—and only—one I saw down there. I expected to be appalled, but I was fascinated by the color and pageantry of the whole show, even tho I felt sorry for the bulls. They seemed a little old to be treated with such disrespect. . . . Jeanette MacDonald opens her concert tour in Wichita, Kas., Oct. 16. She's taking an all-Adrian wardrobe with her, including costumes for "Romeo and Juliet" and "Faust," which she'll sing in Chicago. She won't be home until Christmas. . . . Teresa Wright and Niven Busch will be off on a New Mexican holiday when she finishes "Take This Woman." He's taking his woman right out of this town. . . . Lois Andrews bought an apartment house here, they say, with George Jessel's alimony. Now she's negotiating for another.

More Plans for the Astaires

The Fred Astaires sold their Beverly Hills home to the William Wylers, but while back east they'll build a new one on land adjoining their present home. After all, they've had this house eight years, and you know how girls like to change. The children go east with them, but their horses remain behind. . . . Pat Kirkwood, new English girl playing opposite Van Johnson in "No Leave, No Love," is seeing Hollywood thru Hurd Hatfield's eyes. . . . Max Baer remains four weeks more by request as master of ceremonies at Slapsy Maxie's. Max is amusing, has loads of personality, puts over a patter song which James McHugh and Harold Adamson wrote for him, and does a baseball skit with Slapsy, Ben Blue and the rest of the gang. He has had an offer from South America which calls for $3,000 a week. I'd never know this was the same guy who did the picture for Metro titled "The Prize Fighter and the Lady," with Myrna Loy playing the lady. He's mellowed and happy. . . . Lovely Letitia Fairbanks, a cousin of Doug Jr., is Mrs. William Millner. There was a time when we thought she'd be Mrs. Robert Taplinger, but that was a long time ago and Bob's still a bachelor. . . . Charles Farrell, before receiving his navy release, was promoted to lieutenant commander. It couldn't happen to a nicer guy. . . . Dore Schary will make a three week speaking tour of midwestern colleges about movies—how they're made, their mission [if any besides entertainment]—which should be instructive and highly entertaining. Dore knows his subject.

The Full Life in Make Believe Land

I hope Capt. Gene Markey will play the head of the FBI for Alfred Hitchcock in "Notorious." A captain in the navy and J. Edgar Hoover in one generation! And neither was Gene's idea. . . . At Elsa Maxwell's party she asked Dorothy Parker for a picture to put in her book. Dot replied, "You'll have to wait till I get back east so I can have a sitting." That's a delicate touch on our Hollywood retouching. . . . In one week the Detroit Tigers twisted the Cubs' tails; I was given a record of De Wolf Hopper reciting "Casey at the Bat," and I also received a little booklet, "The Scarab," from an unknown fan which had this notation: "Tomorrow there'll be another world series. Tell you what. We'd rather that De Wolf Hopper were alive, and we could hear him recite 'Casey at the Bat,' than have a season's pass to the series with free airplane transportation back and forth." Hopper would have liked that.

Lost His Shirt and Pants

Cary Grant was almost walking around our town in shorts. During the mass picketing, all his clothes, except the suit he was wearing, were hanging in Warners' studio, where he'd used them for scenes in "Night and Day." The strikers wouldn't let him in for a change of pants. Cary said, "If it had continued one day longer I'd have been walking around in my B. V. D.'s." . . . Some of the requests coming in for a new air show include one for President Truman to play the piano while his daughter, Margaret, sings. Then there was a woman with no girth control who wanted to measure hers with Sydney Greenstreet's on the air. How could you ever get the sound of a two-way stretch on the ether? . . . Seen at Club Donroy listening to Lorraine De Woods' chanting were George Raft and Betty Doss, the S. Z. Sakalls, Leo Gorcey, and at the same table Anne Sheridan, Steve Hannagan, Fibber McGee and Mollie, and Dave Chasen.

BY JAMES SEGRETI

The Chicago Cardinals' long losing streak came to an end in Wrigley field yesterday.

A fast, hard charging line and a speedy group of back field performers humbled the once mighty Bears, 16 to 7, in the presence of 20,784 in Chicago's first professional football game of the season. The victory, first for the Cardinals in 30 National Football league games, also was their second triumph over their north side rivals in five years. The Cardinals whipped the Bears, 21 to 7, in the first game of a two game series in 1940.

Cantor, Seno Lead Attack

Two half backs acquired this season from eastern teams—Leo Cantor from the New York Giants and Frank Seno from the Washington Redskins—were the leaders of the Cardinal offensive. Paul Christman, the former Missouri star recently discharged from the navy, failed to display his one time passing wizardry, but he figured prominently in the victory.

Cantor smashed over the Bear line for both Cardinal touchdowns, from the 3 yard line in each of the second and third quarters, after the Bears had taken a 7 to 0 lead in the opening period. Joe Kuharich, ex-Notre Dame guard and another recent navy dischargee, added the two extra points, and the Cardinals were credited with a safety in the final minutes of the game when Sid Luckman's attempted pass hit the goal post and bounded into the end zone.

Bears Make 17 Yards on Ground

Except for a brief flurry shortly after the start of the game, the Bears showed little of their old time offensive power. They failed to make a first down by rushing and made only 17 yards on the ground. Luckman's completion of 13 out of 26 pass attempts brought them 196 yards as they suffered their third defeat this season, the first time since 1938 that they had dropped three consecutive games. They previously were whipped by Green Bay, 31 to 21, and Cleveland, 17 to 0.

The game was two and one-half minutes old when Luckman's pitching arm brought the Bears their only touchdown. It was accomplished easily and it appeared the Bears might go on a scoring spree, but goal line threats thereafter were halted by the strong Cardinal line.

Leo Cantor, Chicago Cardinals left half, goes over in the second period for south siders' first touchdown in their winning battle with the Bears in Wrigley field yesterday. Glen Burgeis, Bear tackler, grasps Cantor too late. The Cardinals went on from this point to score in the third quarter and were aided by a safety in the fourth period. The victory ended a 29 game losing streak for the Cards.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 14 (AP)—The revitalized Detroit Lions dampened the Philadelphia Eagles' championship ambitions today by ramming across a touchdown in each period and upsetting the Eagles, 28 to 24, in their first home game of the National Football league season.

Sparked by Charles Fenenbock and Bob Westfall, the underdog Lions struck thru the air three times to score, while the Eagles tallied two of their three touchdowns on running plays.

The Eagles, pre-season favorites to win the league's eastern division title, were dealt their first setback of the season and their second in 22 games.

Lions Score in Six Minutes

The Lions punched over a touchdown six minutes following the opening kick-off as Fenenbock, Detroit's sharpshooting passer, flipped a 31 yard pass to Westfall. Bill Callihan place-kicked the extra point, first of his four successful tries.

With less than two minutes to play of the opening quarter, hard running Steve Van Buren swept around right end and weaved 69 yards for a Philadelphia touchdown. Roy Zimmerman added the extra point.

The Eagles grabbed a 10 to 7 lead as the second quarter opened when Zimmerman dropped back to his 48 and place-kicked a field goal.

Midway in the period Zimmerman attempted to punt from his 20. Callihan blocked the punt and Jack

Giants and Yanks Battle to 13-13 Tie in Field Goal Duel

BY WILFRID SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Oct. 14—The New York Giants put on a storied finish in the last minute of their battle in Yankee stadium this afternoon with the Boston Yanks and it was Ken Strong, the old man of professional football, whose placement from Boston's 20 yard line tied the score, 13 to 13.

This was Strong's second placement of the day, which matched two by Augie Lio, Yankee guard. Each team scored a touchdown in the first half.

A crowd of 33,113, attracted by the hybrid Yankees, who currently have league permission to use Brooklyn's men, saw the battle under gray skies. Rain fell briefly at the start of the fourth period.

Giants Have Property Rights

While Brooklyn uses the Yankee name, Boston today was in New York's Yankee stadium on Brooklyn's authority for the only game the Giants, who have property rights on both banks of the Harlem river, would permit.

The thrills these rivals, who still are undefeated in the battle for the Eastern division championship of the National Football league, staged this afternoon stemmed more from defense than attack. The Giants, for example, once a rugged, bone crushing crew, gained only 60 yards by rushing. They got 118 yards by passing, however, and another old man, Arnie Herber, one time star of Green Bay's Packers, completed five in 10 attempts for that total.

Boston Opens Scoring

Boston scored in the opening period and traveled 52 yards in 12 plays for the most convincing demonstration of the game. George Cafego and John Grigas provided the speed and passing, with Pug Manders threatening thru the line. The assault was marked by three first downs, all on forward passes. Four of Boston's first five throws were caught and the last, Cafego to Bob Masterson, left end, covered 14 yards and moved to the Giants' 4 yard line.

Manders plunged for 2 yards and Boston got a yard by penalty for a Giant offside. Incidentally, this was New York's only penalty while Boston lost 80 yards by assessment. From the 1 yard line, Grigas swept defensive right end to score, and Lio added the point.

Herber Sparks Giants' Attack

Herber's substitution in the second quarter started the Giants toward a tie. Six plays covered 53 yards, with Herber's initial toss to Frank Liebel covering 32 yards. Liebel also caught the second throw in the end zone, a gain of 14 yards. Strong's place kick tied the score at 7 to 7.

Boston immediately counter-attacked, with Grigas breaking away for a 45 yard run to the Giants' 34. The Yankees continued to within 5 yards of the goal, but a holding penalty set them back and, on fourth down, Lio place kicked with the ball on New York's 27. The Yankees led, 10 to 7, at the intermission.

Late in the third period, Ward Cuff's 42 yard return of Scott Gudmunson's punt created the opportunity for Strong to tie. He booted between the posts with the ball on Boston's 20 yard line.

Weiss Blocks Punt

On the third play of the final period, after the rain had slowed the Yankees, Lio kicked his second field goal from New York's 34 yard line. For 13 minutes, the Yankees protected their 13 to 10 advantage.

Boston's eighth penalty of the game, an offside on Gudmundson's fourth down punt, forced the Yankees to repeat the play. This time John Weiss, right end, broke thru to block the kick. He recovered and ran 32 yards to Boston's 18 yard line.

Boston's line stopped three plunges tho yielding 5 yards. With 45 seconds to play, Strong kicked the tying field goal. Statistics:

30 DAY MEETING TO OPEN TODAY AT SPORTSMAN'S

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Sportsman's Park, the nation's leading half mile race track, opens 30 days of thorobred competition this afternoon, Chicagoland's final meeting of the season which closes Nov. 17.

Purses totaling $420,000, a record for a half mile establishment, will be distributed; minimum awards will be $1,500, the same as at both Lincoln Fields and Hawthorne; and most of the horses which campaigned at the Stickney track will compete on the Cicero oval.

Two Weeks of Racing for Charity

In addition to the regular fall meeting of 18 days, two weeks of racing for charity have been added. The first, from Nov. 5 thru Nov. 10, will be sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., which raised $245,000 during its meeting at Sportsman's Park last fall. Wagering during the 1944 charity session totaled $4,334,900, an increase of more than $300,000 over the 1943 charity meeting.

The second week, from Nov. 12 thru Nov. 17, will benefit the Children's Home and Aid society, Catholic Youth organization, Sister Kenney foundation, LaRabida sanitarium in Jackson Park, Herald-American charities, Daily News Neediest Family fund, Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children, Ladies' Aid Society of Passavant hospital, Chicago Chapter of the Red Cross, Mount Sinai hospital, and the Salvation Army.

Keeshin Makes Improvements

John L. Keeshin, president and general manager of Sportsman's, has made many improvements for the comfort of the guests since the spring meeting. Both clubhouse and grandstand now are enclosed on three sides to protect the public from inclement weather, and a solarium atop the clubhouse has been erected for visiting celebrities.

The program calls for a $5,000 handicap each Saturday and two $2,500 events on each Wednesday's card. The purses will be distributed to owners of the first five horses instead of the usual four. In addition, Keeshin has established a jockey award of $2,500 in Victory bonds to be distributed to the four leading riders with $1,000 for first place.

Post time for the first race will be 2 o'clock on week days and 1:30 on Saturdays. Tuesdays have been set aside as ladies' days.

Turning Back the Pages

Our newspaper runs a feature
That always holds me enthralled,
"Turning Back the Pages of History" is what it's called;
Maybe the paper in your home town
Has a feature the very same,
If so I know it has helped you
Recall many a forgotten name.

A baseball team of care free lads,
And from the reader below,
I gasp to think that most of them
Are now middle aged men whom I know;
A picnic group in gala attire
On a river outing gay,
And most of them, I am saddened to think,
Have long since passed away.

In this evening's paper I noticed
A smiling young graduate class,
All unaware of how swiftly
The tide of the years will pass;
One fine day, I thought to myself,
Thru life's changeless mystery,
This print may appear thru the mist of a tear,
"Among the Folks in History!"

BY EDWARD PRELL
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 14 — The Cleveland Rams today became a power for the first time in their modern professional football history. Trailing by six points when the final quarter started, the powerful and gifted young men from Ohio startled the Packers and 24,607 fans with a three touchdown parade. The result was a 27 to 14 victory and the first National Football league defeat for the hardy northerners since they won the title last December.

This was the first time the Rams had beaten Green Bay since 1939. And they came to their full power this afternoon, proving to the last doubter that they are to be a factor in the first post-war race.

It was a sweet victory for Adam Walsh, Cleveland's freshman coach and one time Notre Dame star. It brought a roar from George Trafton, the Rams' line coach, who last year was Curly Lambeau's assistant here. And it was more welcome to the other members of the coaching corps, like Bob Snyder, who has used his old time Bear savvy in helping Cleveland install the T formation.

Rams in Chicago Sunday

Chicago fans will see these hell-for-leather Rams next Sunday when they defend their western division lead against the Bears. They will see Bob Waterfield, the rookie from University of California at Los Angeles, who is the Rams' Sid Luckman at quarter back, a cool field general whose confidence and poise never wavered when it appeared the Packers had taken command in the third quarter. They will see a strong defensive line and a band of hard runners. And Jim Benton and Steve Pritko, two fellows who catch Waterfield's pitches.

The Rams had a 6 to 0 lead before the game was six minutes old. But in the final minutes of the second quarter a fumble gave the Packers an opening. They quickly turned it into a touchdown on plays powered by Ted Fritsch and Don Hutson's kick for the point put Green Bay in front, 7 to 6. In the third period the champions tacked seven more points on their lead. They were safe — by a point — even if the Rams scored a touchdown.

Colella Scores Two Touchdowns

But the Ohioans didn't stop there. They tallied twice more and at the finish the Packers were a disorganized lot. Leading this crushing attack was little Tom Colella, a veteran back who had been pushed into the background by the Rams' successful nation-wide hunt for new talent. Tom scored twice.

Cleveland, in using the T formation, was sparing with passes, throwing only 16 to Green Bay's 30. But Waterfield completed 8 and the Packers' average against a strong pass defense was only 33⅓ per cent. Hutson caught passes today and one of them led up to the second Green Bay touchdown which looked decisive until the Cleveland outburst.

Rams Score on 7 Plays

The Rams scored the first time they had the ball after forcing Green Bay to punt following the kickoff. At that some thought Cleveland was lucky, for Don Greenwood, former Illini, fumbled on the first play. Joel Mason of the Packers, picked up the ball and ran 44 yards for an apparent touchdown, but officials ruled the ball was dead. From their 44 the Rams proceeded to score on seven plays. Waterfield started it with a pass to Benton for 17 yards, then fed the ball on a ground attack which netted a first down on the Green Bay 17. Then the quarter back passed off to his right to Benton who caught the ball in the end zone. Waterfield kicked goal, but Cleveland was holding. From the 17, Waterfield missed and this absent point loomed more important until the fourth period rout.

The Rams stopped a Packer drive late in the second quarter and took the ball on downs on their 27. On the first play Colella fumbled and Paul Lipscomb, freshman Green Bay tackle, recovered on the Cleveland 25. Fritsch pounded for 11 yards, then for 8, then for 5, to the 1. Irv Comp cut back thru a vacant spot at defensive left tackle for the score and Hutson kicked

LOYOLA DEALT FIRST DEFEAT BY ST. MEL, 20-6

Fenwick Routs Catholic of Joliet, 55 to 19

St. Mel's High school football team defeated Loyola academy, 20 to 6, on Loyola's field yesterday to win its third straight Catholic league game while dealing the Rogers Park school its first loss in three starts. The triumph gave the St. Mel eleven first place in the north section.

The west siders scored in the second period when Bill Bradley's punt from back of the goal line was blocked by Pat Dougherty, who also fell on the ball. Joe Burgamelster kicked the extra point. In the final period, Don Cannon swept off left tackle for 45 yards and George Kraft sprinted for 55 to register St. Mel's other touchdowns. Loyola made its score on a 10 yard pass, Fred Dempsey to Fred Lindstrom, who ran 50 yards.

No. 3 for Fenwick

In a south section contest in Hanson park, Fenwick romped over Catholic High of Joliet, 55 to 19. Because St. George was idle yesterday, Fenwick took over the south section lead with three victories to the Evanston school's two.

Dick Martin, Fenwick left half, made three touchdowns, two of which resulted from passes by Roger Brown. Brown scored in the opening quarter when he intercepted a pass and ran 40 yards. In the second period Martin intercepted another Joliet pass and dashed 95 yards to score.

Weber, defending champion, battled St. Philip's to a 7 to 7 tie in St. Philip's field. It was Weber's second tie contest in three starts.

Leo Beats De La Salle

In a south section battle, Leo defeated De La Salle, 21 to 12, on Shewbridge field. It was Leo's first league victory. Frank McGuire, Lion sub back threw a 15 yard pass to Bill Smith for one of Leo's touchdowns. Also in the south section, Mount Carmel won its second league contest in three starts, whipping St. Rita, 27 to 0, in 83d-Yates stadium. Bill Trendel of Mount Carmel scored three touchdowns and kicked three extra points.

In north section games St. Ignatius overwhelmed Holy Trinity, 45 to 0, and St. Patrick's beat De Paul academy, 18 to 13. Lineups:

LITTLE WORLD SERIES IS WON BY LOUISVILLE

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 14 (AP)—The Louisville Colonels of the American association nailed the 1945 Little World series pennant to the Parkway field flagpole here this afternoon by defeating the Newark Bears, 5 to 3, in the sixth game before 7,882 shivering fans, and taking the series, four games to two.

Held to five hits by three Newark pitchers, the Colonels broke a 3 to 3 tie in the last of the eighth when they scored the pair of runs which won the series. Rex Cecil went the route for the Colonels, fanning eight men and keeping the International league club's 10 hits well scattered. Score:

Louisville	000	210	02*— 5 8 0

Michigan Fight Against Army Wins Votes of Eastern Fans

BY WILFRID SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Oct. 14—If continuation of Michigan's football series with Army rested solely on the Wolverines' performance yesterday, there would be 70,000 affirmative votes in this city. For Michigan's young men, admittedly deficient in experience, gave Army a more severe tussle than the 28 to 7 score indicates.

Michigan will entertain Army next fall in Ann Arbor and that concludes the present agreement. H. O. [Fritz] Crisler, Michigan's athletic director and football coach, is on record now, however, as being a Barkis. He's willing to play Army any time. This definitely leaves the matter up to the academy authorities.

Meet Navy on Nov. 10

The Wolverines also have booked Navy in Baltimore Nov. 10. The Midshipmen are expected to make the return trip to Ann Arbor in 1947.

Michigan's current popularity in New York is based on its intricate attack, which never functioned more smoothly altho the cast was not up to pre-war Michigan standards. The Wolverines didn't have the power to match Army, but in deceptive manipulation they left little to be desired.

Michigan Has Open Date

Michigan's squad headed for home today with no game scheduled this week and ample time to prepare for its game at Illinois Oct. 27. Michigan is by no means out of the Western conference race altho beaten by Indiana. The Wolverines hold a decision over Northwestern and will meet Minnesota and Ohio State, current title nominations, as well as Purdue.

Purdue's defeat of Iowa Saturday, 40 to 0, matched Ohio State's touchdown production over the same opponent a week ago. Hence, Purdue and Ohio State, meeting Saturday in Columbus, top the conference program of four games.

Fort Warren a Sturdy Foe

Ohio State has now beaten Iowa and Wisconsin, but the 12 to 0 conquest of the Badgers left considerable room for improvement in continuity of attack. When the number of scoring oportunities is reduced, failure to capitalize can be disastrous. This may happen against Purdue.

Big Nine Standings

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.	Pts.	O.P.
Purdue	2	0	0	1.000	53	7
Ohio State	2	0	0	1.000	54	0
Indiana	2	0	1	1.000	26	14
Michigan	1	1	0	.500	27	20
Northwestern	0	1	1	.000	14	27
Illinois	0	1	0	.000	0	6
Wisconsin	0	2	0	.000	7	25
Iowa	0	2	0	.000	0	82
Minnesota	0	0	0	.000	0	0

GAMES SATURDAY

Illinois at Wisconsin.
Indiana at Iowa.
Northwestern at Minnesota.
Purdue at Ohio State.
Notre Dame at Pittsburgh.
Great Lakes at Marquette.
Wayne at Michigan State.

While Minnesota only whipped Fort Warren 14 to 0 yesterday, a surprisingly low score, it was the kind of a game the Gophers needed to prepare for their opening conference contest this week with Northwestern. And that, in turn, will preface the Minnesota-Ohio State battle Oct. 27 which will be most important in the title race.

The Illinois-Wisconsin game this Saturday is critical to these rivals, for neither has won a conference game and the defeated eleven must finish in the second division.

Indiana, an easy victor over Nebraska yesterday, 54 to 14, is unbeaten in the conference altho tied by Northwestern. The Hoosiers have trounced Michigan and Illinois and should add another triumph to their impressive showing at Iowa this week.

Pitt Next for Irish

Indiana's next conference game after Iowa is Nov. 10 at Minnesota at which time the Hoosiers should still be undefeated in the Big Nine race. This will provide another critical game for the Gophers, who will have met Ohio State and Michigan on successive Saturdays.

Notre Dame disposed of Dartmouth yesterday, 34 to 0, with ease, using 50 players. The Irish next face Pittsburgh, which was beaten by Michigan State yesterday 12 to 7, and then Iowa before playing Navy in Cleveland's Municipal stadium Nov. 3.

Chicago Loses to Eintrachts in Soccer, 4-1

BY OFFSIDE

The New York Eintrachts, national amateur soccer champions, defeated the Chicago National league All-Stars, 4 to 1, in Sparta stadium yesterday before a crowd of 3,500. Chicago had 32 scoring attempts while the Eintrachts made their four goals in 10 chances.

Chicago was first to register, the goal coming after 20 minutes of the first half when Pete Matevich headed a high shot from Alex Boessea into the net. Five minutes later the Eintrachts tied it up, Eddie Valle heading a high cross to Werner Miether who beat Goalie Bill Stein. The Eintrachts took the lead shortly thereafter when Ernest Graewe booted high toward the All-Stars goal, the ball landing in the net out of Stein's reach.

The amateur champions widened their lead early in the third period when Gerhard Latsch, taking advantage of a lapse by Chicago's full backs, scored from three yards, beating Goalie Joe Csonka, who replaced Stein. The All-Stars pressed their attack, but failed on three scoring opportunities thereafter only to see Valle boot over a well placed pass to Miether of the Eintrachts, who scored his second goal, the final of the contest.

In opening games the Rago Bros. squad defeated a juvenile all-star team, 4 to 0, while the Major all-stars and a picked First Division group played to a 1 to 1 tie. John Kunst of the Chicago Sport club scored for the Majors in the first period and Nick Apostalos of the Necaxas tied the count for the First Division from a penalty. Lineups:

Eintrachts [4]		All-Stars [1]

RAMS RALLY TO WIN, 27 TO 14, OVER PACKERS

goal for a 7 to 6 lead with less than two minutes left in the half.

Fritsch Scores in 2 Tries

Early in the third period Joe Laws returned Waterfield's 36 yard punt 14 yards to the Packers' 46. The champions put it over in nine plays. Don Perkins dashed for 9 and Roy McKay for 7. The Rams drew a 5 yard penalty for coaching from the side lines and Fritsch hammered out a first down on the Cleveland 28. Hutson took McKay's pass as he was smacked out of bounds on the 3. Fritsch went over in two tries and Hutson's kick made it 14 to 6. In the same period, the Packers got down to the 21 but finally lost the ball on the Cleveland 27.

Colella dashed 18 yards down the middle on the last play of the third quarter, an indication of what was to happen in the decisive last period. This put the ball on Cleveland's 43. Waterfield passed 14 yards to Benton on the first play. He missed on his next pitch, then sent a short one to Pritko who dashed to the 8. Pat West lost a yard then Colella took a screen pass, scoring behind a mass of interferers. Waterfield's kick put the Rams a point behind at 14 to 13.

Greenwood Makes It 20 to 14

On the first play after the kickoff, McKay fumbled and Roger Eason, Rams' end, recovered on the Green Bay 15. Greenwood hit for 3, Colella for 6, Waterfield for 2, and a first down on the 4. His lateral to Colella was good for 2 and it took two plunges by Greenwood to put it over at 8:45 of the last period. Waterfield's kick made it 20 to 14.

The Packers desperately started hurling passes and came to grief when little Albie Reisz picked off one of Comp's pitches on the Cleveland 40 and ran 55 yards to the champions' 5. Colella smashed the Packers' right side for a touchdown and Waterfield's kick made it 27 to 14.

On the last play of the game, Harvey Jones, former Baylor back, intercepted McKay's pass on the Cleveland 41 and ran to the Green Bay 6.

NELSON'S 259 AT SEATTLE BREAKS WORLD RECORD

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 14 (AP)—A new world record for a 72 hole competitive golf tournament was placed in the records of the Professional Golfers association today by Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., who battered Broadmoor's par for 62—68—63—66—259 in the $10,250 Seattle Open.

His 21 strokes under regulation figures earned Nelson $2,000 in war bonds. Harry Givan of Seattle, an amateur, and Harold McSpaden of Sanford, Me., finished second with 272, Givan stroking even par 70 today and McSpaden romping home in 67.

Nelson's great golf chopped two strokes off the record set two weeks ago by Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., in the Portland [Ore.] Open. Hogan took ninth here, winding up with 211—68—279.

Hawaii Air Forces Team Beats Navy All-Stars, 9-0

HONOLULU, Oct. 15 (AP)—The army air forces, boasting a squad of former All-Americans, defeated the navy All-Stars, 9 to 0, today in the opening game of the Hawaii Service Football conference.

Bill Dudley, formerly of Virginia and the Pittsburgh Steelers, stole a navy pass in the second period and raced 30 yards for a touchdown.

REDSKINS BEAT STEELERS, 14-0, AS BAUGH STARS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—Sammy Baugh passed the Redskins to a 14 to 0 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers today in a game that saw two other Washington touchdowns called back because of penalties. It was the 14th consecutive National league defeat for the Steelers.

Baugh teamed up with Frankie Filchock in putting on a passing show for the 14,050 damp and shivering spectators as the Redskins completed 20 out of 26 passes good for 227 yards.

Touchdown Called Back

Not until the final minutes of the second period did Washington break the deadlock and then they had to score twice to do it. An 18 yard pass from Baugh to Filchock, who went over from the 10, produced touchdown No. 1, but the play was called back for holding.

Pushed back to the Steeler 43, the Redskins started all over again, Les Dye receiving Baugh's short pass in the end zone for the touchdown. Joe Aguierre added the extra point.

On the second play of the final period, Sal Rosato went over from the 2 yard line for the second Redskin touchdown and Aguierre again kicked the extra point.

Steeler Attack Feeble

The Steelers rarely threatened as they racked up only six first downs to Washington's 22 and gained 218 yards to 487 for the Redskins.

Lions Score 28-24 Upset Over Eagles

Matheson grabbed the ball and ran 10 yards unmolested across the goal line.

Van Buren Scores for Eagles

Zimmerman's 41 yard pitch to Jack Ferrante set up an Eagle touchdown a few minutes after the second half opened. Two plays later Van Buren went around left end on a 26 yard touchdown jaunt, and Zimmerman again place kicked the extra point, giving the Philadelphia eleven a 17 to 14 margin.

The Lions came right back to regain the lead. Two long passes—Fenenbock to Matheson for 16 yards and Fenenbock to Johnny Greene for 26 yards—put the Lions on the 10. The Lions failed to gain in three tries and Fenenbock, chased back to midfield, whirled and threw a pass to Westfall deep in the end zone.

Greene Makes Final Tally

Cotton Price threw a 25 yard fourth period pass to Andy Farkas and then pitched a four yard toss to Greene in the end zone for Detroit's final touchdown.

In the waning minutes of the game Zimmerman flipped a 33 yard pass to Sonny Karnofsky on Detroit's 17. The Eagles picked up a first down to the 4 before Zimmerman rifled another pass to Ferrante for a touchdown. Zimmerman made his third extra point.

The Detroiters piled up nine first downs to the Eagles' eight and gained 125 yards on passes, completing seven of 25 tries. The Eagles picked up 100 yards on passing, completing eight in 21 attempts.

The celebration will continue thruout this week under a program developed by the pastors of the church, the Rev. Howard E. Spragg and the Rev. William N. Lovell. Dr. Neil Hansen, general director of the Chicago Congregation union, was the honor guest at an anniversary tea yesterday afternoon.

MASTER DOPES DOG; SMUGGLES IT FROM EUROPE

Boston, Mass., Oct. 14 (AP)—A soldier's story of how he "doped" his pet dog to smuggle him aboard and off a transport was related today when the S. S. Henry T. Gibbins docked with 2,400 army personnel, including 22 WACs, from Europe.

Capt. William Martin of Monroe, La., acquired an English bulldog while convalescing in England from battle fatigue.

The skipper of the Gibbins would not permit Capt. Martin to bring his dog aboard at Le Havre, France. So Capt. Martin gave his pet a hypodermic injection to keep him quiet, packed him in a cardboard box which he placed at the bottom of a barracks bag and carried him aboard ship.

Just before the ship docked today, the dog was given another "shot," again placed in the barracks bag and carried ashore. Once ashore, Capt. Martin lifted out his groggy pet, poured a pint of milk down its throat, and watched it return to normalcy.

BUILDING DAMS AIDS KAISER IN CLIMB TO FAME

Bands with Others to Win Contracts

(This is the second of a series of articles on Henry J. Kaiser's rise to an industrial giant.)

BY FRANK STURDY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 14—Before Henry Kaiser began to make headlines in the role of industrial messiah he had a record as a successful contractor on several of the biggest construction jobs in the west.

These were among the most spectacular dam and bridge building jobs before the war, and Kaiser had a share in them with a group of quiet but resourceful partners.

This group adopted the Six Companies, Inc., as its title, altho it was a numerical misnomer. Eight were included in the group, and they were all important contractors by 1931 when the government invited bids for construction of Boulder dam, at that time the biggest project of its kind ever undertaken.

Members of Contractor Group

The associates were:

Morrison-Knudsen company of Boise, Idaho, headed by Harry W. Morrison, general contractor and specialist in railroad construction.

MacDonald & Kahn, Inc., San Francisco, headed by the surviving partner, Felix Kahn, an engineer-contractor and constructor of large buildings.

W. A. Bechtel company, San Francisco, now operated by the sons of the original Six Companies partner, who was a general contractor and highway builder.

Henry J. Kaiser company of Oakland, Cal., principally a builder of highways.

Utah Construction company, Ogden, Utah, an old company well known for its railroad building in the 1870s and '80s.

J. F. Shea company, Los Angeles, headed by Gilbert J. Shea, whose brother was one of the original group.

Pacific Bridge company, Portland, Ore., headed by W. Gorrill Swigert.

General Construction company, Seattle, headed by J. A. MacEachern.

Group Wins Contract

Before the group was formed several combinations were considering submitting separate bids. Eventually they agreed to form a syndicate, and got together 5 million dollars with which to support their bid of $48,890,000. They won the contract.

Practically at the outset of the work, they disagreed. Frank Crowe, a dam building expert associated with the Utah and Morrison-Knudsen companies, was in general charge of the job, but he soon found himself swamped under conflicting orders from his principals. As one of the Six Companies members explained it:

"During the first three months, I was afraid we could not succeed. The danger was in our conflicting egos. Each one of us had been successful in his own business and believed firmly in the practices he had adopted to achieve his own success. We were constantly at loggerheads. We came to understand what the trouble was before it was too late, and agreed to submerge our personalities in the Six Companies. We followed this policy religiously for years. On Boulder and other jobs, when meetings got hot and personal, we adjourned for a cooling off period, then met again, and got together on our policies."

Obtains Quick Acceptance

Kaiser's talent for dealing with government bureaus paid dividends when the job was finished and he got all the detailed negotiations concluded, with formal government acceptance of the work, in less than six months. This meant the Six Companies obtained without further delay an item of several millions of dollars the government had withheld as a guarantee of completion.

The group's next big venture was Bonneville dam. Kaiser sponsored the job. Two members of the Six Companies, Shea and MacEachern, entered a competing bid, but lost. Later Shea and MacEachern won the contract for Bonneville's power house from the Kaiser group.

This illustrates a facet of the Six Companies procedure that is extraordinary. Their association was loose. When it appeared advantageous, they joined to bid a contract, but each member was free to undertake any job he chose to try alone.

Include Opposing Group

Their first major mistake occurred in bidding for the basic contracts for Grand Coulee dam on the Columbia. They were underbid 5 million dollars by a group consisting of Silas Mason company of New York, Walsh Construction company, Davenport, Ia., and Atkinson-Kier of San Francisco. When the second stage of the work, power houses, spillways, and various other projects, came up for bidding, Six Companies included the opposing group for a half interest, and bid the contract in for $40,900,000.

They were not always successful. In the boring of the Broadway tunnel, a highway pass in the Oakland hills, they ran into unexpected and difficult subterranean formations and lost more than 2 millions.

When the group failed to land the Shasta dam contract in 1939, Kaiser took the lead in bidding for a contract for cement, sand, and gravel for the project, a separate bid. For years, the west coast cement business had been dominated by a combine that usually submitted identical bids on government work. Kaiser, whose forte was the handling of big quantities of building aggregates, believed he had suffered for years from cement prices, and undertook to bid the cement contract without a quarry or a cement plant. His bid was lower than the combine's by 30 cents a barrel.

Builds Own Cement Plant

In the Santa Clara valley, near Palo Alto, Cal., he erected a highly efficient, modern cement plant called Permanente, and had it operating in six months. Nearby, he bought a vast acreage in the mountains estimated by his drillers to contain a 50 year supply of limestone. Electric scoop shovels have already made big dents in the hillsides to supply Shasta dam, and send vast quantities of cement to the Pacific islands for army and navy fortifications, roads, and airports.

During the war, the partners branched out in all directions. Kaiser's expedition into ship building has been ballyhooed. The works of the others have obtained little notice.

Dissension has sometimes rifted the relationships of the Six Companies partners, particularly over the wisdom of some of Kaiser's ventures into manufacturing activities in which the group had no experience. Their formula for resolving disagreements was simple: Any member not wishing a share in a project stayed out. That explains why Kaiser is playing a lone hand in the steel business, and appears to be destined to follow his automobile, pre-fabricated house, helicopter, and household gadget ambitions without Six Companies assistance.

"GOOD DELIVERY"

I understand that under some conditions stock certificates are not a "good delivery" on sales thru stock exchange firms by the legally qualified holder. What are the requirements? —O. B.

A stock certificate to be a good delivery against sales on a stock exchange must be in the name of an individual or stock exchange member firm. If it is in an individual's name, the indorsement must be guaranteed by a member firm. Stocks standing in the name of a corporation, an association, a decedent, or an administrator, executor, or trustee of an estate are not good deliveries even tho supporting documents accompany the certificates.

Stocks so registered must first be presented to the transfer office for transfer into a "good delivery name," usually that of the member firm thru which they have been, or are to be, sold. Member firms usually handle such details for customers.

If stocks in the name of a decedent or an estate are to be transferred, the transfer agent must be supplied with a certified copy of the will, evidence of authority from the probate court, usually waivers from state officials concerned with the collection of taxes and fees, and perhaps other documents. Requirements vary in accordance with state laws. Stocks issued in joint tenancy must be indorsed by all tenants.

PURE OIL SHOWS MODEL FOR NEW SERVICE STATION

Pure Oil company yesterday exhibited a scale model of its proposed post-war service station, which will have more sales space, added products, and new service features, company spokesmen said. The blue and white cottage type design will be retained.

Sales and office room will be doubled. The display window will be 14 feet wide and doors 5 feet wide. In addition to tires, batteries, and other auto accessories, a few product innovations such as automobile radios will be sold.

The repair and service section will have a stall for washing and lubrication about one-third larger than the present standard. An innovation will be a 4 foot high splash wall, with glass above, which will separate the wash rack from the car lift. At least 6 feet of the wash rack will be level to facilitate service work on cars when the stall is not used for washing.

NEW PRODUCTS MAINTAIN JOBS IN 2 BIG FIRMS

Twin Cities Plants Rush Conversion

BY ANTHONY WIRRY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 14—New products planned or already in production were announced today by heads of two large Minneapolis industrial corporations. General Mills, Inc., producer of flour, packaged foods and animal feeds, is entering the home appliance field. Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company is adding to its regular line of home and factory heating controls such varied products as an electronic automatic pilot, aircraft remote control instruments, diesel locomotive controls, and an electronic journal box warning system to avoid "hot boxes" on railroad cars.

Discussing reconversion progress with 18 newspaper reporters on a tour of principal industrial centers, Harry A. Bullis, General Mills president, said the company's first new products will be an electric iron and two models of a non-electric pressure saucepan, both to be in production by Christmas. Later the company will make a magnetic motor coffee maker and other items.

Will Employ War Skills

Bullis said the company faced no serious reconversion problems, most of its war production having been concentrated in its food lines. He said General Mills was entering the appliance field to keep its full time labor force of 10,500 persons, to share in the prospective large business in this field, and to fully employ the technical skills and facilities developed during the war.

He said the new iron would rest on its side instead of on end between ironing operations, with less danger of tipping. The saucepan was described as a self-sealing type, and the coffee maker was said to be an improvement over existing types because the water does not boil.

Harold W. Sweatt, president of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator, said that company has the largest backlog of orders in its history, but reconversion has been retarded by "government red tape," materials shortages, and the necessity of retraining employes. When these obstacles have been overcome, the company hopes to employ 7,125 persons in Minneapolis, almost double its 1939 employment of 3,600.

Machinery Purchase Delayed

Sweatt said "red tape" is complicating reconversion because it is slowing down the purchase of government owned machinery which was moved into the plant to make war products.

The company wishes to buy between 4,000 and 5,000 of the machine tools at a cost of about $750,000, he said. Obtaining materials is a problem because the company uses a large variety of metals and metal alloys. One of the most important is brass, and its supply is dwindling steadily because of strikes in brass mills, Sweatt said. He estimated current stocks would last only a week or two.

Retraining of workers is necessary because labor turnover was large and war time operations were much different than peace time work. Union seniority regulations also require shifts of workers from one department to another.

Other reconversion problems such as renegotiation of profits, contract terminations, man power, and wage demands have not presented serious difficulties, Sweatt said.

The company, producer of $184,537,268 of war goods, operates two plants in Minneapolis, one in Chicago, one in Wabash, Ind., and one in Philadelphia, Pa.

People and Events

Labor problems will be discussed by Frederick H. Harbison, secretary of the University of Chicago industrial relations center, at a luncheon of the Investment Analysts' club today in Marshall Field & Co.'s English room.

H. Marvin Castle and Lon D. Barton, co-partners of Castle, Barton and Associates, announced the opening of Lincoln Employment agency at 412 S. Dearborn st.

Appointment of A. E. Welch as executive vice president and treasurer of Aireon Manufacturing corporation's electronics and hydraulics divisions was announced by R. C. Walker, president.

Nellis P. Parkinson, Illinois director of insurance, will address a meeting of the Insurance Brokers' Association of Illinois tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Chicago Board of Underwriters, 175 W. Jackson blvd.

Application of new engineering practices to dam construction will be discussed tonight at a meeting of the Western Society of Engineers by Lt. Col. E. J. Wanless, army engineers corps.

Military Need Bars Pleasure Travel by Rail

Military railway movements will not reach their peak until January, Hugh W. Siddall, chairman of the interterritorial military bureau and of the Western and Transcontinental Passenger Associations, predicted yesterday. His statement was offered in explaining why railroads have not matched the air lines in "encouraging pleasure travel."

The volume of troop movements remains heavy, he said, largely as a result of mass discharges and reprocessing.

Conditions Not Comparable

"The situation of the railroads, therefore, is not at all comparable to that of the air lines," he said. "Their reconversion is relatively simple with the transition from war time use to peaceful transportation."

The railroads' interest in future possibilities is evidenced by their unprecedented orders for equipment and in numerous plans for speeding schedules, asserted Siddall. Railroad suppliers have a record number of orders on their books. Dieselization of passenger service is progressing rapidly.

Lower Fares a Possibility

Railroads may be in a better position to encourage passenger travel after the first of the year as military traffic declines, he said.

Lower railroad fares may be a 1946 development, Siddall indicated, tho to what extent such adjustments may materialize is not predictable yet.

OUTPUT OF NEW STRATOSPHERE PLANE TO START

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Alfred Marchev, president of Republic Aviation corporation, announced today completion of plans for the production for Pan American World Airways of the Rainbow, transport plane designed to cruise thru the stratosphere at nearly seven miles a minute.

Marchev said the Rainbows will fly from New York to London in nine hours and from New York to Los Angeles in about six hours. Delivery of the first six planes ordered by Pan American is expected to start within 22 months.

The Rainbows will accommodate 40 passengers and crew and be air conditioned for flight above the weather at 40,000 feet cruising levels. They will cost approximately $1,250,000 each.

I. C. Speeds Schedules for Frate 1 to 24 Hours

Extensive adjustment of principal frate train schedules to provide faster deliveries thruout the 14 Mississippi valley states served by the Illinois Central system was announced by Oscar L. Grisamore, frate traffic manager, effective today. Later departures, earlier arrivals, and closer connections provide savings of one to 24 hours.

SCHEDULE OF STEEL MILLS DISRUPTED BY STRIKES, BIG DEMAND

Cleveland, O., Oct. 14 (AP)—Restricted production caused by labor disturbances, coupled with heavy demand, has disrupted steel mill schedules, the trade publication Steel said today. Some mills are four to six weeks behind on current shipments and backlogs continue to increase in spite of the fact that orders have leveled off somewhat because of unsettled labor conditions.

Rationing by steelmakers is becoming prevalent with quotas established in some cases and all orders being carefully scrutinized. Some sellers are virtually out of the market temporarily, unable to offer "anything even suggestive of a firm delivery promise."

Johns-Manville Vet Job Plan Is Given Top Rating

Johns-Manville corporation was announced yesterday as winner of a national contest conducted by Forbes magazine, business journal, for "the best company plans for handling returned service men." The Texas company was second and Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company third.

THE B. F. GOODRICH CHEMICAL COMPANY

LOUISVILLE

RECONVERSION is a big word today, but it is a word that isn't used in the Louisville Geon Plant of the B. F. Goodrich Chemical Company. This plant is one of the largest synthetic resin plants in the country, manufacturing Geon raw materials in the form of powdered resin, plastic granules, and latex liquid, and marketing them to other manufacturers for processing into semi-finished or finished products.

Early in the war, in answer to the needs of the Army and Navy for insulating material to replace rubber which was our most critical war material, Geon was used in manufacturing various types of electrical wire and cable.

Not only did Geon serve in the wire and cable field, but these plastics were used in making Army raincoats, Navy foul weather suits, instruments cases, gun covers, ponchos, tents, ground clothes, water bags, bunk bottoms, and numerous other items which helped the serviceman combat his second enemy—nature, by keeping him dry, and protecting his weapons and gear from corrosion.

These are a few of the Geon war developments, and they mean that now virtually all homes, offices, and industries will be improved by the use of plastics. It is a fact that polyvinyl chloride, used in the manufacture of military products, is the same material which will be used for products of plastic which will appear on the shelves in the post-war civilian world. For this reason the Louisville plant will need to go through no reconversion process in turning back to civilian production.

With Geon's war job done, the plant in Louisville will go on producing Geon resins, plastics and latex—only for peacetime comfort, practicality, and beauty. There are tremendous, unlimited potentialities, some as yet undiscovered, for the future plastics industry. The demand will be great, and men are and will be needed to supply it. It is a field for returning war veterans and for war workers. It is a young man's business with a secure future.

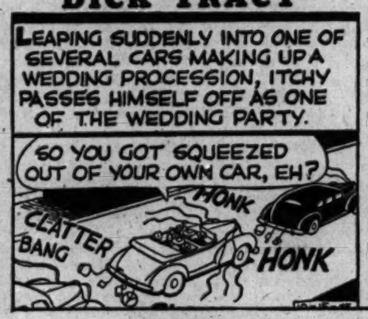
DICK TRACY



TERRY

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Sally Colen, 1348 Winnemac av.]

THE QUESTION

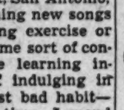
If you were to criticize yourself what would your main fault be?

WHERE ASKED

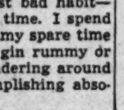
Oriental theater [asked of Jimmy Dorsey and orchestra].

THE ANSWERS

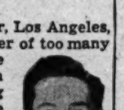
Jimmy Dorsey, Toluca lake, North Hollywood, Cal.—I like to get letters but I don't like to write them. I think women especially would much rather have a letter than a telephone call or a telegram. But detesting the job as I do, I neglect to answer mail with letters. I send a short wire instead.



Dick Culver, vocalist, San Antonio, Tex.—I could be learning new songs or getting exercise or doing some sort of constructive learning instead of indulging in my worst bad habit—wasting time. I spend most of my spare time playing gin rummy or just wandering around here and there accomplishing absolutely nothing.

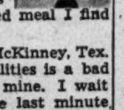


Karl Kiffe, drummer, Los Angeles, Cal.—It's a little matter of too many dishes of chocolate ice cream with me each day. There's something about chocolate ice cream that attracts me and I have the bad habit of eating too much. It spoils my appetite, and when it's time to eat a balanced meal I find I can't.



Herb Ellis, guitar, McKinney, Tex.—Shunning responsibilities is a bad fault of mine. I wait until the last minute to pay my insurance and bills, neglect writing letters and returning phone calls. I have subconsciously adopted the very bad habit, "Don't do today what you can do tomorrow or the next day."

Hy Mandell, saxophone, Brooklyn, N. Y.—Just about every night I go out and listen to small bands, watch late shows, and eat food that shouldn't agree with any one. I don't like to go to bed at night. Consequently not getting enough sleep when I should makes me want to sleep when I shouldn't.



Sonny Lee, trombone, Hollywood, Cal.—I live too high for the salary I make. I enjoy the best things of life instead of being a little bit conservative. As long as I've got $2 in my pocket I can't wait until I spend it. My worst fault is not saving enough money for every day emergencies or for my old age.

LEGAL NOTICES

PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY CO.
INVITATION FOR BIDS FOR PROMISSORY NOTES ISSUED UNDER A CONDITIONAL SALES AGREEMENT.

Pursuant to the regulations prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in Docket Ex Parte No. 54, Pere Marquette Railway Company [hereinafter called the "Railway Company"] hereby invites bids for the lowest interest rate at which the bidder will provide $467,800 for financing in part the purchase by the Railway Company of two (2) new 2,000 horsepower Diesel passenger locomotives, and three (3) new 1,000-horsepower Diesel switching locomotives, to be manufactured by Electro-Motive Division, General Motors Corporation, at an aggregate estimated cost of $585,977.70.

The successful bidder will become the assignee of the Manufacturer under an assignment agreement which will assign and transfer to the assignee title to all of the locomotives and all of the Manufacturer's interest in the conditional sales agreement, and will provide that the Manufacturer will transfer and deliver said promissory notes, upon receiving the same from the Railway Company, by endorsement without recourse to the assignee against payment by such assignee to the Manufacturer of the principal amount of said promissory notes, with interest to the date of such payment. Under the assignment agreement neither the promissory notes nor the conditional sales agreement can be sold or disposed of separately from the other.

The conditional sales agreement and the assignment agreement shall apply only to such of the locomotives as are delivered and accepted by the Railway Company on or before February 1, 1946, and shall be inoperative as to any locomotive not delivered and accepted by that date.

Bids shall be submitted on the form available upon application at the office of the undersigned and all the information required in said form must be submitted. Each bid must be enclosed in a plain envelope securely sealed, bearing no indication of the name of the bidder or the amount of the bid, and shall be marked "Bid under proposed Serial Contract No. 14," and shall be addressed to the undersigned at his office at 3400 Terminal Tower, Cleveland 1, Ohio. All bids must be received on or before twelve o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, October 22, 1945. Bids so received will be opened by the undersigned, or by his absence by A. M. Waldron, Assistant Treasurer, at said office immediately after twelve o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, October 22, 1945.

All bids are to be submitted subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the acceptance of the Railway Company of the said promissory notes. The Company reserves the right to reject any and all bids, if two or more bids shall show an identical rate of interest, the successful bidder (unless the Railway Company shall reject all bids) will be chosen by lot. Notice of acceptance of the most favorable bid, subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will be given orally, or by telephone or telegraph, to the successful bidder not later than three o'clock P. M., Eastern Standard Time, October 22, 1945.

Copies of the proposed form of Conditional Sales Agreement, Assignment Agreement, and the form for submission of bids, are available upon application at the office of the undersigned.

Secretary and Treasurer,
Pere Marquette Railway Company,
3400 Terminal Tower,
